ERZBERGER KILLING FORMS A SERIOUS POLITICAL CRISIS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—This week is expected to determine the of the German republic, for it will see a settlement one way other of the conflict between the national government and of Bavaria, which has been one of the sore spots of German political life.

The question to be decided is whether the authority of the Berlin government shall prevail over the reactionary Bavarian administration. From their stronghold at Munich the Extreme Nationalists, monarchists and reactionaries have been hurling defiance at the republican government at Berlin and the entire Germany democracy. Erzberger's assassination, the political turmoil which followed, the suppression of reactionary newspapers and the prohibition of meetings and demonstrations have brought the whole situation to a head to such an extent that there is no way of retreat left to the Wirth government. The government must either compel Bavaria to submit to national authority or concede defeat and inability to rule Germany.

CHANGING MARTIAL LAW.

The whole question now revolves around lifting the state of martial law in Bavaria, which has involved Germany in danger of a civil war. Dr. Wirth, who is supported by a majority of his own party, all Socialists and Democrats, has taken the bull by the horns and stated his position so clearly as to leave no room for doubt. Addressing the special emergency committee of the Reichstag last week he said:

"Should it come to a conflict between the reactionaries and the bourgeoisie on the one side and the proletariat on the other I'll take my side with the proletariat."

The Chancellor follows this declaration with a series of statements in which he declares that the government means business, is determined to restore a democratic civil rule throughout Germany and will not hesitate to do everything necessary to bring this about.

WIRTH IS SERIOUS.

That Dr. Wirth is serious in his intention appears to be certain.

Vorwaerts prints a "warning to Bavaria" in which this leading Socialist organ, without going into details, asserts that the Socialist trades unions already have prepared a definite plan to compel Bavaria to submit should the meeting of the Bavarian cabinet refuse to comply with Wirth's demands.

The Socialist trade unions, it is learned, intend to isolate Southern Bavaria from the rest of Germany by stopping trains bound to Bavaria, virtually starting a siege by democracy against the citadel of reaction. Democracy is now distinctly in a fighting mood and is determined not to put up with Munich's defiance any longer. Indications, however, are that Munich will yield. Without being dictatorial, Dr. Wirth has been sufficiently firm before the committee at which representatives of the Bavarian government were present, to convince them

SINN FEINER IS "IN BAD."

War on Ulster is Demanded.

Dail Eireann Tries to Give New Version to O'Duffy's Radical Address.

Cat Let Out of Bag Regarding Republican Intentions; Advocates Shooting.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUBLIN, Sept. 5.—Attention of the Sinn Fein publicity department today was called to the address at Armagh yesterday of Owen O'Duffy, chief Sinn Fein liaison officer in Ulster, in which he was quoted as advocating coercion of Ulster. It was asked whether O'Duffy's speech had the approval of the Dail Eireann.

Eamonn De Valera, Irish Republican leader, and other Sinn Fein chiefs, were consulted, after which the following statement was issued:

"The Dail Eireann does not propose to use coercion against northeast Ulster any more than it proposes to submit to coercion itself. Mr. O'Duffy's statement refers to the defense of the national minority at Belfast, who last week were wantonly shot down by organized and directed Orange gangs, which were permitted to act for two days without interference from either local or British authorities. Coercion will not be applied by us to a disobedient minority, but it is not proposed that that minority should be permitted to use firearms with impunity against our people resident among them."

Evening newspapers today announced that O'Duffy has started a tour of the south of Ireland, but that he says he will return to Belfast immediately should necessity arise for his presence.

It is suggested here that Mr. O'Duffy has been transferred because of his speech in Armagh.

O'DUFFY TALKS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BELFAST, Sept. 5.—The speech at Armagh yesterday of Michael Collins, Sinn Fein Minister of Finance and commander-in-chief of the Irish republican army, has been eclipsed in interest in Belfast by the remarkable declaration at the same meeting of Owen O'Duffy, chief Sinn Fein liaison officer for Ulster.

O'Duffy said the Sinn Fein would have to put the screws on Ulster. The Sinn Fein would have to tighten the screw, he declared, and if necessary, would have to use lead against the Ulsterites. O'Duffy said he did not make that statement as a threat, but as he had bid before, those people must not be allowed to stand in the way of the march of a nation.

MAKES THREATS.

Belfast, O'Duffy continued, was partially bankrupt, and if people in Belfast continued to ally themselves with the enemies of Ireland, it might be necessary for a time to cut off Belfast absolutely from the rest of Ireland. If so cut off, he declared, Belfast would be a deserted city in three months.

The Sinn Feiners, O'Duffy said, were told it was not right to use force against the people of the north, and that was so. They did not like to use force against them; they did not want to give medicine Promises of Great Profits the Lorelei That Drew Money Martens's Way.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REVAL, Sept. 5.—The story of how Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, former Ambassador of the Russian soviet government to the United States, fooled hard-headed American business men into furthering his objects, was made known here today by Emmerson P. Jennings, president of the American Commercial Association to Promote Trade With Russia.

The story discloses for the first time the source of much of the supply of money with which Martens conducted his affairs in America, and with which he put up a long and hard fight against expulsion.

The hard-headed American business men, members of Mr. Jennings's association, put up that money, Mr. Jennings says so, and in so saying he gives out news which many Federal agents, the lusk committee in New York, and a joint investigating committee of the Senate and House of Representatives failed to learn after weeks of inquiry.

SEE HUGE PROFITS.

The business men, of whom Mr. Jennings was, by his own statement, one of the principal ones, were inspired to aid the soviet Ambassador financially by his thrilling promises of huge contracts with the soviet government and great profits.

"After having put up much money for Martens, Mr. Jennings, whose own firm, the Lehigh Machine Company, manufacturers of printing machinery at Lehighton, Pa., had a contract signed by Martens in behalf of the soviet government for $4,500,000 worth of machinery, went to Moscow, Russia, to collect first payment on the contract. Martens told him, it appears, the money would be waiting for him there.

But it wasn't. Furthermore, Mr. Jennings couldn't arouse any enthusiasm among soviet officials about getting the cash for him.

"Having spent more than six months in Russia, from Dec. 10, 1920, to June 30, 1921, representing nine other manufacturing interests, I have prepared a report on conditions, possibilities and prospects for business," he said. "Many of the members of our association received definite orders totalling many millions of dollars from Mar-

FIND BODIES OF MISSING AVIATORS.

Four of Crew En Route to Coal Fields Killed, Fifth in Dying Condition.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHARLESTON (W. Va.) Sept. 5 The bodies of four of the five members of the crew of the government Martin bombing plane No. 5, from Langley Field, Va., were found today on the north side of Twenty-Mile Creek, ten miles southwest of Summerville, and the fifth aviator is enroute to Charleston in a serious condition, according to information received tonight by Major Davenport Johnson, in charge of the Army air forces here.

The dead are:

LIEUT. HARRY L. SPECK, pilot, Medford, Or.

LIEUT. W. S. FITZPATRICK, observer, Medford, Or.

SERGT. ARTHUR R. BROWN, Kentucky.

PRIVATE WALTER B. HOWARD, San Francisco.

Corp. Alexander C. Hazelton, Wilmington, Del.

Little chance for the recovery of Corp. Hazelton was expressed by physicians.

The wrecked airplane was discovered by Ben Hughes, after a two-day search participated in by hundreds of residents, as well as airplanes.

Hughes reported to Maj. Johnson that he had heard groans while searching in a heavily wooded and rugged section. Following the direction of the sounds, he said, he discovered the wrecked machine, the nose of which had buried itself in the ground.

Those who examined the wrecked machine expressed the opinion that the crash had been followed by an explosion of gasoline which enveloped the plane in flames.

Whites Disperse Negro Meeting; Building Fired

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—Armed with shotguns and rifles, more than fifty white citizens of Gretna, a suburb, tonight marched on a negro hall where an indignation meeting in protest against the beating of several negroes this afternoon was held. One negro is reported dead. The trouble started at a ball game, at which a number of white persons were spectators.

At 11 o'clock the building in which the meeting was held was a mass of flames and could be seen from the city proper. The exact number of negroes in the building at the time of the meeting has not been determined.

Police here are held ready to answer any call from Gretna, which is across the river from the city proper. The Sheriff of Jefferson parish has sent every available deputy to Gretna with orders to shoot to kill in the event that mob violence is threatened, according to reports.

Several shots were fired in an effort to disperse the crowd, which threatened to invade the negro district at a late hour, but apparently lacked a leader. Four arrests have been made.

Congressman Herrick Regrets It.

Miss Anna Niebel. Congressman Herrick.

Beautiful Washington girl who figured in recent episode and inset of man who started it. Congressman Herrick recently introduced a bill in Congress to prohibit beauty contests. To Miss Niebel he said he was running his own beauty contests with his love as the prize to the lucky one.

HERRICK FORCED INTO SECLUSION.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Congressman Manuel Herrick of Oklahoma who introduced a bill to forbid beauty contests and conducted a beauty contest himself with letters to Washington girls which set the nation's capital agog, has been forced into seclusion expedited by eight indignant mothers, two angry husbands and one irate father of contestants to whom he had offered his "whole soul love."

"The descendant of a scion of a noble French family whose political power was broken by Napoleon; a man who eight years hence at least will be the greatest man in the world, sitting in the President's chair," his letters to the girls said in describing his own perfections.

The Congressman now declares he wouldn't marry any of the girls who answered his letters. "I was merely gathering evidence," he says, "to lay before the committee on judiciary when my bill to help such girls by prohibiting beauty contests comes up. If I ever think of marrying now I'll go abroad."

FAMILY OF SEVEN KILLED.

Father Believed to Have Murdered Wife and Children and Then to Have Ended Own Life.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ORMSBY (Minn.) Sept. 5.—A family of seven—the father, mother and five children—were found shot to death in their home here today, apparently the victims of the father, Frank Klocow, a business man. The bodies were discovered shortly after 4 p.m., but the Coroner expressed the belief they met their death yesterday morning.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Klocow the dead are Fred Klocow, 16 years old; Myrtle, 14; Glen, 12; Oliver, 10, and Leland, 3.

All had been shot by a revolver as they lay in bed, and there were indications an anaesthetic had been used beforehand. The revolver was found under Klocow's left arm. Coroner Thompson, after an investigation, declared Klocow had killed his family and then himself.

RESIGNED POSITION.

Klocow was 49 years old, and until six weeks ago was cashier of the Farmers' State Bank of Ormsby, but resigned. He had refused to give the bank officials any reason for his resignation. They declared his accounts were satisfactory.

Neighbors and other friends could give no possible reason for the shooting. Temporary insanity is the only explanation friends make.

When Mrs. Albert Strelow went to the Klocow home today on an errand, she found pinned to the back door, a note, reading: "Walk in."

HOUSE IS ENTERED.

Entering the living-room she saw Myrtle lying on a cot. Glancing into the adjoining bedroom she saw Klocow in bed, apparently asleep, his face toward her. In bed also were Mrs. Klocow and Leland.

The three older boys were found in their beds upstairs. They and Myrtle had been shot twice, as had Mrs. Klocow, while the baby and Klocow had been shot once

On the floor were ten exploded cartridges, and in the five-chamber revolver were two exploded and three unexploded cartridges. A letter found on a table was addressed to Henry Klocow, a brother, at Estherville, Iowa.

Two Hurt in Early-Morning Auto Crash

One man was seriously injured and another badly cut early this morning when an automobile going at a terrific rate of speed drove the car in which the men were riding into a third machine on West Adams street and Eighth avenue. The most seriously injured was Henry Harloff of 1684 Cordova street, who received a fractured skull. The other was the driver of the machine, J. J. McInerny of 1655 Cordova street, a contractor.

According to the report of the police, McInerny was driving east on Adams street when the speeding car grazed his machine, forcing him toward the curb just in time to strike the machine of John French of 1573 Putney avenue, Graham Station. The impact wrecked the McInerny car and injured the two men.

WOMAN NABS SUSPECTS

Surprising two reputed burglars outside her home yesterday, Mrs. W. J. Petermicel of Mission Acres, near San Fernando, held for an hour, single-handed, Frank De Loise and Y. Yamato until the officers arrived. She then turned the men over to the police and went about her housework, declaring she "couldn't be bothered." Mrs. Petermicel says she found the two men standing outside a window that had been broken and used as an entrance and exit.

FLEES IN SIGHT OF PRESIDENT'S BROTHER-IN-LAW

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Sept. 5.—Under the eyes of Heber H. Votaw, superintendent of Federal prisons and brother-in-law of President Harding, three convicts in the McNeil Island penitentiary today made a dash for liberty, with the result that one is dead, another seriously wounded and the third, Roy Gardner, California mail bandit, is at large, believed to be in hiding on the island.

Everett Impyn and Lawardus Bogart, Camp Lewis soldiers recently sentenced to life imprisonment for a statutory offense, were shot down by the guards. Impyn was instantly killed. Bogart is in the prison hospital literally riddled with buckshot.

ON INSPECTION TOUR.

Superintendent Votaw arrived at the prison this morning at 9 o'clock on a trip of inspection and two and a half hours later witnessed the dash for liberty.

Telephone advices from McNeil island state that the break of Roy Gardner and his companions occurred at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. The convicts had been given a holiday for Labor Day and about 250 of them were watching a baseball game between two prison teams.

Gardner, Impyn and Bogart had contrived to seat themselves together at the extreme rear of the crowd of spectators. They had evidently made careful preparations for the attempt and timed their movements to the second. They waited until a tense point had been reached in the ball game and then suddenly bolted.

GARDNER FLEETEST.

Gardner was the fleetest of the three and reached the barbed wire several yards in advance of his companions. He had stolen a pair of pliers from the prison tool shop and whipping these from his pocket, he used them so quickly that he had cut an opening through the fence before his escape was noticed, the prison officials stated.

Impyn and Bogart, however, had scarcely got away from the crowd before the guards saw them. In an instant pandemonium reigned. Half a dozen guards opened fire on the fugitives while the rest of the officers directed their attention to keeping in check the prisoners, many of whom, seeing the gap in the fence, started to surge toward it.

Impyn and Bogart fell at the very threshold of liberty but Gardner wormed his way through the hole in the fence and sprinted for the woods, braving a fusillade of bullets from the guards' guns.

It is only a short distance from the baseball field to the woods and Gardner quickly disappeared.

AIDED BY CATTLE.

Gardner's escape, according to advices from McNeil Island tonight, was aided by a herd of cattle which were grazing just outside the prison walls. Gardner dashed into the herd and caused a stampede, of which he took advantage, protecting himself from the guards' fire by keeping among the fleeing cattle.

Gardner continued his flight to a clump of trees about a mile from the prison. Guards set fire to the woods in an effort to smoke him out. This gave rise to reports that the penitentiary buildings were burning.

Several of the guards believe Gardner was wounded in his dash across the field, but the majority are of the opinion that he escaped unscathed, as they were unable to pick up any trail of blood.

NOT ON ISLAND.

Warden Maloney believes it possible that Gardner may have had confederates waiting outside and that they spirited him away in a boat. This theory is borne out by the fact that no trace has been found of him since his escape, although posses have covered virtually every square yard of ground on the small island.

EXPECT BIG MAN HUNT.

If Gardner has reached the Olympic Peninsula, the authorities expect as sensational a man hunt as that which they pursued last June when Gardner escaped from deputy United States marshals at Castle Rock, Wash., while en route to McNeil Island.

McNeil Island is located on an arm of Puget Sound about eight miles southwest of Tacoma, Wash. It is heavily wooded over practically its entire surface. The channel separating the island from the mainland is about a mile across at the narrowest point.

In the history of the island, it was

TRIO ESCAPE IN TOLEDO.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOLEDO (O.) Sept. 5.—Three of the million-dollar Toledo postoffice robber band escaped from the Lucas County Jail this afternoon after overpowering a turnkey, Deputy Sam Zimmerman and Jail Physician Dr. William Shapiro. The escape was made without revolvers or the aid of outside confederates. Dr. Shapiro foiled the escape of the other eight members of the ring by leaping into a cell with corridor keys and locking the door.

The bandits who got away are George Rogers, alias Lewis, ringleader of the band; Charlie Schultz and Joe Urbaytis, driver of the robbers' car.

HEAR A SCUFFLE.

Zimmerman, Dr. Shapiro and Dr. J. C. Allred of Dayton, Ohio, a guest of the prison physician, were sitting in the jail office when they heard a scuffle and then groans from the second floor corridor, where the robbers were held awaiting sentence. Zimmerman and Shapiro dashed up the stairs where they found Turnkey Szmetko unconscious. Handing the cell keys to the physician on the stairs behind him, Zimmerman dove into the bandits. Urbaytis swung a bunk strap, to which a hammock hook had been fastened against the deputy's head and knocked him unconscious. The three bandits then made their way to the office, slugged Dr. Allred and ran into the street, one of them picking up a revolver from a desk as he fled.

Reaching Spellbusch avenue, they compelled the driver of a passing automobile to stop and with the pistol pressed against him to speed away.

POLICE ALARM TURNED IN.

A general police alarm was sounded and deputy Sheriffs in high powered cars are combing the district.

Rogers escaped from the fifth story of the County Jail in San Francisco three years ago while under a life sentence for manslaughter.

The million-dollar robbery occurred February 17. The robbers drove to the loading platform in the rear of the central postoffice, compelled the workers to lie face downwards on the platform and fled with the registered mailsacks.

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY OPENS.

Dutch Minister of Foreign Affairs Elected Chairman, Argentina Absent.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—The second assembly of the League of Nations met today in an atmosphere of optimism and with as much enthusiasm as might reasonably be expected from so sober a body. It was demonstrated that the popular branch of the League was meeting free from a prearranged program. The assembly heard the opening address of Dr. Wellington Koo of China without having any idea as to who would be selected permanent president.

The only business transacted in the morning was the election of a committee on credentials and it was not until the luncheon recess that the delegates could exchange notes as to their choice of a presiding officer. South America came forward with Dr. Gastoa Da Cunha of Brazil and Dr. Juan Carlos Blanco, Uruguayan Minister at Paris, while there was an important movement in favor of H. A. Van Karnebeek, Dutch Minister of Foreign Affairs, who was eventually elected.

Count Mensdorff of Austria, and Theodor Panaretoff, former Bulgarian Minister at Washington, who represented Bulgaria pending the arrival of M. Stambulwsky, the Premier, and Bishop Noli of Albania, two members of the League, were the object of attention when Dr. Nansen welcomed them to the Assembly. Count Manadorff was named on the committee on credentials.

MANY WOMEN PRESENT.

Women were well represented in the delegations. They included Mlle Millard of France, Christine Lundt of Norway, Henni Torchenius of Denmark; Mlle. Bacaresco of Rumania; Bibath Kosha, Siam, and Mme. Wicksell, Sweden.

The United States had a larger representation than any other country except Switzerland, but it was in the galleries. The secretariat had been deluged with requests from Americans visiting Switzerland for cards of admission, but could grant only thirty-five, of which two were present as unofficial observers. They were Edward Cummings, general secretary of the World Peace Foundation, and Judge George W. Anderson of Boston.

Other Americans present were David Jayne Hill, former Ambassador to Germany; Frank A. Vanderlip, and Miss Jane Addams.

ARGENTINA ABSENT.

Dr. Koo reflected the general feling when he said that the Assembly not having to start at the beginning would be able to get through its work quicker than last year. There was an impressive silence when the secretary reached Argentina on the roll call, and inquiring glances were exchanged when Pan-America, Haiti, Honduras and Guatemala failed to respond to their names.

President Van Karnebeek made a brief speech of thanks after his election. He declared the league would succeed only if it had the co-operation of the big men and leading statesmen.

HUGE ARCH OF FRIENDSHIP TO BE DEDICATED TODAY.

Hundred Years of Peace Between United States and Canada Bring Ceremonies Marking Event.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BLAINE (Wash.) Sept. 5.—More than 100 years of peace between Canada and the United States—100 years without fortifications or armies along 3000 miles of border—will be commemorated tomorrow with the dedication of the Peace Portal, a huge arch of steel and cement, on the international baundary line near here.

At the same time the Pacific highway, running from Vancouver, B. C., to Tijuana, Lower California, will be formally dedicated with elaborate ceremonies. The highway, which is now practically completed, with the exception of paving certain stretches, is nearly 2000 miles long and traverses the States of Oregon, Washington and California. Every mile of the road will be paved by 1926, according to present plans.

SPANS BORDER LINE.

The Peace Portal, constructed by the Pacific Highway Association in accord with an act of Parliament and an order in council, rests half on Canadian and half on American soil. Of Grecian Doric type, it has been pronounced of surpassing beauty. On the plinth of the south side are inscribed the words: "Children of a Common Mother;" on the north side the legend runs: "Brethren Dwelling Together in Unity." On the interior, below one of the doors, are inscribed the words: "Open for One Hundred Years;" below the other door are the words: "May These Doors Never Be Closed."

On each side of the portal a park has been designed, and gardeners have been engaged for weeks in beautifying these strips. The structure bears two flag poles, from one of which the flag of Great Britain will fly, and from the other the Stars and Stripes. More than 450 electric lights will be used to illuminate the portal at night.

OPENING CEREMONY.

Dedication ceremonies began today with a special meeting at the Parliament buildings at Victoria, B. C., presided over by Lieut.-Gov. Walter Nichol of British Columbia. Tomorrow official visitors and those who will participate in the ceremony, including prominent Canadian officials and officials from Pacific Coast States and the Pacific Highway Association, will be escorted to Blaine by yachts representing clubs from the various cities of the Northwest.

The feature of tomorrow's ceremony will be the placing of a bit of wood from the Pilgrim ship, Mayflower, recently secured in England, on the American side of the Portal. On the Canadian side will be placed a piece of wood taken from the Beaver, famous old Hudson's Bay Company ship, the first steam-propelled vessel to ply in Pacific waters.

To indicate the importance of the occasion internationally, flags of four nations will be placed upon the arch at the time of its dedication. The British and American flags will fly from the staffs provided, and in addition the flags of Belgium and France will be hoisted.

TREATY SIGNED IN GHENT.

Belgium, it was explained, will be represented because the treaty signed December 24, 1814, under which the United States and Canada have lived side by side in peace for a hundred years, was signed at Ghent, in Belgium. The French flag will represent the large portion of the Canadian population of French extraction.

Twelve years ago A. E. Todd of Victoria originated the idea of a great arterial highway traversing the Pacific Coast from British Columbia to Mexico. In the fall of 1919 H. L. Bowlby, State highway commissioner of Washington, began surveys for that portion of the highway which lies in Washington. Formation of the Pacific Highway Association followed, and with the commencement of surveys by California and Oregon highway departments the work was fairly started.

In June, 1915, the idea of a Peace Portal was launched at a joint flag-raising ceremony at Blaine on the site of the present arch. Plans were laid at that time, but because of the war construction work did not begin until last year. Samuel Hill, Seattle good-roads enthusiast and honorary consul-general for Belgium in the Pacific Northwest, was credited with conception of the original plans.

Certain ceremonies connected with the dedication of the Pacific Highway, originally planned for tomorrow, have been postponed because of the inability of government officials at Washington and foreign dignitaries to attend. They will be held later this year, and will include ceremonies opening the highway, first on the border line at Blaine, and later on the great bridge spanning the Columbia River at Portland, Oregon and at a point in California to be chosen later.

Development in Argentina Oil Fields Growing.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Argentina oil fields will see much greater development in the next few years than in the thirteen years since the first well was drilled, the Commerce Department was advised today by Consul-General Robertson at Buenos Aires.

The Argentine fields, he said, received but little attention from foreign capital up to and during the war, but now English, Dutch, French and German interests are competing for concessions and have obtained comparatively large areas, and Swiss and Belgian capital also is interested.

Gas Roars from Beach Well; No Trouble Feared

With a roar that was heard for miles, a strong pressure of gas began to flow from Talbert well No. 1 at Huntington Beach at 7 p.m. yesterday and at midnight the pressure had not abated. The flow was under control and no trouble is anticipated.

The well started a flow of oil a week ago after drilling had progressed to a depth of 2264 feet. Then the well became sanded up and the flow stopped. Bailing out the sand had progressed well when the gas flow began last night. It is expected that a return to an oil flow will occur within a few days.

BODIES OF AMERICANS ON ZR-2 RECOVERED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

HULL, Sept. 5.—The bodies of the sixteen Americans who lost their lives in the ZR-2 disaster, having all been recovered, will be placed aboard a train here tomorrow for Plymouth, where they will be transferred to the British cruiser Dauntless for home.

A contingent of American and British airmen from Howden will form an escort to the railway station and it is expected the citizens of Hull will join in the procession. There will be a brief religious ceremony in the mortuary before the bodies are removed. Lieut. Telford B. Null, of the American air forces at Howden, will act as official escort of the dead Americans to the United States.

PEACE .. ARCH .. ON .. BOUNDARY.

Simple Portal Commemorates 100 Years of Friendship.

The Peace Arch shown above, to be dedicated today in commemoration of 100 years of peace between the United States and Canada, is built on the boundary line at Blaine, Wash., and White Rock, Province of Columbia, Can. The Grand Pacific Highway, from San Diego to Vancouver, will detour through its portals, and around it will be such a park as the world has seldom seen, for, within 100 yards of the Pacific Ocean, where the arch is built, the climate all the year is a delight. The water of the Japan current warms the air in winter, mountains shelter from the north, and forests, with trees whose trunks measure from 150 to 300 feet in height, protect during all seasons, for the trees are evergreen. Flowers of wonderful brilliancy bloom from February on until Christmas time. There are to be gates on the arch and these gates will never be closed. There will be bright lights from sundown to sunup, and these lights will never be turned off. The two flags, our Stars and Stripes and the British Union Jack, will fly, unfurled, during the daylight hours, and a time must never come when they will not be unfuried together.

Attack by Bees Proves Fatal to Team of Horses

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Nick Platz, a farmer of Morton Grove, is trying to decide whether he will give up keeping bees or do his hauling with a motor truck.

While passing near a bee hive with a two-horse wagon an employee of Mr. Platz accidentally knocked over a hive. Instantly the bees swarmed out to the attack, joined by swarms from other hives. Platz ran for safety, leaving his horses. The bees fastened themselves upon the horses and bore them writhing to the ground under their stings. By spraying the horses with a hose the men drove the bees away. But in spite of everything that could be done both horses died.

To Investigate Liquor Permits for Forgeries.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Investigation of all outstanding liquor permits is to be begun shortly, and many cancellations may follow, prohibition enforcement officials said today. It is the intention of dry authorities to comb out all but bona fide users of the certificates, officials said.

They asserted that at present the Prohibition Enforcement Bureau has no accurate information as to how many outstanding permits are forgeries or being used for illegal purposes.

No wholesale cancellation of liquor permits is planned, officials said.

BEACH VISITOR DIES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Sept. 5.—Frederick Ebeland, aged 46 years, died suddenly this afternoon while visiting the amusement center. A telephone call to police headquarters brought an ambulance and physician to one of the rest rooms on Pickering pier where it was reported groans of some one in pain were heard. When the physician arrived the man was dead.

Ebeland with his wife and family have been visiting M. E. Cunningham at 2704 Third street, Santa Monica. Relatives said that the dead man had been in poor health for some time but they had no thought that he was suffering from heart trouble of any kind.

No announcement of an inquest or arrangements for a funeral have been made.

GIRLS USING BRIGHT HUED UMBRELLAS NOW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. — Bright hued umbrellas are twice as much in demand as a year ago, manufacturers declare. They look expectantly for the day when street crowds in rainy weather will be just as vivid as those who sally forth with cheerful garb on fair days.

Rainy days in New York this summer have not presented such a dull picture on the streets as in the past, when the black umbrella was the only kind to be seen. The working girls, who must go into the business thoroughfares in any weather, have developed a penchant for umbrellas of purple, brown, orange and particularly blue, and others have taken up this cheerful challenge to the darker side of nature.

said, two prisoners have escaped to the mainland.

THIRD ESCAPE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—The escape today of Gardner, was the third he had made in the last thirteen months. On two previous occasions he escaped from officers while en route to prison to serve a long sentence.

Gardner made his first break for liberty in August, 1920, at San Diego. He had been sentenced for twenty-five years for robbery of mail from a train at Portland, Or. On June 11 of this year, the bandit escaped from a deputy Federal marshal and a Federal guard on a train near Castle Rock, Wash., while en route to McNeil Island prison, to serve a term of twenty-five years for robbing the mail near Newcastle, Cal. He had confessed to the robbery. He was captured at Centralia, Wash., on June 16, and taken to McNeil Island prison.

Gardner was started toward McNeil prison on his last trip on June 3. He and N. H. Pyron, a counterfeiter, were in the guards' custody until the train passed Kelso, Wash., when the prisoners overpowered the guards and left the train at Castle Rock. Pyron was captured a day later and taken to prison.

According to the deputy marshal who had Gardner in custody, Pyron had been put to bed with handcuffs and an Oregon boot on, and Gardner asked permission to wash his hands. While his back was turned and the deputy marshal stood at his back, Gardner took from his shirt a revolver he had secreted and pointed it at his guards.

SWITCH HANDCUFFS.

Gardner then took the guards' pistols and Pyron obtained the keys to the handcuffs and Oregon boots, which both prisoners wore, and took off the handcuffs and Oregon boots and put the handcuffs on their guards. They then fastened their guards to the steam pipe in the drawing room of the car they occupied. They also took from the guards $220.

Gardner and Pyron left the train through a window when the train stopped at Castle Rock for water. The guards said they had not searched Gardner while he was in their charge as they had been told he had been searched before leaving the jail in San Francisco. Gardner told his guards he had obtained the pistol in the San Francisco jail.

Gardner is 36 years old and has a wife and baby who live at Napa, Cal.

CAUGHT AT DEL MAR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 5.—Roy Gardner, was first caught at Del Mar, north of this city, April 19, 1920, charged with robbing a mail truck here a few days before. Near where he was taken the officers found $47,000 in negotiable paper and many other papers, not negotiable, which had been taken from rifled mail pouches.

Gardner at the time told a story about two mysterious men who he said had held up the mail-truck driver, and he denied part in the actual robbery. He admitted, the police said, having served two years of a five-year term at San Quentin, being released, he said, for good behavior.

Most of the loot found near Gardner's hiding place was taken from registered mail. Gardner had registered at the Stratford Inn, a well-known resort hotel, as "M. R. Lawson."

Later, on arraignment, he admitted having committed the robbery. He then apologized to Raymond Stock, the driver, for some epithets which he had used in the hold-up of the mail truck, declaring that he used them only to intimidate Stock.

QUEER COMBINATION.

Gardner is a queer combination with an apparent penchant for excitement that only robbing mails could satisfy. His record shows that all of his crimes with a single exception have been mail robberies. By trade he has been an acetylene welder and earned as high as $12 per day at Vallejo. He was born and reared in San Francisco. A peculiarity of his procedure has been an apparent aversion to harming any human being, although there have been times in connection with his many escapes when he had a guard at his mercy and could have committed assault to assist his getaway.

His mother died an insane person and at the time of his confession of the San Diego mail robbery he was examined as to his sanity at the request of his wife, but the court of investigation held that he was sane. He has always been a fine appearing man, with a body that is the envy of experts in anatomy. He is said to have always been able to readily make friends everywhere and was a satisfactory worker at his trade. His career has been of interest to a number of psychologists as it was apparent that his trade enabled him to keep his family in plenty and that his crimes were the result of a craving for excitement.

that the Bavarian government must retreat.

So far as Dr. Wirth himself is concerned the solution of the conflict involves the future of his government, for if he can give the Socialists a victory he probably can win their support for his taxation program when it is presented to the Reichstag at its convocation at the end of this month. In addition it is believed he can solidify greatly the entire present government and obtain the Socialists' entrance into the Prussian government to which the Socialists have been bitterly opposed.

A victory for democracy in the conflict with Bavaria, leaders feel, will be bound to have a favorable effect on the solution of the Silesian problem by enhancing the present government's prestige abroad as well as emphasizing the thought in the minds of the Silesian arbiters that a solution unfavorable to Germany will be a great blow to the republic, raise again the stock of the German reactionary group and open a way for a series of new German as well as international complications.

The people feel that Dr. Wirth has accomplished a great deal in the domain of international politics. If he can break the faction's stronghold in Bavaria and follow this up by obtaining a favorable solution in Silesia the power and prestige of the republic will grow so greatly as to reduce the reactionary monarchist danger in Germany to impotency.

tens in New York, but none of them, after spending time, money and effort to create business, has realized one cent in return. Our agreements have not been honored. In short, we have been humbugged and flim-flammed by Martens, who acted in a most despicable manner.

HAS EMBARGO LIFTED.

"Our orders were placed at a time when conditions prevented shipments and financial transactions were prohibited. We fought for American commercial interests against British and other interests, and secured the removal of the embargo and lifted the financial restrictions.

"Martens placed the orders on the condition that we accomplish these things, and then failed to make good.

"After staying six months in Moscow, where I met Martens, I finally realized that, in the statements they made, the soviet leaders had no sense of honesty, integrity, fairness or gratitude. It is true that we knew when the soviet placed the contracts it was playing politics to the extent of removing the trade restrictions, but they assured us of their sincere desire for the goods and of their intention to accept them.

"We fought for them, but experience shows that Martens and his crowd were a group of pikers, fakers and crooks, and unless the soviet fulfills the contracts with us we see no reason for their being trusted by other American business men with credit.

HAVE NO COURTESY.

"Many American business men have come thousands of miles to see them, not getting past the office boy. They have no comprehension of business, courtesy or honesty. They are the most discourteous, dishonorable, unappreciative people to deal with the business world has ever experienced.

"They must be treated as crooks, for my own experience and the experience of others show they are plain crooks—nothing more and nothing less."

Mr. Jennings's report urges that the United States co-operate with Russia after it institutes the necessary reforms and can show a clean bill of health. At present, he believes, modification of the soviet government will come more quickly through recognition of Russia by other nations.

BOY ARRESTED FOR MURDERING FATHER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 5.—Harry Beuter, 15 years old, is in custody here as a result of having killed his father, Charles W. Beuter, 50 years old, yesterday. The boy said that his brother Stanley, 13 years old, had been severely beaten with a razor strop, and that when the father tried to treat him likewise, he shot him.

The mother of the boys stated that for a long time they had been brutally beaten by Beuter. Police said it was improbable that a murder charge would be filed against the boy.

SANTA FE AGAIN IS VILLA REAL.

INDIANS TAKE PART.

The first day's program, very properly, was devoted to the New Mexican Indians, their pageant processions depicting, in succession, "Aboriginal New Mexico" and "The First American Democracy." Participating were Indians of the pueblos of Zuni, Cochiti, Jemez, San Ildefonso, Santa Clara and Tesuque, led by their grave chieftains and clad in the distinctive ceremonial garbs of their respective tribes or towns.

At 10 a.m. the gorgeously garbed herald proclaimed the opening of the fiesta and the Indian leaders announced participation of their people. There was formal heralding of the approach of Gov. M. C. Meacham and his official party, including ecclesiastical dignitaries, and later similar honor was paid Mayor T. Z. Winter of Santa Fe and the city's officials, the dignitaries all grouped in a special box in the center of the great stand.

WHOLE CITY WORKED.

A large part of the population of Santa Fe for months past has been busied in preparation for this week of pageantry. At the head of all has been Col. Ralph Emerson Twitchell, historian and author, who has laid out every scene on a basis of historic accuracy. The executive officer is W. M. Danburg, who has combined many offices, from secretary to decorator. The principal assistants embrace many of the city's leading residents, including Col. C. C. Winnia, U.S.A. (retired,) Maj. Frederick Muller of the Rough Riders, Col. Jose D. Sena, Lansing L. Bloom, secretary of the New Mexico Historical Society, Edgar L. Street, Norman L. King, Mrs. Edgar Knight and Gerald Cassidy.

Santa Fe is a veritable island of southwestern antiquity, around which, with slight effect, have swirled the currents of modern influence. Second only to San Augustine in Florida, it dates back to 1702, when it became the seat of a government that upheld the power of the far-distant King of Spain. From the royal city of Santa Fe went expeditions that penetrated every part of the Southwest, and here was the seat of a religious influence of large scope and power.

SPANISH INFLUENCE.

Save for the few years that followed the Indian rebellion, the Spanish influence has been dominant in New Mexico. The population of Santa Fe, native-born and aggressively American, still generally uses the tongue of Castile, though especially proud of its New Mexican lineage, held as separate from all Mexican connections.

If there be a change in local inclination, as manifested by architecture, it has been manifested by a modern return to the Pueblo style. Business blocks, a new hotel, public buildings and school, and private residences by the score are patterned in appearance after the homes of the peaceful folk whose villages still surround the city, still differing little in appearance from what was seen by Vasques de Coronado, when, in 1540, he led his swarthy soldados cueros into the fair valley of the Rio Grande Bravo del Norte.

TALK OUT OF TUNE.

The speech of O'Duffy is altogether out of tune with the declarations regarding Ulster made by Eamonn de Valera, the republican leader, and the Sinn Fein political department. These declarations have been indicating their policy toward Ulster was the advocacy of negotiations but, if that failed, the institution of a boycott with physical force.

While an automobile was leaving Armagh last night for Newry, where the meeting at which Mr. [illegible] spoke, fire was opened on its occupants, one of whom was shot and wounded critically.

The Irish News, Nationalist, thinks there are signs and tokens pointing to the possibility of an adjustment.

The News Letter, Unionist, says credit must be given to the Sinn Fein leaders, who never disowned their principals, always openly fought for independence, and were open to the use of any method or force within reach, even to the terrorizing and murdering of their opponents.

UP TO CABINET.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Members of the British Cabinet will be called upon to reach a decision on Wednesday either to continue negotiations with Sinn Fein Ireland on the basis of "the consent of the governed" or issue an ultimatum to the Irish republicans to accept or reject the government's proposals looking to a settlement of the Irish question.

The reply of Eamonn de Valera and his associates to the latest note from Prime Minister Lloyd George, made public here yesterday, did not break off negotiations with the British government, but it was admitted here today that the situation had lost none of its grave aspects.

There appeared to be no thought of retreat expressed in the Sinn Fein reply to the Prime Minister, and it seemed the situation remained as it was before the recent exchange of letters between Belfast and London.

Dispatches from Ireland today seem to reflect a desire of Ulster Sinn Fein to bring Ulster, or at least the counties of Armagh and Fermanagh, into the Irish republican fold. Michael Collins, minister of finance in the cabinet of Eamonn de Valera and commander-in-chief of the republican army, spoke at Armagh and made an appeal to Ulster to stand with Southern Ireland against partition.

At the same meeting Sean O'Duffy, chief liaison officer of Northern Ireland, in the republican army, threatened Ulster with a war of increased boycott if she did not "come into united Ireland," according to report:

"If that is unsuccessful, we will bring lead against her."

With the exception of the Evening Post, which said it is impossible to make terms with a "rattlesnake," the London papers this morning made a united plea for forbearance in the hope that some common ground might yet be found.

Senate Finance Committee at Work on Solution.

Question of Revenue Proves Knotty Problem.

Exempt Securities Are Great Temptation to Rich.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright, Chicago Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The attitude of the Senate on the objections raised to many features of the House bill revising Federal taxation will be determined largely by the decisions of the Senate Finance Committee in the course of a fortnight's consideration of the measure, beginning tomorrow.

The question of the need of raising more revenue than is provided by the House bill will be discussed by the committee with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon on Thursday. Mellon is expected to urge the application of the repeal of the excess profits tax to income on the calendar year 1921 in lieu of the House provision under which the repeal would be effective beginning with 1922 incomes.

HIGHER SURTAXES.

The reduction of the higher surtaxes with a view to removing the incentive of the rich to reduce their tax bills by investing in tax free securities also will come in for a good deal of discussion.

This is a difficult problem. The only way adequately to deal with it is to make State and municipal bonds taxable by the Federal government. To do this it is held, would require an amendment of the Constitution, which it would be impossible to achieve if thirteen or more States were unwilling to surrender their present advantage in marketing of securities immune from Federal taxation.

Under such circumstances the administration has deemed it wise to reduce the temptation of the rich to invest in tax-free securities in order to avoid Federal income taxation, hoping thereby to increase the yield of the higher surtaxes to some extent, at least.

HAVE EVADED TAXES.

Some indication of the extent to which the rich have avoided taxation in this manner is afforded by the income tax statistics. In 1918 when taxes had been nearly doubled the number of taxpayers with incomes of from $3000 to $5000 increased 68 per cent over 1917, while the taxes they paid in 1918 increased more than 400 per cent over 1917. On the other hand there were 20 per cent fewer taxpayers with incomes from $50,000 to $100,000 in 1918 than in 1917 and the tax yield from this source increased only 75 per cent.

In view of the storm of opposition which greeted proposals to levy various new miscellaneous taxes when the matter was under discussion in the House it is not likely that such new taxes as a Federal automobile tax, a tax on bank checks, or an increase in first-class postage rates will again be given further consideration. The committee, however, might decide to increase the flat corporation income tax or restore some of the miscellaneous taxes, such as the proposed tax on proprietary medicines and toilet articles which was eliminated in the House.

HELP FOREIGN TRADERS.

As a means of placing American business men abroad on more of an equality with their competitors of other nations the new tax bill will for the first time relieve them entirely of taxation at home on their foreign income.

Provisions providing for tax exemption of what are described as foreign traders and foreign trade corporations are contained in the tax bill as passed by the House. Some of the details have not been finally perfected and the provisions will be amended somewhat by the Senate committee. There is little question, however, that the bill as finally enacted into law will place American citizens in the same position which foreign traders of other leading nations are under the terms of their tax laws.

The National Foreign Trade Council has taken an active interest in the matter and its investigation of the subject indicates citizens of nearly all the leading nations of the world are exempt from taxation on income derived in other countries.

BUSINESS IN PHILIPPINES.

One important phase of the situation relates to taxation of Americans doing business in the Philippines. At present Americans engaged in business in the islands are compelled to pay the local taxation and in addition must pay all of the income taxes to which Americans within the United States proper are subject, including corporation and individual taxes. Under this situation it is declared that American traders in the Philippines are under a great handicap as compared with their competitors of other nations resident in the Philippine Islands, who are subject only to the local taxes and not to the taxes of their home governments. Under the proposed bill Americans engaged in business in the Philippines will be subject only to the local taxation on income derived there.

Those interested in the development of foreign trade take the position that Americans engaged in business abroad help to develop a market for American goods and that from the standpoint of foreign trade promotion it is desirable to relieve them from taxation at home. The loss in revenue to the government from the proposed tax exemption would be relatively small. It is estimated that the amount of taxes obtained from Americans engaged in foreign enterprises has not amounted to much more than $4,000,000 annually.

WASHINGTON NEWS IN BRIEF.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The attitude of the Senate on the objections raised to many features of the House bill revising Federal taxation will be determined largely by the decisions of the Senate Finance Committee in the course of a fortnight's consideration of the measure, beginning tomorrow.

An analysis of the foreign trade figures for the fiscal year 1921 made by the division of statistics of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce sheds light on the manner in which different countries are affected in the decreased shipments to and from the United States.

Fair play for women instead of the discrimination now practiced against them in the United States Civil Service will be one of the questions brought forward for discussion in the fifth annual convention of the National Federation of Federal Employees in New Orleans September 12-16.

BRYAN DENOUNCES RETAIL PROFITEERS.

CHIEF OBSTACLE TO PREVENT RETURN TO NORMALCY HE SAYS IN CHICAGO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—W. J. Bryan branded retail profiteers as the chief obstacle in the way of the country's return to normalcy in a speech today at a mass meeting under the auspices of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

He said that the fault was not with labor, which was willing to do its share in effecting a readjustment, but with the men who perpetuated the inflation of living prices, making it impossible for the working classes to live on reduced wages.

"Labor's chief difficulty in readjustment," he said, "is in the fact that retail prices have not come down as they should. This makes readjustment impossible. It is difficult to reduce wages while living expenses remain at war-time levels. Woolen goods are now selling at retail 100 per cent above the price they were before the war. Meat on the hoof which the butcher buys, has reduced, but meat on the block which the butcher sells, has not been reduced. The laborer's family must suffer and it is this which is the chief cause of labor unrest."

AMERICAN CLIMBER'S FAUX PAS SERIOUS.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Sept 5. — Several wealthy American women with social ambitions have spent considerable money recently, it is said, to gain the aid of titled women here in climbing the social ladder. Indiscretion of one such woman has given London society a choice morsel of gossip.

She gains the idea that one of her aristocratic hostesses also expected a fat check, and smilingly she exclaimed to the astonished and indignant dame:

"Don't ask me for money now because I have just had to give a check to Lady Blank"—mentioning the name of her social mentor.

The American woman's faux pas was the first inkling anybody had that Lady Blank was recouping her family fortunes by introducing American climbers. Both women have left London for a while—but not together.

AGRICULTURAL CREDIT PLANS ARE COMPLETED

UPWARDS OF $1,000,000,000 TO BE ADVANCED TO FARMERS AND LIVE-STOCK MEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Preparations for advancing upwards of $1,000,000,000 in agricultural and live-stock credits under recent legislation have virtually been completed by the War Finance Corporation, officials said tonight. The corporation probably will be ready within a week or so to function under its enlarged powers designed to afford needed credit relief to the farmers, it was said.

To expedite the advances executive committees are being formed in agricultural and stock raising sections and will attend to preliminary details of applications, making the necessary investigations and determining the adequacy of securities offered.

The corporation's policy for financing advances, officials asserted, has not yet been definitely decided, but it is believed little of the $400,000,000 balance with the treasury will be used for agricultural credits.

Demands may be made on the treasury to make the first loans, officials declared, but when the volume of needed credits can be gauged, it is believed the corporation will begin issuing bonds. Current operations of the corporation in financing exports are being carried on almost exclusively out of a revolving fund automatically established by the repayments being made on the approximately $100,000,000 in advances now outstanding.

TRADE BUREAU IS NOW REORGANIZED.

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE TO BE CARED FOR IN NEW MANNER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Reorganization of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce into industrial divisions, with trained specialists at their heads to aid the country's overseas commerce, is near completion, according to Secretary Hoover.

Thirteen divisions have been established: fuel, leather, transportation, textiles, industrial machines, agricultural implements, foodstuffs, electrical machinery, rubber, iron and steel, commercial law, lumber, under Axel Oxholm of San Francisco, and automotive, under Gordon Lee of Rochester, N. Y. Other divisions are to be added.

The bureau's geographical divisions also have been reorganized into five groups, consisting of Eastern Europe, under E. D. Durand of Romeo, Mich.; Western Europe, under A. G. Goldsmith of Milwaukee; Latin America, under T. R. Taylor of Hammonton, N. Y.; Near East, under J. A. Robertson of New York, and Far East, under F. R. Eldridge, Tacoma Park, Md.

Questionnaires Reveal High School Pupils Flunk, Too.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Edison's discovery that college graduates are "amazingly ignorant," has been carried into a test among 200,000 college, high school and grammar school students. They "flunked" in amazing fashion, also.

The new test was inspired by the recent assertion of American Federation of Labor officials that school text books failed to reflect labor's viewpoint. The Review of Reviews undertook an investigation by means of the questionnaire to ascertain whether text books teach current events. The canvass has just been completed and the results turned over to the Institute of Public Service.

The answers of 17,500 students averaged only 44 per cent correctness.

"The current events questions," said the institute director, William H. Allen, today, "were not catch questions calling for freak memories. Instead they called for knowledge and understanding of frequently mentioned men, places and issues affecting our national life. Some of the questions dealt with Uncle Sam, Samuel Gompers, Budget Director Dawes, Lloyd George, Senator Lodge and Senator Borah, State governors and school heads, Cobleen, Haiti, Costa Rica, Moscow, the budget, collective bargaining, buyers' strikes, peonage, sales tax, sovietism and Sinn Fein.

"They dealt with no problems beyond the comprehension of grammar graduates, but they did call for right study of current events. Yet mixing up in one average, the lowest marks, like 16 and 17 per cent with the highest marks, like 88 per cent and 92 per cent, the country-wide average for 17,500 students was 44 per cent."

AMERICAN NEGROES DON'T LIKE AFRICA.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Sept. 5.—Thirty American colored men and women, delegates to the Pan-African Congress in session here, today, headed by Dr. W. E. Burghardt Dubois of New York, repudiated the idea of Marcus Garvey, provisional professor of Africa, of "Africa for the Africans."

Dr. Dubois said: "The colored American cannot withstand the African climate. We cannot oust the Europeans and do not desire to do so."

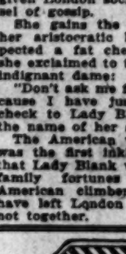
Worried About Baby?
Get a Positively Pure Milk!



You can avoid all the worry and anxiety that usually accompanies the feeding of Baby if you will heed the recommendation of the County Medical Association.

Arden Certified Milk has been produced under their supervision for 15 years, and it has their unqualified endorsement as the best milk for your Baby. Holstein cow's milk has been proven to be nearest in composition to human breast milk than any other brand of cow's milk. The percentage of fat in Holstein milk compares almost identically with that of breast milk, not only that, but the fat globules are very small, as in mother's milk, which renders it much more easily digested than milk from other cows.

High butter-fat content in milk is the cause of most intestinal disorders in infants. The above statements have been conclusively and universally proven by the Medical profession. Hence, in keeping with its faith to produce a strictly Baby milk, Arden Dairy is cutting all Guernsey and Jersey cows from their herd, for the welfare and protection of your Baby.

Growing children, invalids, convalescents and the whole family thrive on it. Let us aid you in starting Baby on the road to growth and health.

METHODISTS TO MEET IN LONDON

Fifth Ecumenical Conference Begins Today.

Leaders Throughout World Are to Speak.

Large Delegation Attending from America.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Important world problems, including the reunion of Christendom, marriage and divorce, capital and labor, international co-operation and the causes underlying the change in "moral standards" of the present age, are to be discussed at the Fifth Ecumenical Methodist Conference, which opens in Central Wesleyan Hall Westminster, tomorrow evening, and continues until Friday, September 16.

The speakers will be leaders at Methodist thought throughout the world and will include editors, educators and other prominent laymen as well as bishops and ministers.

It is ten years since the last previous similar conference was held in Toronto, Ont. Since then, according to official figures, Methodism has gained 3,926,341 members, probationers and adherents.

DELEGATION LARGE.

The number of delegates to the present meeting, including African Methodist Episcopal Church representatives, is 555, of whom 251 are from the United States, eighty-four from Canada, and 220 from all Wesleyan bodies in Great Britain and its dominions and mission fields. The opening sermon will be preached at the historic Wesley's chapel here tomorrow evening by the Rev. Dr. S. P. Rose of Montreal, Quebec.

The Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll of Plainfield, N. J., will present to the conference an estimate showing the Methodist population in the world, including members, probationers and adherents to have totaled 36,422,194 in 1919. In 1910 it was given as 32,726,547.

"The Methodist population of the world," says Dr. Carroll, "on the accepted basis of four adherents to each member in the eastern section and of two and a half in the United States and Canada, has reached highly satisfactory figures. It is probably the largest population of any Protestant communion except the Lutheran."

ANNOUNCED TOPICS.

Among the announced topics and speakers at the forthcoming sessions are the following: "Reunion of Christendom," the Rev. David G. Downey, New York; "The Moral Necessity of International Alliance," U. S. Senator Carter Glass; "Changing Moral Standards of the Age," Bishop F. J. McConnell, Pittsburg; "Temperance and Divorce," Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Birmingham, Ala.; "The Responsibilities of Capital and Labor," E. L. Kinnear, Pittsburg; "The Future, Its Great Tasks," the Rev. Dr. A. S. Tuttle, Alberta College, Edmonton, Alberta, Can.

Others announced to speak are: Bishop Kogoro Usaki of Japan, Judge Samuel B. Adams, Savannah, Ga.; Sir Robert W. Perks, Bart.; Sir George Smith; ex-Gov. Henry C. Stuart of Virginia, the Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, Sir R. Walter Essex, Newton H. Rowell, M. P.; Judge Charles A. Pollock, Judge J. E. Cockrell, Arthur Henderson, M. P., and "Gipsy" Smith.

MOORS ARE SHELLED BY SPANIARDS.

French Concentrate Troops on Border to Prevent Attack; Natives Disarmed.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MELILLA, Sept. 5.—Moorish positions near this city have been heavily shelled by Spanish artillerymen.

Two captured Spanish cannon which the Moors had mounted have been rendered useless, according to reports received here, by the disappearance of their breechblocks. The gunners in charge of the cannon the captain of the guard was immediately executed. Two others were punished by death, while prisoned under threat of execution unless the blocks were restored.

Yesterday was the Moslem New Year, and prior to that event proclamations had been posted in market places calling upon all faithful Mohammedans to gather at Nador for the celebration, where "great events" were promised.

The French military authorities have concentrated 5000 troops, mostly Senegalese, along the frontier, to forestall any possible Moorish attack. They have also disarmed natives in French zone of Morocco.

LIVE-STOCK JUDGING AT FAIR HAS BEGUN.

ANIMALS VALUED AT MILLION DOLLARS SEEKING $40,000 IN PRIZES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 5.—This was Sacramento Day at the State fair and was made the occasion for the first judging of livestock and county exhibits for which prizes to the amount of $40,000 have been hung up.

In competition in the live-stock barns are blue-blooded animals whose aggregate market valuation is listed by experts at $1,000,000. To capture the first prize in their particular class is the ambition of every entry, for it is this reward that makes famous the generations to come.

The directors of the fair are speeding up the judging of the co-exhibits so the winners will be known earlier in the week.

MAIL CARRIERS MEET.

America to Retain the Speed Cup.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—The United States retained the Harmsworth trophy by default, the racing commission deciding not to hold a second heat after the Maple Leaf VII, British challenger, was forced out of the first heat today when she sprang a leak on the second lap and was towed off the course. The boat sank before reaching her slip.

Mishap also overcame Miss America I, which tore off a patch from her own hull, and was forced to withdraw.

Miss America II and Miss Chicago then fought out the heat alone, "Gar" Wood's defender scoring an easy victory and covering the course of 40 nautical miles in 46m. 16.23s.

Miss America II attained a speed of 71.01 miles per hour on the fourth lap. The world's record is 71.04 miles per hour, made by "Gar" Wood, Sept. 14, 1920.

Friel Captures the Breakwater Swim at Venice.

Eddie Friel of the Los Angeles Athletic Club captured the annual half-mile rough water swim held off the Venice breakwater yesterday afternoon in a rousing finish. For over half the distance Tom Pierce of Venice kept his nose to the fore. At the half-way post he was overhauled by Friel and from there on to the tape it was a battle between the two, Friel maintaining his lead by inches at times.

Representing the Coronado Athletic Club, Herzog finished third, though his backers figured him as a favorite.

Five silver cups were awarded to the winners. The race was held under the direction of Frank Rivas.

TOM GIBBONS CHOPS O'DOWD TO PIECES.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) Sept. 5.—Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul made a chopping block of Dan O'Dowd of New York, here today, and took a scheduled ten-round bout away from the easterner in the third round, when Referee Ed Smith of Chicago called a halt. At that stage of the fight O'Dowd, who showed himself a willing sufferer of punishment, was so dazed he did not realize what was going on and Gibbons could have finished with any kind of a blow.

MANDELL OUTPOINTS NORTHERN PUGILIST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

AURORA, Ill., Sept. 5.—"Sammy" Mandell of Rockford outpointed Young Farrell of San Francisco in ten rounds at 121 pounds today, in the opinion of the majority of the newspapermen at the ringside.

AUTO RACE WON BY DARK HORSE.

Fetterman Steps Away With Honors at Uniontown.

Maintains High Speed Over Entire Distance.

Jimmy Murphy Takes Second; Roscoe Sarles Third.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

UNIONTOWN (Pa.) Sept. 5.—L. P. Fetterman of Pittsburg today won the autumn classic at the automobile speedway here. He covered the 225 miles in 2 hours, 15 minutes and 16 seconds at an average speed of 99.8 miles an hour. His part of the purse was $7500.

Jimmy Murphy, driving the same car with which he won the French Grand Prix this year was second in 2 hours, 17 minutes and 6⅘ seconds, averaging 98.5 miles an hour, while Roscoe Sarles, averaging 96 miles, was third in 2 hours, 17 minutes and 46 11-25 seconds. Murphy's end of the purse was $4000 and Sarles's $3000.

The cars driven by Thomas and Wilcox skidded and left the track, Thomas suffering bruises. Wilcox was uninjured. Both returned to the race.

KING RHILEY VICTORIOUS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) Sept. 5.—King Rhiley of Grand Island, Neb., won a leg on the Penrose trophy in the annual Pikes Peak automobile hill climbing contest, driving the twelve miles and 2000 feet in 19m. 16 1-5s. The record was established by Ralph Mulford in 1916 with 18m. 22s.

The trophy was offered to the car making the best time, irrespective of size, additional prizes being offered for first and second place in each of three classes, based on engine piston displacement.

Eighteen cars started, five being forced out of the race by engine trouble.

Only thirty-one and two-fifths seconds separated Rhiley and Otto Loesche of Connersville, Ind., who took second place. Rhiley narrowly escaped death on the first turn when his car struck a soft spot in the road and skidded to within six inches of a deep gulch. The winners in each class took a $500 purse and $200 was offered for second place.

Class one—183-inch displacement, Glenn Schultz of Colorado Springs. W. H. Bentrup, Harold Frantz. Time, 21:54 2-5.

Class two—184 to 300-inch displacement, Otto Loesche, J. C. Williamson, Lynch Hess. Time, 19:47 3-5.

FERRANDINI-HINCKLEY WIN.

Lanky Tom Ferrandini and Dick Hinckley took Frde Alexander and Bob Allen down the line, 8-6, 6-4, in one of the pivot matches of the men's doubles yesterday in the city tennis championships meet, the tussle being one of the outstanding matches of the day's play at the Los Angeles Tennis Club. It was a case of steady playing opposed to the erratic team-work of Alexander and Allen. The former Davis cup star showed flashes of his old form, but was clearly outclassed by the Ferrandini-Hinckley duo. Allen's service was the feature of the match, although in other departments of the game he was not up to his usual standard.

Ferrandini performed with his usual brilliancy at the net, using his generous share of altitude frequently for spectacular kills. The field is narrowing down in the doubles until the resumation of play next Friday will see some fast competition.

The best singles match of the afternoon was Ralph Sindorf's encounter with Alrick Man. Sindorf won after a terrific battle, taking the first set after playing eighteen games, the second set going to him, 6-4. Man's excellent work at the net bothered Sindorf considerably, his return of almost impossible shots drawing frequent applause from the spectators.

Harold Godshall advanced to the round before the semifinals in the junior singles, by downing Fisher easily in a two-set match, 6-1, 6-3.

LENGTHY SQUABBLE.

What is thought to be a time record for one game was made yesterday in a match in women's singles. Miss Grace Kelly and Miss Millie Lang haggled over a deuce game for twenty-two minutes before Miss Lang finally won with two perfect placements. Miss Kelly took the match, however, winning in straight sets with her powerful drive and clever back-hand strokes. She is KALES OPENS UP LEAD IN STATE GOLF MEET.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DEL MONTE, Sept. 5.—Frank A. Kales of the Claremont Country Club led the first half of the qualifying round of the California amateur championship today with a score of 76 at Pebble Beach. This was one stroke ahead of Ervin (Scotty) Armstrong of Midwick and Everett Seaver of the Los Angeles Country Club. With one stroke more came Dr. Paul Hunter, the title-holder; young Lauren Upson of Sacramento and Clem Collins, the 17-year-old lad of Lincoln Park who won the medal in the Chronicle championship this year. Jack Neville was in seventh position with a 79.

The scores were disappointing with the usual tales of short putts missed. Kales's score suffered from three putts on two greens and four on the last. His score read as follows:

Out, par	4	4	4	5	3	4	4	5	4—37
Kales	4	4	4	5	3	4	4	6	4—38—76
In, par	4	4	4	5	3	4	4	5	4—37
Kales	4	5	5	5	3	4	4	5	4—39—76

Eighty-five is the jumping off mark tonight, dividing those who have hopes of qualifying for the championship, but those scores are likely to be improved considerably by the Del Monte round tomorrow and tonight it looks as if 168 would qualify.

There were 305 entrants, and the field was well divided with the low handicap players at Pebble Beach and the noble army of dubs at Del Monte.

ANGELS CRAWL UP ON SEALS.

Kick Ducks Around and Pad Percentage Standing.

Opening Game is Won 8 to 4 and Second 9 to 3.

Bugs Soria Adds a Touch of Art to Pastiming.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Los Angeles topped off the overgrown series by bumping Portland twice, which gives the Angels ten out of thirteen games, and puts them within four games of San Francisco, which opens here this afternoon.

Los Angeles won the forenoon game, which is unique in that it was played in the afternoon, 8 to 4. Killefer's players then kicked two assorted Portland pitchers for a 9-to-3 score in the second combat.

VERY AUDIBLE.

The labored breathing of our hard-working ball team was plainly audible while they belabored the visitors. Ten thousand horny-handed sons and daughters of toil looked on and marveled and clapped their calloused paws, or wheezed approval between their adenoids. Everybody greatly enjoyed lolling around in the sweaty lap of luxury. That is, everybody except Ed Schallmo, the ground-keeper, and his assistants. All week Ed has been busier than a family of Japs stirring up the ground. He busted the record heretofore held by the original man with the hoe. Mr. Schallmo is now the world's champion clod hopper. He is the human cricket of the great national pastime. Unless they quit messing up his garden with doubleheaders he is going to ask the management for a farm tractor.

Bugs Soria, the Watsonville wizard, gave a touch of true art to the first game. When things got too warm for Lefty Thomas in the fourth, Soria stepped in where other Angel pitchers hesitated to tread, and let the hungry Beavers down with two hits, one of them an infield scratch. Portland was in front, 4-to-2, at the time, but with Soria holding the enemy, the home guard took fresh courage and stung Sam Ross for three in the sixth.

Sam wasn't technically out, but was seen to slip to his knees a couple of times. At the end of the inning he went to the water bucket for a drink and never came back. Thus ends the story of the pitcher who went to the water bucket once too often.

Thus Pillette stuck his phiz into the pastime just soon enough to get poked for three runs in the eighth.

This game was followed by a fifteen-minute intermission, during which a long mess line formed in front of the field kitchens, and the pitchers warmed up fresh catchers. Some athletes have to sit around in the shade during a game to cool off, while others work between games to get warm. Seldom do two athletes have the same temperature or temperament.

Scott and Reinhart warmed up King and Baldwin for the second spat. Both pitchers apparently exhausted themselves warming up their catchers, and both looked punk in the first round. Portland speedily got to Reinhart for three runs on

CLEAN SWEEP FOR AMERICA.

Tilden and Johnston Make Cup Victory Complete.

Japanese Tennis Stars Are Left Out in the Cold.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FOREST HILLS (N. Y.) Sept. 5.—American Davis cup tennis players, defending the international trophy made their victory complete in the challenge round over Japan at the West Side Tennis Club today when they won the remaining two singles matches of the five-match program.

William T. Tilden II, Philadelphia, defeated Ichiya Kumagae, 9-7, 6-4, 6-1.

William M. Johnston, San Francisco, won from Zenzo Shimidzu, 6-3, 8-7, 6-3, 6-4.

FIVE STRAIGHT.

These victories, coupled with the winning of two singles matches Friday and the doubles match of Saturday, gave Tilden and Johnston and R. Norris Williams II, Boston, and Watson M. Washburn of New York, the doubles pair, five straight victories in a concluding round of the 1921 Davis cup matches which began last June with twelve nations as challengers. These same five victories scored in retaining the trophy, gave an identical final count with that made by virtually the same team in New Zealand early this year.

While the outcome of today's play had no bearing on the retention of the cup which already had been won last week, more than 10,000 spectators were present. The tennis was of the highest order. Both matches were played as though possession of the international trophy hung on the result. This was particularly true in the Tilden-Kumagae match. It was virtually Kumagae's valedictory in America, for he sails next month for Japan, to be married and resume banking business in Tokio.

WILD BATTLE.

Kumagae tore into Tilden with such speed and accuracy of stroking that the American champion was forced to a terrific battle in the first two sets to win.

Kumagae's strength gave out under the stress of his exertions and he faded away physically in the third and final set. He was loudly applauded.

While Tilden had the advantage Kumagae showed unexpected ability in the handling of the severe form of play and in returning many apparently ungettable shots for clean placements. In placements he held his own with Tilden, but it was his errors that caused his defeat. Many of his nets and outs were caused by the speed of Tilden's drives and the speed with which Kumagae was obliged to stroke them. There were but 25 points difference in the point score of the two players, although Tilden had a margin of nine games.

TONING UP.

The Johnston-Shimidzu match lacked much of the thrill of its predecessor, but it was atoned for by the finesse and the strategy of

DING SNORTS OFF WITH CUP.

Dustin Farnum's Cruiser Wins Newport Affair.

Galliano Takes the Honors in Sloop Competition.

Plan to Hold Next S.C.Y.A. Regatta at Balboa.

The three-day invitation yachting fiesta, given over the week-end by the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, at Balboa, came to a close last night with an informal dance at the clubhouse, concluding a season of sport on the briny that has seldom been equaled in Southern California waters. The program included a number of races for all types of sporting craft, sloops and motor cruisers yesterday.

ROMPS AWAY.

Dustin Farnum's speedy cruiser, the Ding, romped away with the silver trophy in the power boat competition, her corrected time for the six-mile outer course being thirty minutes flat. The Accamac crossed the finish line first, but after the hemming and hawing, addition and subtraction that features the finish of every yacht race, the Ding was pronounced the winner. Second honors were divided between the Accamac and the Corsairs, both covering the distance in thirty minutes fifty seconds. The Ida took third place.

In the sloop race over the twelve-mile triangular course laid out in the open sea off Balboa and Newport, Skipper Churchill's Galliano won the club cup, navigating the three-legged course in one hour, forty-eight minutes and forty-five seconds. The Joy, with Commodore Claude Putnam at the tiller, was awarded second place.

AT BALBOA.

At a business meeting of the Southern California Yachting Association, held during the festival, it was decided to hold the 1922 regatta of the S. C. Y. A. at Balboa Bay, under the auspices of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club. The second week in August was set as a tentative date for the big yachting classic of the West.

CLEAN SWEEP FOR AMERICA.

the Californian's play and Shimidzu's efforts to find a break to attack the former American champion's game. Johnston at times gave the impression that he was using the match as the vehicle through which to tone up his play for the national championships next week. There were sharp breaks in his attack in which he varied from unbeatable forceful stroking to a slower and less decisive base line game. In these latter periods of play Shimidzu more than held his own and there were a number of decisive long rallies as the ball crossed the net a dozen times or more before a decisive stroke. Whenever Johnston could secure a position at the net, there was a finish in both the direction and driving of his return which left Shimidzu almost helpless.

The stroke analysis showed that while Johnston won by seven games and sixteen points, he outplayed Shimidzu, 47 to 15. The Californian, however, piled up twenty more errors than did Shimidzu. A majority of these were made when Johnston was in deep court, from which point he appeared at times to be testing the direction and range of his stroke.

SUZANNE WINS.

After the Davis cup play, Mlle. Susanne Lenglen, French woman champion, made her second appearance on American courts and also a much more favorable impression than was the case when she defaulted to Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory in the second round of the women's national championships. She paired with Dean Mathey of Cranford, N. J., in a mixed doubles match against Mrs. May Sutton Bundy of Los Angeles and Willis Davis of San Francisco.

Mlle. Lenglen and partner won two straight sets, 6-2, 6-1. She was given much applause when she uncovered her wide repertoire of strokes.

She opened her play in a rather indecisive manner, her first three returns being errors. Once she got the swing of her racquet, however, Mlle. Lenglen showed remarkable ability to smash or softly drop the ball across the net, and remarkable finesse in playing for openings. She took cannon ball strokes off Willis Davis's racket and returned them with skill. There were several individual duels between Mrs. Bundy and the French star in which the latter had much the better of the stroking. In making returns to both Davis and his partner, Mlle. Lenglen showed no partiality and her victory with Mathey was due as fully to her efforts as those of her male partner.

MURPHY-RUBIDOUX AGAIN.

"Dynamite" Joe Murphy of Oakland will get a second chance at Ad Rubidoux of Riverside in the main event of the weekly boxing show at Vernon tonight. A week ago Murphy was brought down from Oakland to give Rubidoux a battle. In the second round Rubidoux connected for a clean knockdown and from then on was never headed. Murphy claimed the first knockdown was accidental and asked for another chance. Tonight he gets it and there are many who believe he will give the Riverside battler a hard fight.

Buck Holley, veteran of many a battle at Vernon, will box Sailor Charley Hendricks in the semi-windup. Hendricks is the boy who surprised the fans by beating Charles Jenkisson in a bout at the L.A.A.C. a few weeks ago. Since then he has been boxing at San Diego and is said to have improved considerably.

Young Ketchell, hard-hitting lightweight, will give away a few pounds in weight and take on Mike O'Leary, a boy who has been meeting the 145-pounders.

Chet Neff and Young Papke have been matched for the third time. A few weeks ago Papke beat Neff, flooring the veteran several times. A week ago Neff turned the tables by giving Papke a man-size beating.

Casey Smith will meet Kid Hoppe at 125 pounds and Fred Sherman will meet Herb Ryan at 135 pounds. Soldier Graham and Jack Nelson, 145-pounders, will open the show at 8:30.

JANE THE GREAT IS VICTOR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HARTFORD (Ct.) Sept. 5.—Walter Cox, driving Jane the Great, today won the feature event of the grand circuit meeting at Charter Oak Park, finishing in front in the first two heats of the 2:08 division of the Greater Charter Oak stake. Emma Harvester won the third heat from Walnut Frisco in a close finish. San Ardo had an easy time winning the free-for-all pace. John Henry gave Murphy's star pacer a stiff battle in the third heat, San Ardo winning by a narrow margin.

Silvie Brooke got the jump on Favonian in the stretch battle in the first heat of the 2-year-old event and won in a close finish. After that, however, Favonian was in front all the way.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 5.—Pittsburg and Cincinnati evened up on the two holiday games, Cincinnati winning in the morning and Pittsburg in the afternoon, each by a 2-to-1 score. The visitors broke a tie score in the thirteenth inning in the morning and won on a pass to Bohne, his steal of second, and errors by Wilson and Traynor.

Cooper held the Reds to four hits in the afternoon. In the seventh with a man on third and two out, his single drove over the winning run. Scores:

GIANTS DRAW CROWD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The New York Nationals retained their position a game behind Pittsburg by dividing a double header with Boston today. Boston won the first game, 6 to 5, and the Giants the second, 5 to 3. Police officials estimated that about 25,000 persons could not get into the park. Several women fainted in the crush. Boston rallied in the first game and won after New York led by 4 to 0 in the sixth inning. The work of the Boston pinch hitters featured in the eighth. New York took the second game behind Shea, a recruit pitcher. He yielded thirteen hits but kept them scattered and was well supported.

BARNES WINS GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GREAT NECK (N. Y.) Sept. 5.—Jim Barnes, open champion of America, defeated Jock Hutchison, British open champion, by a score of 5 and 4 in a thirty-six-hole contest for the championship of the world here this afternoon. Besides the title a purse of $5000 and a silver cup were at stake.

Barnes was 4 up on Hutchison at the end of the first eighteen holes of play and did not increase his advantage until after the ninth hole, which he won, making him 5 up.

The playing of both men disappointed a gallery of more than 2000 persons. The best card turned in was Barnes's 74, four strokes above par.

SEALS SPLIT HOLIDAY DOINGS WITH SEATTLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, Sept. 5.—Seattle had an easy time with Couch and won the morning game here today from San Francisco, 8 to 0. He started by walking the first two men up, one of them scoring on a sacrifice, and in the eighth blew up, when four runs were scored on five hits. One of these was a home run over the left-field fence by Spencer. The Seals only got one man past second base.

San Francisco made up for its morning defeat by winning the afternoon game today from Seattle, 10 to 7, but found that Sacramento had approached one game nearer to first place as a result of beating Oakland twice. Sacramento is now only three games behind the league leaders. The Seals took the lead in the second inning this afternoon and Seattle was never able to catch up. Scores:

SENATORS SPLIT EVEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—Washington divided a double bill with Philadelphia today. The scores were 4 to 3 and 7 to 1. In the morning game Hasty outpitched Johnson, the contest going eleven innings. Hasty helped to win his own game by good work at the bat.

Rommel was hit hard enough in the early innings of the afternoon game to give the Senators a commanding lead and was finally succeeded by Naylor in the third. Johnson, Miller and Gharrity each got a home run.

ST. LOUIS-CLEVELAND SPLIT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND, Sept. 5.—Cleveland and St. Louis broke even today, Cleveland winning the morning game, 10 to 5, and losing in the afternoon, 12 to 5. Smith's batting was responsible for the morning victory while his stick work this afternoon kept the champions in the lead until the seventh when St. Louis made six consecutive hits and won. Cleveland ran out of pitchers in the afternoon, Manager Speaker finally having to call on Henderson, a college recruit from Texas. Scores:

ANGELS CRAWL UP ON SEALS.

Gingiardi's single, a triple by Krug, McAuley's fumble and a single by Wolfer. By that time Reinhart was established, and for the next eight rounds laid on the whitewash so thick that they didn't need a bath before leaving for home.

Los Angeles tied in the home half, Scott lasting quick. When it became apparent that this particular pitcher might never retire a batter McCredie sent in Ellison. Not only was Scott wobbly, but his support was poor and he did not know the science of holding runners on. Thus Rip King was forced to make a series of forward passes, most of which arrived to late. Gramtham's bobble gave Statz life at first, and he stole second, pausing just long enough to flap his wings before stealing third. McAuley reached first and Statz streaked across the plate when Gratham splashed a low throw among Poole's clean, cold feet. Carroll singled infield, McAuley taking third.

Scott then showed his lack of culture by balking McAuley across the plate and Carroll to second. Scott walked Sandow Griggs and himself at the same time. Ellison pitching, a passed ball put Dixie on third and he scored when Crawford forced Griggs. Nihoff filed, McCabe singled and was forced. Los Angeles picked up one in the third, and Statz showed us a fine burst of speed in the fourth. He beat out a bunt and was sacrificed by McAuley, Carroll sacrificed, King to Poole, and Statz high-stepped in from second. Poole returned the ball to King as fast as possible. True, the throw was wide, and pulled Rip over on his battered face. But Statz had the play beat anyway and came in standing straight up like a true and tried soldier.

Portland filled up the bases in the eighth without getting anybody across, but this caused the Angels to take alarm, and they rang the clock three times in the same round.

Billy Phyle came here suffering from ptomaine poisoning, but this series made him forget it.

Some critics have it figured McCredie is hatching a team which will be a winner next season. Mac ought to hatch out a team. He has enough eggs.

Now is the time for all loyal citizens to turn out and rass Frisco. The score:

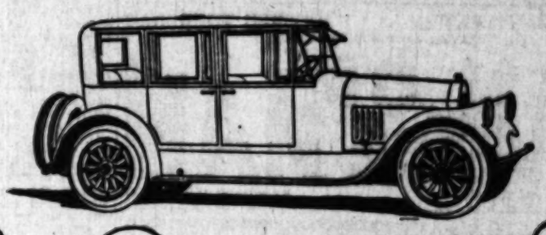
New prices and Pierce-Arrow value



Pierce-Arrow

The announcement of price reductions amounting on some models to $1000, must be of decided interest to any man who considers—

That the engineers who are today responsible for Pierce-Arrow mechanical fitness are the very ones who twenty years ago launched the car, and who have since developed it every step of the way;

That three years ago these engineers produced the Dual Valve engine and made the strongest possible claims as to the power, flexibility and economy of that engine;

That 6,000 users have since tried the Dual Valve engine and their verdict justifies and upholds the engineers;

That not content with this the engineers have improved and refined the Dual Valve engine in many ways, and that the designers have been skillful at expressing the power and elasticity of the car in the low graceful lines of its bodies.

"QUEEN OF SHEBA."

SPECTACLE OF ROMANCE HAS GREAT RECEPTION.

By Edwin Schallert.

With gusts of emotion, blasts of drama and a perfect sirocco of spectacular investiture, the "Queen of Sheba," long hailed as the de luxe venture into the domain of historical romance, swept across the screen last night at Philharmonic Auditorium. A picture of torrid embellishments, it received a heated welcome from an audience notable for its size and its personalities.

There were fanfares of applause, which went to individual stars, notably Betty Blythe, and to the action of such climaxes as the chariot races which might rival those of "Ben Hur" on the stage, and the battle scenes which echo to a greater or less degree D. W. Griffith's festival of carnage in the Babylonian episode of "Intolerance."

Fresh stimulus to the imagination wrested with the daily routine of the every day on the screen certainly is to be found in the "Queen of Sheba." The picture extolls romance to the heights. It contains love scenes that have been rarely paralleled in pictures. It reaches some beautiful highlands of art in the visualizing of a remote era in civilization, with its color and pageantry, and pillared magnificence of settings. The eye can hardly grasp the details of its richness at one beholding. The effect is one of dizzying beauty, but the quick transitions to sequences of action relieve the sense of surfeit.

Certainly Miss Blythe and Fritz Lieber are to be credited with a great share in the romantic charm of this picture. There is no doubt that "Sheba" has invested its featured actress with an imperishable crown of excellence for her portrayal of a regal heroine. Her emotion is superlative in its sweep and power, yet she never allows her fervid inspiration to overbalance her queenly poise. And though she is exotic, one might say—to the last bead, she never evidences the least hint that she is grasping at fame through any purely sense appeal. Uppermost in her mind is apparently the queenly prerogative, rather than the womanly even in the scenes with Solomon.

Certainly there has rarely been a more gorgeous panoply of costuming in any picture. There is little wasted in overdressing, however. There are moments when one thread less might be disastrous.

But there is nothing offensive about any of the diaphonous attractions of this picture, for the perspective is well maintained, except in some of the subtitles and the cheaper bits of intrigue, which savor of modernity.

The close of the story has the fine quality of a spiritual appeal—King Solomon, the man, chastened by his love for Sheba, Sheba beautified through her devotion to her son and her remembrance of the father. The clash and clamor of the battle for that son furnish a magnificent foreground for the glowing twilight of the final scenes of romance.

Lieber's Solomon is an ascetic and a visionary. Some of us may have a different view of the biblical king, but at the same time there is a peculiar power in Cassius-like personality that Lieber gives him.

There are few if any faults to find in the general casting. Some of the most convincing interpretations are by Genevieve Blinn, Joan Gordon, George Siegmann, G. R. Nye and others. Pat Moore as the royal child is a delight.

ARBUCKLE CHEERS GRAUMAN AUDIENCE.

A flivver with speed at the finish—that's about the closest automobilic simile that will fit Roscoe Arbuckle's humorous jaunt in "Gasoline Gus" this week at Grauman's. It starts in low but manages to wiggle along very nicely when Roscoe steps on the plot's tail and manages to be himself.

You're always sure of laughs with "Fatty" on the screen, and he offers you some of his very best slapstick at moments in his new picture. But the greatest howls are at the finish. These happen when, after many delays and much depression of spirit, Arbuckle registers a rich man, because his oil gusher comes in.

By this you will know that the story is laid in Texas. You will also know that it concerns a bunko speculation deal. Which isn't new, and doesn't make especially handsome plot material, especially for Arbuckle who thrives best when he has less dramatic intrigue to bother about.

But he gives you a character vivaciously ponderous as the village post, who runs a garage, plays a trombone, and loves the ladies. He is large enough to fit the dimensions of his role, which he interprets with his plenty of dash. The Arbuckle objective is never comfort when swiftness is desirable.

In his prologue Sid Grauman has evolved a savory impression of a hash house—an exact duplicate of the feature's food emporium. As I've said on previous occasions I'm not especially strong for looking at pool halls, bar-rooms, hash-houses, etc., on the stage, but there may be those that are.

Music Show and Western.

"Oklahoma Bob" Albright's Broadway Follies company in "The Blue Whale" and a first-run feature, "Black Sheep," featuring Neal Hart, just about equally share honors on Broadway Pantages bill this week. Henry Sherr, as Abie Cohn, and Ruth Albright, as a beach vamp, are principal funmakers in the musical show. Frank Samuels, Bob Albright, Minor Reed, Miss Ethel Grey and others all help in the amusement.

Mr. Albright sings some favored numbers, and it seems the more he does the better he is liked. Joe Kemper is well received.

Neal Hart is very successful in "Black Sheep." The story depicts the war in the old "West" between the sheep and cattle men.

She's Busy, We'll Say.

When the Hollywood Community Players get into action again they will have as one of their number no less gifted a young lady than Margaret Loomis. Miss Loomis is earnestly applying herself to the problem of "how to live on twenty-four hours a day." She is playing roles in two pictures, in addition to rehearsing on the stage.

ENTICING .. IN .. EXOTIC .. BEAUTY.

"Queen of Sheba" at Auditorium.

Betty Blythe and Fritz Lieber.

Problem Play Without Bosh at Pantages.

Through the filter of celluloid bosh, occasionally seeps a play that presents problems, doesn't attempt to solve many of them, points out a moral, pleases the audience, and makes no effort to have the heroine and the hero meet together at the end. This is what happens in "Good Women" at the Pantages this week.

The particularly notable thing about "Good Women" is that it has not the usual happy ending. It holds a sensible, satisfying ending that any censor would approve, but still it has a wallop that puts ordinary bootleg to shame. She doesn't marry the man. She doesn't have to. You are better satisfied that she doesn't.

Rosemary Theby in the lead presents one of the best pieces of acting in her career. Every move she makes connects with another in the picture and her actions are just a series of poses, each one artistic.

The other characters are good, in places well above the average. Hamilton Revelle as an arrogant, egotistical lover is delightful in his absurdity. Arthur Stuart Hull is not as strong as he might be in his part, but he shows the average man's weakness in a pleasing way which leaves you pitying him.

Turning to the vaudeville portion of the bill, let it be asked if any show is complete without a ripping humorous reference to "The Four Horsemen?" At least, recently, no variety house has left it out and the audience always goes into convulsions over the mispronounciation. They did it at the Pantages yesterday and they probably will again today with the same results.

Judson Cole starts off the most poorly of any act on the bill, with the exception of a couple of club jugglers who end the same way, but Judson comes in strong at the end and is appreciated. He is a magician, but lives it down with a very clever line and his talk far outshines his tricks, which is undoubtedly what he wants. Tech Murdock and Iris Kennedy are a pleasing couple in a song and dance number. Baggett and Sheldon throw hats and things around to the gasps of elderly ladies down front, and Senator Murphy talks on topics of the day.

The bill is seasoned with two musical acts. If any one in the rear of the theater watched Poole's Melody Maids it might be thought that it was a deaf and dumb act. The little lady singing the leads needs Tanlac for her voice as it can scarcely be heard in the middle of the house. Roe Reaves has the other girl act and between barber shop harmonies, his beauties sing a few delightful songs.

LLOYD TABULATES EFFECTS OF COMEDY.

"After looking at moving-picture comedies for many years," said Harold Lloyd yesterday, "I have decided that it is possible to measure the length, breadth and thickness of merriment. For instance, some funny incidents on the screen are more comical than others. So we have to employ some means of measuring laughter."

Four smiles—One titter.
Two titters—One giggle.
Five giggles—One equine giggle (horse laugh.)
Two equines—One hyena laugh.
Three hyenas—One snort.
Three snorts—One roar.
Two roars—One howl.
Two howls—One scream.
Twelve screams—One first-class case of hysterics.
Two hysterics—Knock 'em dead.

SUPER-FESTIVAL OF TONE AT "POP" CONCERT

With the aid of Mischa Guterson, Sid Grauman has planned and rehearsed a concert that will be distinctive in local musical records—"Robespierre," the French number written by Litoff; "Samson and Delilah," by Saint-Saens; "Finlandia," by Sibelius; "Valse Triste," also by Sibelius and other compositions will be played.

The regular Grauman orchestra will also be augmented by the addition of several instruments.

Real Variety in Neilan's "Bits of Life."

Backgrounds of four different corners of the globe are duplicated in "Bits of Life," Marshall Neilan's picture soon to be released. In a number of instances special scenes in distant countries were photographed by foreign representatives under Mr. Neilan's cabled directions and shipped to this country to be matched into the scenes of "Bits of Life."

The eastern and western seaports of the two hemispheres play an important part in the production. In the Western Hemisphere various situations were filmed in New York City. Upon completion of these scenes the company journeyed to the other end of the continent, and in Los Angeles and San Francisco further incidents in the stories were photographed.

On the Eastern Hemisphere, the extreme eastern port of Hongkong plays an important part in one of the stories of which there for four in "Bits of Life." Actual scenes of this seaport are woven into the close-up reproduction staged in Hollywood, lending further variety in atmosphere. A continental unnamed city, obviously on the other coast of Europe, adds still another locale, in which picturesque foreigners unfold a mysterious tale.

As for characters, the New York resident of Central Park, west of the Bowery, the Chinese coolie and the Oriental princess, the mysterious Hindu and the polished royalty of the continent, the crooks of the American metropolis and the Americanized merchant of San Francisco's Chinatown, are pictured in a kaleidoscopic introduction of types from all parts of the world.

Satire, comedy-drama, melodrama and farce are presented in the four episodes, each of which offers a distinct plot. Scenes typical of a half-dozen nations are woven into the stories. Humor, romance, tragedy and pathos are injected in situations that in theme and general construction are as wide apart as the four seaports with which the stories deal.

HIGH JINKS REVUE IS ANKLEISH AFFAIR.

Fifty dainty ankles peeking out from under the plush curtain announced emphatically yesterday that "Champagne and Oysters" was about to be served as the new musical comedy offering of the Hi Jinks Revue at the Burbank. The ankles constitute one of the attractions of the members of the beauty chorus, who revealed themselves not only as gifted dancers, but as singers of considerable class.

Al and Loie Bridge headlined the cast of clever performers. The young-old couple, seen in characterizations that strike a new note with each new weekly production, have become exceedingly popular. Their appearance is the cue for generous applause.

Musical numbers mingled with the rapid fire dialogue, and the comedy situations of the new show are very much to the laugh.

ALL-BOY CASTS IN NEW TWO-REELERS.

Freddie Crocker, a kid actor, who played the midget in the Campbell comedies, is soon to be featured in a series of two-reelers, in which he will appear as a street waif. The supporting cast will be composed altogether of boys.

Though but 8 years of age, Freddie has been working in pictures for four years. He has appeared with Max Linder, Vivian Rich, Anita Stewart, "Smiling" Billy Jones, Madlaine Traverse, Jane Ranking and in several Selig productions.

In the picture unit will be every type of American boy from the effete to the pugnacious, not to speak of the smiling darky with the ivory-white molars.

RICHARD DIX PROPOSES.

Richard Dix, Goldwyn leading man, has a new title—"the great proposer." Mr. Dix has been in only one picture in which he did not propose marriage to the leading lady. Helene Chadwick has been the object of his avowal three times. Leatrice Joy, May Collins and Colleen Moore once each. Yet with all these proposals to his credit, Richard remains a bachelor!

FLASHES.

"FIGHTER" WINS.

CONWAY TEARLE IN CHAMPION FILM AT TALLY'S.

By Grace Kingsley.

It came to town heralded by no special fanfare of press agent's trumpets; but it certainly lighted with a wallop so far as a big crowd, including myself, was concerned yesterday. I refer to "The Fighter," one of the best pictures of the month, from Albert Payson Terhune's story, which is showing at Tally's Broadway, and which has Conway Tearle as its star. In this capital picture, Terhune, aided and abetted by Henry Kolker, who directed, and by Tearle and his co-players, who acted, goes a long way toward showing that a screen story doesn't have to show naked women, nor high-power sex appeal, nor be spectacular with sets and extras, to be thoroughly captivating and absorbing.

It discovers to us the simple little fact that what's needed in screen stories in common with the other sorts of stories, is imagination. It appears to be pretty rare, this precious gold that gilds the dullest theme. Terhune has imagination, and "The Fighter" has vigor and swift action as well as showing the resourcefulness which evolves fresh treatment even of old situations.

"The Fighter" is about a boy who began his militant life by licking another boy who called his father a thief, and who kept right on winning by sheer force, brain and resourcefulness. Tearle plays the role, as might have been expected, with thoughtfulness, despite a certain piquant briskness, but entirely without swagger. He's a man of the world, but uncynical despite his knowledge of men, or perhaps because of the very depth of it. A fine bit of character drawing, impressively natural, if not profound.

The fighting carries the fighter up to the presidency of a railroad, and keeps him there, and it's all absorbingly interesting, because human and natural, as well as ingenious. It's plausible, too, even when mounting to a breath-taking climax, when the fighter's engine, on which he is travelling, to defeat his political enemies, and which he is driving himself, falls through a burning bridge. No, he's not killed, and there is a piquant tang in trying to figure out just exactly how he managed to escape, and come back to face his enemies. "How'd you get here?" somebody asks. And he answers, "Well, you don't suppose I run a one-engine line, do you? What kind of a railroad do you think I'm running, anyhow?"

There's a subsidiary theme, involving the love story—the irresistible tyranny of youth over age. Winifred Westover is the tantilizing young lady, who sets forth her tenets, her conclusions, with all the amazing audacity and cock-sureness of youth. And how we do love to see the sweet young chicken won by the brave middle-aged man of the world.

ORPHEUM BILL SHOWS SPICE AND BEAUTY.

Don't know how they're keeping it up at the Orpheum, but they certainly are. The bills are becoming positively monotonously excellent. Not a thing for the critic to crab about.

Back with us again are Louise Dresser and Jack Gardner, those skillful and subtle artists, who bring a new repertoire of songs with some of the old favorites. The "Mary's Lamb" duet is capital, as is also the Alphabet Song. In fact the duet numbers make the biggest hit in their repertoire, though Miss Dresser is charming and appealing in the "Old Fashioned Rose" ditty, and Gardner is every inch the artistic showman in both his "Celie" song and the "Ignats" number. Their reception was a warm one.

The crowd lambasts its hands off for Carson and Willard, one man assaying a straight but droll "ballyhoo," the other in comic make up and introduced by the ballyhoo as "the doctor." The doctor delivers a monologue full of wise cracks on current topics, with two special hits in "What is the country coming to, my friends?. . . . You mean, when is the country coming to, my friends?" and "Prohibition! oh when, when will the price of liquor come down? When the revenue officers eliminate the middleman, and sell direct to the consumer!" That last stopped the show.

Another wallop was landed by Jean Barrios, female impersonator, who is both kidder and kidde, so far as the audience is concerned, but who landed neatly with his impersonations of Kitty Gordon and Ray Samuels. His voice is pleasing, but he wears his clothes so badly in the opening it's a dead give-away.

Marguerite Calvert ought to be twins, as she dances very nicely indeed while playing the violin very nicely indeed. She's full of pep, and warmed her audience thoroughly yesterday.

They stay in their seats, the hard boiled Monday afternooners, for the Four Lamy Brothers, which fact makes it unnecessary to recommend them further. Their casting stunts on the trapeze, aided by an amazingly clever clown, not only kept the crowd from emigrating, but won the boys innumerable breathless "Oh's" and "Ah's."

Ona Munson, dainty and chic, and her boys, Flanagan and Morrison in "A Golf Lesson," and Paul Gordon and Ame Rica, continue to register highpower hits, during a second week.

Second-Run Honeymoon.

And while we're on the subject of vacations, from Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Doris May MacDonald also comes word that these two lately-weds are having a sort of second-run honeymoon at the island.

Paramount Parade.

It isn't every day that Jesse L. Lasky gets a chance to call the roll on his stars and have them all answer "present" at once. That's what he did yesterday, however, on the occasion of the opening of Paramount week celebration with a mammoth parade, which started at the Lasky studio on Vine street in Hollywood and ended at the Paramount exchange downtown.

Incidentally it was an automobile parade, too, and each star drove his or her own car. The only stars absent were Elsie Ferguson and Gloria Swanson, both of them in the East.

Charles Eyton, general manager of the Lasky studios, took part in the parade, representing Mr. Lasky, and the stars, directors and writers appeared were Wallace Reid, Roscoe Arbuckle, William S. Hart, Ethel Clayton, Bebe Daniels, Wanda Hawley, May McAvoy, Douglas MacLean, Agnes Ayres, Betty Compson, Milton Sills, Lila Lee, Theodore Roberts, Clarence Burton, Charles Ogle, Clarence Geldert, Henry Barrows, Warner Baxter, Herbert Rawlinson, Claire Windsor, Mary MacLaren, Mildred Harris, Conrad Nagle, Jack Holt, Elliott Dexter, Jacqueline Logan, Lois Wilson, Kathlyn Williams, Walter Hiers, Ruth Miller, Julia Faye, Shannon Day, Nigel Barrie, Helen Dunbar, William P. Carlton, Casson Ferguson, Howard Higgin, Sam Wood, William D. Taylor, Penrhyn Stanlaws, Joseph Henebery, Rollin Sturgeon, Tom Forman, Frank Urson, Frank O'Connor, James Cruze, George Melford, Sir Gilbert Parker, Elinor Glyn, Thompson Buchanan, Lorna Moon, Julia Crawford Ivers, Clara Beranger, Olga Printzlau, Walter Woods, Monte Katterjohn and Beulah Marie Dix.

Sid Grauman Celebrates.

Speaking of Paramount Week, Sid Grauman is preparing some brilliant surprises for his patrons at the Million Dollar House and the Rialto, the latter of which, by the way, continues to run along in business with Elinor Glyn's "Great Moment."

Kipling Story Allusion.

In its revelation of love, its subtlety of emotion, its setting, its atmosphere and color, "Without Benefit of Clergy" is proving an attraction at the Symphony Theater. Virginia Brown Faire scores an individual triumph as a beautiful Hindu girl, and Thomas Holding, cast as the English engineer, in his tings and investiture reflects the director, has followed Kipling's instructions to the letter. Item of caste marks and color, it is said.

Not the least interesting feature of the musical score which has been arranged by Ted Henkel, director of the symphony, Florence Middleton sings "Kashmiri Song" in the prologue.

Betty Ross Clark Visits.

Betty Ross Clark, who is now engaged in motoring through Southern California, these days, with her husband, Arthur Collins, is at present she is at the Carthay Circle, after which she will return to Los Angeles by way of Warner's Hollywood studio.

HAYS ASKS FOR SQUARE DEALS.

Postmaster-General Speaks in St. Louis.

All Labor Problems Soluble, He Believes.

Davis is Orator at Detroit Ceremonies.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 5.—Economic difficulties and industrial problems can be and will be solved in only one way, and this is by finding exact justice and enforcing it, Postmaster-General Hays declared tonight in a Labor Day address before the National Association of Letter Carriers' convention.

"Every problem is soluble," he asserted. "It is simply a matter of a square deal."

"Live and let live is not enough," he continued. "We must live and help live in America. The labor of the country constitutes its strength and its wealth. It is entitled to and must receive fair representation in all councils of the nation. The better that labor is conditioned, the higher its reward and the wider its opportunities, and the greater its comforts and refinements, the better will be our civilization and safer will be our government, the more sacred our homes.

FAIR DEALING SPIRIT.

"For myself, I am convinced that the true solution of the questions arising between labor and capital lies in an awakened public conscience, in a thorough inculcation of the spirit of fair dealing among men; then in wise leadership and in the establishment of boards of conciliation or arbitration which are free from the polluting touch of selfish interests or political demagogues to which the interests concerned may freely and confidently appeal.

"I believe, too, that we must develop a reasonable method for honest and efficient labor to have an opportunity to acquire an interest in the business to which it is expected to give its best efforts. Pending this development, the equilibrium between production and wages must be established and maintained, and there must be justice for all—exact justice for labor, exact justice for capital, and exact justice for the public."

DETROIT CEREMONY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—Dedication of Labor Day, 1921, to the relief of the nation's unemployed, was proposed by Secretary of Labor Davis today in his address here.

"In the past, Labor Day has been a holiday in honor of the man who toils," declared Secretary Davis. "This year it is a day that millions of our people would rather celebrate, not by taking a holiday, but by going back to work at a job."

The dedication of the day to the relief of the unemployed, estimated by the Labor Secretary to number "nearly six million," should carry with it, he said, a concerted effort on the part of all Americans, be they employees or employers. As measures of partial relief the Secretary proposed the undertaking of public works, the distribution of work in mills "so that all may have jobs for at least part of the week," and the shaking off of fear and the taking on of faith and courage.

"Above all we need to shake off fear and take on faith and courage," Mr. Davis asserted. "For the lack of that courage we are neglecting any number of large undertakings that would give a mighty shove to the great stalled engine of American production."

The Secretary directed a message to the employers of the nation, declaring:

"Don't set your wages by the hungry crowd at the gate to your mill. That is only a temporary wage. During the war the pendulum swung over to the side of the employees. Now it has swung back to your side. Play fair now and you will do more to stabilize your business and bring good feeling than anything else you can do. Keep in mind the fact that these men who are swarming around your gates looking for work are the same human beings as yourself. They have the same aspirations for their families that you have for yours. Regulate matters now for the future and play the part of far-sighted wisdom."

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Various weather experts have been predicting an early and unusually severe winter, and their opinions are backed up by the animals in the parks.

Squirrels are storing up unusually large quantities of nuts. The prairie dogs, a full month ahead of time, are carrying food down into their diggings, and plenty of it. Robins and blackbirds are flocking together, presumably preparing for migration a month earlier than usual.

Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of the Bronx Zoo, admits the animals are making preparations for winter much ahead of the usual time, but he inclines to the belief that they have been deceived by the misbehavior of the seasons. Spring came in a month ahead of time this year, and now the leaves have about reached the end of their summer life. Mr. Ditmars says we may have an unusually long autumn with a protracted period of Indian summer, or we may jump headlong into an early and severe winter.

NEW YORK PASSES LABOR DAY PARADE.

UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS DRAIN TREASURIES AND EVENT IS GIVEN UP.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—There was no Labor Day parade today in New York. It was the first time in a generation that union labor was without its procession of workers. The Central Trades and Labor Council, by referendum, voted against a parade because of the prevalence of unemployment.

"We have no money this year for uniforms and floats," was the sentiment of the men.

The unions having the fewest idle members voted against a parade by large majorities. The unions having the largest number of unemployed, including the longshoremen, seamen, teamsters and metal workers, voted for a parade.

Unemployment benefits, averaging $10 a week per man, already have been a heavy drain on the treasuries of many unions. In several instances men at work are being assessed to aid their idle fellow-craftsmen.

The only formal recognition of the day by union labor, aside from the cessation of work, was the outing of the Loyal Labor Legion of New York City. The legion was organized, according to its constitution, to impress upon union labor "the necessity for radically changing the policies and methods of dealing with employers," and demands that "organized labor substitute reason for force, that autocracy be eliminated and that courts of arbitration with power to enforce obedience to their decisions be created in all States."

Henry J. Allen, Governor of Kansas, the first State to create such a body, was invited to attend, but was unable to be present.

OIL MEN TO STAND PAT ON WAGE CUT

Two Hundred and Thirty-three Companies Will Make No New Agreement.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Out of approximately 240 oil producing companies, oil and gasoline pipe line companies, dehydrating and gasoline plants and other producers of oil and oil by-products in California, 233 have stated that they will make no new wage agreements with their field and plant workers, Arthur F. L. Bell, chairman of the operators' committee, announced today. The operators and plant group includes all but the Standard Oil Company, which has promulgated an independent wage announcement, calling for a 10 per cent decrease, effective October 1.

Answering the demand of the oil workers' union that the operators accept the services of the President's mediation board, a circular letter promulgated by the committee, said:

"The activity of the mediation board has been purely advisory and has only extended to the point where its services might be used if mediation had been required." The letter said that at no time had there been friction between the operators and the members of the board.

The operators and plant group put a horizontal decrease of $1 a day into effect on September 1.

Contrary to the belief being expressed in some sections there will be no lengthening of the present working day of eight hours, Bell said. According to Bell, it was the belief in these sections that the old twelve-hour day would be restored at the reduced wage.

MANILA OFFICIAL RESIGNS.

MADERO FAMILY TO RESUME OPERATIONS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MONTEREY (Mex.) Sept. 5.—What is regarded here as a significant and encouraging feature of business conditions in Mexico is the preparations which members of the Madero family are making for resuming their various industries on a scale even larger than they were operated on before the revolution of the late Francisco I. Madero, Jr., which brought about the overthrow of President Porfirio Diaz, was started.

There are several members of the Madero family, including the sons and grandsons of the late Evaristo Madero, the founder of the big fortune. Their wealth consists of several millions acres of land, many flour mills, guayule rubber factories, mines and banks.

At a recent meeting of members of the family held at Saltillo plans for placing the various industries again in operation were discussed and agreed upon. During the administration of President Carranza all members of the Madero family, with on exception were exiled from Mexico. For a time their various properties were taken over and operated for the benefit of the government.

Amnesty was granted the Maderos by President Obregon and most of the former exiles have come back with the avowed purpose of recuperating their reduced fortunes.

Ernesto Madero, who was Minister of Finance under his nephew, President Madero, has established headquarters at Saltillo. He formerly was at the head of one of the largest banks in Monterey. During the long revolutionary period he made his home in New York.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGES ARE INJURING CHINA.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PEKING, Sept. 5.—China, at the Washington conference, will advocate the open door in the true sense of that term, but opened from within by China, declared Dr. F. K. C. Tyau, chief secretary of the Chinese delegation, today on the eve of his departure. The open door, he declared, as it has been observed thus far through the initiative of foreign governments, has not prevented spheres of influence and special privileges which always will be a stumbling block in the way of peace in the far East. What China wants and for which she hopes the Washington conference will pave the way, is the removal of such a stumbling block, he continued.

Naturally, he said, these special privileges, which are the rights of existing treaties, can only be eliminated, if ever, through the sympathy toward China by foreign powers. Nevertheless, they are a potential source of trouble while they exist, he declared. Therefore, China will welcome the wiping out of all special privileges in China in the interests of peace and for the sake of China's integrity.

There will never be complete peace in the far East, he declared, while China occupies the position as inferior to that of any other nation, and until the spheres of influence and special privileges cease to afford a source of friction between the interested nations. China's interest in the Washington conference will be to see the adoption of broad principles, conducive to peace in the Pacific, and if the discussion of principles includes conditions which impede the amplification of such principles, the Chinese delegation will be prepared to lay its case before the conference, Dr. Tyau asserted. China, he said, will welcome the utmost publicity in the discussions.

SCALP TROUBLES ARE MANY

Specialist Says Different Hair and Scalp Ailments Require Different Treatment.

Prof. John H. Austin of Chicago, who now has offices at Hamburger's, has devoted over forty years to the study of hair and scalp troubles. He has found that only with the aid of a most powerful microscope is it possible to determine the exact trouble with which the hair or scalp is afflicted.

People who really value their hair have come to consider a hair specialist of as much importance as a doctor or dentist, for how can anyone without the knowledge of experience distinguish between such scalp diseases as seborrhea oleosa, seborrhea sicca, alopecia pityrodes, etc.

Prof. Austin says that the use of hair cures, dandruff cures, hair tonics and vaseline without proper diagnosis is like taking medicine without knowing what you are trying to cure.

Men and women troubled with scalp ailments should see Prof. Austin and be convinced that the particular trouble must be known before such case can be intelligently treated.

FREE MICROSCOPIC EXAMINATION of the hair and scalp—both men and women invited. Private parlors, Second Floor, Hamburger's. Hours, 10 to 12 and 2 to 4.—[Advertisement.

WOMEN AFTER HIGHER SALARY.

Fair Play in Civil Service is Asked For.

To File Claims at Meeting in New Orleans.

Glaring Incidents Set Out in Resolution.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Fair play for women in the United States civil service will be one of the questions brought forward in the fifth annual convention of the National Federation of Federal Employees to be held in New Orleans, September 12 to 16.

Miss Gertrude M. McNally, third vice-president of the federation, who will be chairman of the committee on legislation, will ask the convention to call upon Congress and the administrative officers to abolish the double wage standard now existing, which, it is pointed out, keeps women out of the higher paid positions, gives men the promotions oftentimes over better qualified women, and fixes a lower rate of pay for women than for men on work of 'comparable skill.

RESOLUTION ASSERTIONS.

The resolution, which will be introduced by Miss McNally, makes the following assertions as to existing conditions in the civil service.

"The average salary of women is $200 less than the average salary of men.

"During months when, because of war conditions, women were appointed in greater numbers at higher salaries than ever before, only 5 per cent of the women appointed to the United States civil service were paid more than $1300, while 46 per cent of the male appointees received more than that.

"Many bureaus have a virtual deadline for women in respect to salaries, and the women employees are found massed in the lower scales of pay, very few reaching executive positions or receiving salaries more than $1800, although doing highly technical work.

SALARIES LIMITED.

"Congress, on recommendation of Senator Smoot of Utah and Representative Wood of Indiana, has limited the salaries of women experts in the women's bureau of the Department of Labor to $1800 a year, except three at $2000, while in the same law allowing salaries of $2750 to $5000 in the bureau of efficiency and other bureaus where comparable positions are filled by men. Senators said when interviewed $2000 is enough for a woman.

"Women flag makers in the Navy yards, women working in the arsenals, in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and in the mail equipment shop of the Postoffice Department, where they are paid from lump sum appropriations with rates fixed by the department heads, are paid less for their skilled machine operations than men are paid for unskilled labor, such as pushing trucks.

"Some women in the government service, in such institutions as St. Elizabeth's Hospital for the Insane, and elsewhere, are paid only $10 a week, which is less than a legal wage for women in private employment in the District of Columbia and States having minimum wage laws."

LATIN-AMERICAN TRADE UNDERGOES NO CHANGE

REPORTS OF RUINOUS COMPETITION EXAGGERATED, SAY EXPERTS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Commercial and economic conditions in the South American republics underwent but little change the past month, according to cabled reports from foreign representatives made public tonight by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. German competition with American trade in Latin America was reported to be lessening in importance, while the reduced purchasing power of the German Republic was declared to be still acting unfavorably on all exporting countries.

"Altogether," the bureau said, "it appears many reports of ruinous German competition in South America have been exaggerated."

The salient features of Mexican developments during August, according to the Mexico City report, were general attempts to lower production costs, increased unemployment, a continued handicap to business because of the transportation situation, and a stimulating effect of the coming centennial celebration. The general condition of government finances is more unfavorable, the report added, it being reported short term loans aggregating $1,000,000 secured by oil taxes for July have not been paid.

FOREIGN TRADE IS SUMMARIZED.

Decreases in Shipments Are Now Explained.

Exports to Germany Larger Than Before War.

Greatest Change Noted in European Business.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—An analysis of foreign trade figures for the fiscal year 1921 made by the division of statistics of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce sheds light on the manner in which different countries are affected in the decreased shipments to and from the United States.

It is stated that the decrease of $1,584,000,000 in United States imports during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, as compared with 1920, was due to heavy declines in purchases from every grand division of the world except Oceania, while the decreased exports of an almost like amount were due to smaller sales, in value, to Europe and Asia, the exports to other grand divisions showing small increases over the preceding year.

Imports from Europe dropped twenty per cent in value, from $1,179,000,000 in 1920 to $937,000,000 in 1921. Of the total loss of $242,000,000 the United Kingdom accounts for $198,000,000, due to decreased imports of rubber, tin, wool, furs, hides, other raw materials and manufactured goods.

FEWER DIAMONDS.

Imports from The Netherlands dropped $39,000,000, all in cut diamonds, and smaller decreases are shown for Italy, France and Spain.

Imports from Germany increased by $46,000,000 and from Belgium $13,000,000.

Imports from South America decreased $375,000,000, nearly forty-four per cent, in the last year. Brazil shows a decrease of $134,000,000, of which coffee accounts for a loss of $89,000,000, although the quantity increased by 5,000,000 pounds. Cocoa beans, rubber and hides show important decreases. Imports from Argentine declined by $133,000,000, hides accounting for about $60,000,000 and flax seed for $39,000,000. Chile and Uruguay lost $35,000,000 each.

Imports from Asia decreased forty per cent in 1921 from 1920, the loss in value amounting to $553,000,000. Our purchases from Japan declined to $274,000,000 largely in raw and manufactured silk. Of the $113,000,000 decreased from China $45,000,000 were in raw silk and $16,000,000 in goat skins. Imports from Dutch East Indies increased by $46,000,000, all in sugar.

LOSSES ARE BALANCED.

The decrease of $1,832,000,000 in values of exports in 1921 as compared with 1920 is not, as in imports, distributed throughout the world, but is confined to Europe, Canada and Japan. In fact, the aggregate of the decreases during the last year to Japan and the four European countries allied with us during the late war practically equals the total decrease, the losses to Canada and the neutral countries being balanced by gains in sales to Latin-American and Far Eastern countries.

The total decrease in exports to Europe was $1,455,000,000, of which $825,000,000 was to the United Kingdom, $285,000,000 to France, $123,000,000 to Belgium and $95,000,000 to Italy, besides smaller losses to other countries. Exports to Germany increased by $180,000,000 from $202,000,000 in 1920 to $382,000,000 in 1921, larger than the exports of $345,000,000 in the pre-war year 1914.

The decrease of $100,000,000 in sales to Canada is offset by gains of $124,000,000 to Mexico, and $8,000,000 to Cuba with North America as a whole showing an increase of $12,000,000.

In South America gains of $33,000,000 to Argentina, $13,000,000 to Brazil, $9,000,000 to Peru and $5,000,000 to Chile were offset by losses to Colombia of $19,000,000 and to Venezuela of $9,000,000, leaving a net increase of $33,000,000 in the 1921 exports to South America over 1920.

Exports to Japan dropped by $264,000,000 from a value of $453,000,000 in 1920, to $189,000,000 in 1921, but at that they were more than three times the pre-war exports. Excepting a decrease of $30,000,000 to Siberia, exports to other Asiatic countries gained over the previous year or held their own. Sales to China increased by $19,000,000, to Dutch East Indies $16,000,000 and to British India $13,000,000.

IMPERIAL TO REPEAL SUNDAY BLUE LAWS.

IMPERIAL, Sept. 5.—The Sunday closing ordinance which made a blue law community of Imperial on Sunday, will probably be repealed at the meeting of the City Council next week. At the regular meeting last night, an ordinance repealing the present harsh law was introduced. Under the city regulations it must lay over for one week before being acted upon but the members of the Council individually talked in a way that leads to the belief that a majority are for the repeal and for the resumption of business along the same lines as is the custom in other Imperial Valley towns.

PRESENT CLAIMS FOR LOWER FREIGHT RATES

EL CENTRO, Sept. 5.—Action by the Board of Supervisors looking to the proper presentation of the rate case before the Railroad Commission September 12, is expected today.

The Supervisors some time ago asked the commission for a hearing on Imperial rates contending that the valley is being discriminated against. The hearing has been set for various dates and has been postponed each time. An expert rate man was secured and the case will be presented with a good record a week from Monday in the opinion of those who are handling the matter for the associated chambers of commerce of the valley.

NOMINATE CANDIDATES.

IMPERIAL, Sept. 5.—The nominating committee for the Imperial Chamber of Commerce has recommended that the members elect the following directors at the next general election which will be held in regular election style, polls, ballots and all:

S. E. Burrows, George Sale, L. E. Betts, Joseph Hallawell, Mrs. Lincoln, Miss Addis, John Stevenson, Lester Eichold and Hyman Shipsman. Following the closing of the polls there will be an annual banquet.

HARDING SETS PEOPLE RIGHT.

Tries to Dispel False View on Disarmament Plan.

Coming Conference to be on Limitation Only.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Washington today is getting results in the way of reflex on President Harding's speech, addressed to the members of the Army War College, in which he made the attempt specifically to dispel the false hopes of many of the American people that the coming disarmament may end war for all time.

The instant that the disarmament conference was proposed there were evidences that the American people here, there and elsewhere, following the line of their "unthinking thought" of 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1917, early were jumping to the conclusion that war for all time was to cease, that the United States soon would get rid of its Army and Navy, and that powder, shells, dreadnaughts, gas and other weapons and munitions of warfare soon would be sent into the nether place of the forgotten.

It actually was necessary for men who understood the situation to write words of warning because of the seeming widely spread feeling that the conference of the winter was certain to smooth the front of Mars and to keep it smooth for all time. Officials pointed out at the time the fact that there is a wide difference between hope and certainty.

HARDING GIVES VIEWS.

The President finally felt compelled himself to make public his views on the subject so that the American people would not later hold him responsible for making false promises. Of course, he never made any promises—all that he held out being a hope that armaments might be limited.

Loose writing is responsible for some of the misunderstanding concerning the scope of the coming conference. It is not to be a disarmament conference, but on the subject of the limitation of armaments. There is a difference between the two things which needs no explaining.

Every official seemingly knows that selfishness will enter largely into the proceedings. It is pointed out today by a student of the situation that the success of the conference will depend largely on the extent to which conscience plays a part in it.

No one apparently expects that as a first procedure the representatives of each nation will say "go as far as you like; we will follow," nor that the aces of intention will be pulled from the packs and placed face up on the table, but the hope is that eventually conscience will do its work, and that not only the ace, but the other fifty-one cards, will be dealt separately with the backs down.

THE GREAT PROBLEM.

There are no evidences today of overanxiety on the part of the American Army and Navy officers lest their occupations are to be gone after the conference agreements have been signed, impressed and delivered. One of the great problems which will be presented for solution will concern itself with the size of the army and navy which each nation must maintain for purely defensive purposes against outsiders, and for safety purposes against riotous citizens of its own land.

There are some carloads of written and printed material on the subject of offense and defense. It has been apparent that when France has written or spoken about defense it has had its mind on one probable enemy, and it can be said truthfully that recently the United States has had its eye more fixedly in one direction than in any other when thinking on the protection of its interests from an assailant.

In the matter of Navy disarmament the length of coast line will enter into the discussion. The United States has a coast line more that a few hundred yards long, and so has Great Britain with its far-flung lines of empire.

FRANCE NEEDS ARMY.

France apparently does not care much about the question of naval disarmament, but it will insist that it needs a bigger army than any other nation for defense purposes and defense purposes only. France has not been aggressively inclined since the days of the third Napoleon; at least, so history seems to run, and it was the third Napoleon, rather than France, that was aggressive then. However, comparatively recent disclosures have proved that in 1870 Germany was bent on aggression, although it managed largely to conceal the fact until certain correspondence was made public.

Administration officials do believe, and apparently, sincerely, that millions on millions will be saved the different countries of the earth as the result of the coming conference.

The belief has its basis in a very simple fact. It is thought that if each nation discovers that its scale of disarmament is to be properly proportioned to that of other nations, no evil can result.

If one country today has a hundred battleships and another country has eight, each of the countries will be better off economically and no worse off defensively if the proportion shall become eighty and sixty. Seemingly the chief danger that there may be difficulty in arriving at a proper disarmament solution lies in the fact that each nation may fear that another is not going to do what it agrees to do. The "scrap of paper" incident has had its result.

If Belgium had not been invaded by Germany fewer suspicions probably would be harbored in the minds of the men who are to take their seats about the conference table in November.

AUTOMOBILE THIEVES ACTIVE IN NEW YORK.

MORE THAN FIVE HUNDRED MACHINES STOLEN IN AUGUST, IS REPORT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—From unofficial sources it was learned today that during August 524 automobiles were reported stolen in this city.

On August 5 thirty-five cars are said to have been taken, the high mark for the month. The low record was on August 21, when but seven were reported. The police have ceased reporting the lists of stolen cars.

So daring have been motor thieves that the August grand jury urged Judge Nott in General Sessions that harsh measures be taken against them. The insurance companies at a recent meeting laid plans for protecting themselves from the depredations of the thieves, and as a result many of them now refuse to pay insurance on car equipment unless the car also is stolen.

What Every Retailer Needs

A Way to Get Better Records at Lower Cost

Why are prompt and accurate figure records so important in retail business?

Because in successful retailing time is everything.

You can't check up your business figures once a month and expect to "get by." Even once a week is taking a big chance. You ought to know every day.

You must buy today, sell tomorrow; take a small profit and turn it over quickly.

You can't carry unsalable stock, long credits, slow collections, or any unnecessary expense in retail business as it is run today.

You want to know every day the essential facts about how your business stands.

Hard to get? No, easy and economical, if you do the work on a Burroughs Machine.

It will quickly give you the totals for charge sales, cash sales, bank deposits, additions to stock, goods on hand, charge accounts, overhead expense and profits.

The Burroughs Machine is easy to buy on the installment plan. It will pay for itself as it goes along—usually does it in error-prevention alone.

Let our representative show you how other merchants are getting real profits out of their Burroughs Adding, Bookkeeping or Calculating Machines, besides having a lot more daily brass-tack figure information that is invaluable.

If you're not satisfied the machine will pay its way we don't want you to take it. Call us on the telephone—you can't lose and may gain a great deal.

SEEK TO REPAIR BROKEN UNIONS.

Movement on in Bay City to Herd Back Deserters.

"Social Ostracism" Planned for Hesitating Ones.

Butchers' Strike Settled After Week of Idleness.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Reorganization of the San Francisco locals of the carpenters' union will be started this week, according to W. A. Cole, member of the general executive board of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. Cole said that while no unlawful or violent influence will be exerted to persuade workmen to rejoin the unions every legal effort will be made to re-establish the carpenters' unions to their greatest strength at the earliest possible moment.

Cole said that no difficulty is expected and he believes the men will not hesitate to renew dropped affiliations.

When asked what steps would be taken if workers on a building refused to join the unions and declared for the "American plan," he said that the workers would be punished by "social ostracism."

Cole declared that the unions had never questioned the right of employers to choose their own labor, but that the unions did claim the right to explain what he termed as "the necessity for union affiliations," after the men had gone to work.

BUTCHERS' STRIKE OFF.

After a strike of a week's duration by eighty butchers, the seven retail firms employing the men have agreed, according to M. A. Maxwell, secretary of the butchers' union, to take the men back under the old agreement previously negotiated and the men will return to work tomorrow. According to labor officials the seven shops refused to sign agreements sanctioned by the Butchers' Board of Trade and withdrew from that organization.

The refusal to sign agreements resulted in the strike of the employees. The walkout was brought to an end Saturday following arbitration of the dispute before the newly organized Industrial Relations Committee, with John A. O'Connell, secretary of the Labor Council, representing the unions and with each of the shops represented by a delegate.

SPITTOON NOW NEAR EXTINCT.

Courthouse Sawdust Box Also is Disappearing.

Woman's Advent Into Public Life Given as Cause.

Public Buildings Said to be More Tidy and Clean.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Woman's advent into public life is causing the gradual but sure extinction of the crock spittoon and the sawdust box in court rooms, according to the observation of Harriett Reid, first woman arbitrator of the Illinois Industrial Commission, whose duties takes her to many courthouses in the state.

SCARCE AS BUFFALO.

"The spittoon and its brother, the sawdust box," said Miss Reid, "are becoming almost as scarce as the buffalo. Even the boldest 'and baddest' of men seem to have some hesitancy about exhibiting before women their fondness for the cud.

"My work as arbitrator takes me the round of courthouses and city halls, and I note a decided change for the better. Public buildings are much cleaner than they were ten years ago. I attribute it to women's advent into public life.

"Women's clubs, interested in community service, are responsible generally for the women's rest rooms in courthouses. Women's influence is seen also in the better kept courthouse lawns and the settees scattered about.

WOMEN OFFICERS.

"Frequency with which women visit city and county court buildings is also quite noticeable now. It is not unusual to come across women county officers, an at several of my hearings, women and girls from the various offices come in to listen to compensation cases.

"I am often asked if I handle women's cases only. No; I handle all the cases in the particular vicinity to which I am sent, and the cases range from a pin scratch to a broken back, and from vaccination to seven year itch."

Postponement of Hightower Trial to be Requested.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

REDWOOD CITY, Sept. 5. — E. J. Emmons, Bakersfield attorney chosen to defend William A. Hightower against the charge of murdering the Rev. Patrick E. Heslin, a Catholic priest, announced here today that he would ask a delay in Hightower's trial until the last week of October or the first week in November. His purpose, he said, was to enable gathering of evidence.

Emmons had his first conference with his client today in the County Jail here. He declared his belief in Hightower's innocence.

"The one glaring omission in the investigation of the murder," he said, "is the failure of the authorities to trace the man who lured Father Heslin from his home at Colma the night of August 2. If they trace that man, following the only tangible evidence, they will arrive at the answer to the mystery."

DEMAND ON BANKER NOW IS WITHDRAWN.

INDICTED MAN WILL HOLD HIS VICE PRESIDENCY FOR THE PRESENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Carl M. Behrens, indicted in connection with the operations of a $400,000 illicit liquor ring, won a battle today to retain his position as vice president of the Lincoln Trust and Savings Bank.

Following an announcement by President Conklin of the bank, that Mr. Behrens's resignation had been demanded, he reconsidered and decided to wait for a court verdict.

"Mr. Behrens did not use any of the funds of the bank in furthering this so-called deal," an announcement stated, "and the officers did not know he was even associated with the men named. It was decided that any action taken by the directors might be misconstrued and might cast additional reflection on Mr. Behrens."

The negroes have been demanding 75 cents a hundred pounds for picking cotton. It was said 50 cents per hundred was the prevailing rate today.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

SIMLA (India) Sept. 5.—Lord Reading, Viceroy of India, in a speech at a joint sitting of the Council of State and the legislative assembly Saturday, said it would be wrong to assume that the rising of the Moplahs in the Malabar district was symptomatic of all India, as that district had always been a storm center.

Referring to the proclamation of martial law in the Malabar area, the Viceroy declared the British authorities would have failed in their duty if they had not taken that step.

Science Proves the Danger of Bleeding Gums

Medical science proves that unhealthy gums cause serious ailments. People suffering from Pyorrhea (a disease of the gums) often suffer from other ills, such as rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders, or weakened vital organs. These ills have been traced in many cases to the Pyorrhea germs which breed in pockets about the teeth.

Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea. It begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the infecting Pyorrhea germs.

Guard your health and your teeth. Keep Pyorrhea away. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and make daily use of Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean.

35c and 60c tubes. All druggists.

FORECASTS CONDITIONS.

Business to Improve in Fall Says Bank Report; But Many Weak Firms Are Due to Fail.

A further weeding out of weak business houses during the fall is predicted in a report on business and trade conditions which will be issued by the Citizens' National Bank this week.

"This will undoubtedly be reflected in higher failure statistics, both in the number of failures and the total liabilities. This condition plus the fact that the agricultural districts will be over the peak of labor requirements may develop some pessimistic news. However, the situation then will be no more serious than now.

"Our meaning here may be made a little clearer by pointing out the fact that the present unemployment figures present a condition that does not exist, but which will exist to a larger extent than figures now indicate later on in the year. This is because figures covering unemployment originated in the industry and only change as the industry reabsorbs the unemployed units.

"However, during the summer a very large percentage of the unemployment reported by the industry has been absorbed in agriculture and the cutting down of the buying power has not registered in retail sales to the extent that the unemployment figures would indicate it should, but later on a portion of the present unemployment will be reabsorbed into industry and the residue will be what has been thrown off by agriculture. The unemployment then will register in a lowered purchasing power.

"Business will improve in the manufacturing district for two reasons: One, it slumped there first. Two, the manufacturers as a whole are in a better position than any other commercial group.

"The retail trade should be cautious in making purchases. Large stocks of goods for fall and winter are unpardonable and trade will undoubtedly not be as large as last year. The real stricture in the retail trade will undoubtedly occur during cold weather. The best method for retail trade from now on will be moderate stocks, reasonable prices, and unusual selling activity. A sincere study of commodity markets and market positions viewed broadly and without regard to class activity will be the wisest course to pursue and this advice holds goods for the manufacturer with raw goods to buy as well.

Econouic conditions in Arizona and New Mexico are analysed in the report. "Arizona," says the Citizens' bank, "has suffered severely from conditions existing during the past six to nine months." This State is largely dependent upon mining (particularly of copper,) livestock, wool, hides and cotton, all of which have been seriously affected by the present period of readjustment.

"In addition livestock and sheep have been adversely effected recently in some localities by drought. The summary of the data received from centers reporting shows that the present condition of the State must be classified as poor; the only sections which may be considered as fair are those beneficially effected by local construction work or which derive considerable support from transcontinental travel.

"Although conditions are undoubtedly bad throughout the State the people are on the whole confident of the substantial soundness of the State's position as regards the future. They are economizing and applying themselves to the task of overcoming the present difficulties.

"The State is awake to the necessity for diversifying its production wherever this is possible, and had this diversification been more nearly achieved conditions might be much better than they are at present. On the other hand reports do not indicate a very general tendency on their part to diversify as to thinking or reading.

"Undoubtedly we may expect to see a much better general tone to business in the State within the next three to four months. This should give sufficient time for mining to partially recover from its present paralysis and we have evidence in the recent strengthening of livestock and cotton markets of other favorable factors.

A review of the reports from New Mexico indicate that conditions in that State are to be classified as fair. Contrasting this State with Arizona we note the economic advantage of diversification. Retail trade is generally reported good to fair, but in spite of this fact collections are uniformly slow. On the other hand the public has largely shifted its purchasing from the higher class of goods and luxuries to necessities and medium price merchandise.

"Considering the prospects for several months in advance, it appears that conditions in this State should show a decided improvement within the next ninety days, though there will be exceptional areas uneffected and at the best the improvement will not be very great in extent.

"About 50 per cent of our reports indicate that people in general are thinking and reading along broader lines, while diversification as to agriculture is a very thoroughly accepted principle.

"Conditions in the Panhandle of Texas must be classified as fair, in fact two of the reporting centers report conditions good. The crops are almost universally in good condition throughout this part of the State and should a reduction in freight rates or any considerable increase in the price of its products materialise, this section would undoubtedly move into the classification of good. Bank clearings at the present are maintaining a fairly high level in spite of the fact that retail collections are reported as slow.

"This part of the State must be considered as undergoing a rather rapid development with many of the symptoms of boom time. It is apparent, in fact, that people have shown little recognition of the necessity of economizing and appear to be highly optimistic. About 50 per cent of our reports indicate that the people of this part of Texas are broadening their interests and contact with national conditions.

Summarizing the questionnaires returned from Oklahoma we find that 25 per cent of the sections reporting fall into the classification of poor, while the other 75 per cent are to be classified as fair. This State as a whole produces a wide variety of commodities, which in itself makes for economic stability and inasmuch as almost all of these products with the exception perhaps of coal have suffered pretty heavily through liquidation, there is every reason to believe that conditions in the State should continue to be fair until well into the fall, moving at that time into the classification of good. Bearing upon this prediction is the fact that the people of the State are apparently facing the situation wisely, are economizing and adjusting themselves to changing conditions.

TRAVELS FROM FRANCE TO SEE HER DENTIST.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Most people would walk miles to get away from a dentist, but Peggy O'Neill, the American actress, traveled 200 miles by airplane and 3000 miles by steamship to get to her dentist.

Peggy has been playing in England for two years. The producers of the play insisted upon continuing, but Peggy rebelled, saying she must return to New York to see her dentist. The managers argued that there were excellent dentists in London and Paris, and finally granted Peggy a vacation at a celebrated French watering place and offered to bring her dentist across at no expense to her.

When she arrived in Paris, she found the Olympic was steaming next day, and instantly her mind was made up. She packed her maid and baggage into an airplane and flew to Cherbourg, just in time to catch the steamer.

BUSINESS NEWS.

While indications of gradual business recovery multiply, statistics of bank clearings still sharply reflect the influence of lower commodity prices, and unfavorable comparisons with the returns of recent years continue. As reported by twenty leading cities in the United States, the clearings this week aggregate $4,782,564,301, or 27.3 per cent less than those of a year ago and a decrease of 24.4 per cent from the figures of this week in 1919. The reductions last week were 25.1 and 26.6 per cent, respectively. Without exception, the current week's clearings are below last year's at all points included in the statement, while Louisville, Detroit, Minneapolis and Los Angeles alone show gains over the 1918 totals. The clearings at the nineteen cities outside of New York are 27.0 per cent below last year's and there are losses at New York City of 27.5 and 33.1 per cent, respectively. Average daily clearings for August to date disclose decreases of 33.0 and 25.8 per cent in comparison with the averages of the two immediately preceding years.

AD NAUSEAM.

"I am really glad to leave Wall Street and get to the country overnight," said a banker, as he was leaving the office. "I have been down here over a quarter of a century, through weal and woe, and I do not believe I have known a period when there was so much wailing as today. It is all the result of the abnormal period of prosperity we have gone through. With due apologies to Mr. Volstead, people have accumulated a champagne thirst and have but a beer wallet and they are trying to live up to the former. I am little surprised at the kicking, but I believe the good sense of the American people will teach them to face more normal times, which are the best times all said and done."

The banker went on, "I listen to a hundred confidences a day, and recently the exaggerations I have heard from men in all walks of life are appalling. I have even kept still when men whispered reports on things of which they knew nothing, obviously-wicked reports which were entirely incorrect. Bad news may travel fast, but fake news has the wings of Mercury, that I know, and out of a possible 100 reports of disaster and tribulation, I listen to weekly, perhaps one has an iota of truth in it, and that one is never as black as it seems.

"'Those who live by the sword, perish by the sword,' and the same goes for some of the ephemeral prosperity born of the war, but the industries of the United States growing out of the brains and brawn of the mightiest nation in the world will be found to be paramount always."—[Wall Street Journal.

COCOANUT OIL.

The first direct shipment of cocoanut oil to a Los Angeles plant was received here last week when the Java-Pacific steamer Tjikembang docked in the Outer Harbor. The vessel carried a cargo of 600 tons of crude cocoanut oil consigned to the refining plant of the Vegetable Oil Products Company, at the harbor.

Officials of this company placed a $100,000 vaulation on the cargo yesterday. The oil is to be refined for edible oil purposes to be used in butter substitutes, and as a shortening in the baking and candy trades. A certain portion of the consignment is to be left in the crude form to be sold to soap manufacturers.

Further direct shipments of cocoanut oil from the Far East are expected by the Vegetable Oil Products Company. Previous to this time, all shipments of this nature were received in San Francisco and transshipped overland to the local plant.

A NEW STATION.

Cities Service Oil Company of Texas has completed and placed in operation in Galveston, a new station for the handling of Mexican fuel oil. In addition to supplying other industries in Galveston this station will take care of all the fuel oil requirements of the Brush Electric Company, the large public utility subsidiary of Cities Service Company, in that port.

INSURANCE MEETING.

The annual convention of the $100,000 Club of the Western States Life Insurance Company will be in session at Hotel St. Catherine, Catalina Island, from Thursday morning, September 8, to Saturday evening, September 10.

This convention is made up of agents of the company who have paid out $100,000 or more during the previous twelve months.

RECEIVERSHIP UNLIKELY.

Despite American Brake Shoe's application to have Interborough Rapid Transit Co. placed in receivership, bankers intimate with Interborough's affairs believe the appointment of a receiver unlikely. More than 50 per cent of the investors in the $38,706,000 three-year 7 per cent notes, due September 1, have assented to a full year's extension of the issue on an 8 per cent basis, and the unfavorable light in which Interborough's financial condition is placed by the American Brake Shoe action is expected to have a powerful effect in overcoming the reluctance of the remaining holders.

This maturity constitutes the company's principal stumbling block. If the extension can be secured, Interborough will be able to meet or postpone its other pressing obligations. In view of this situation, noteholders are not likely to be so insistent upon payment on September 1 as their cause would gain nothing by precipitating receivership.

PETROLEUM FACTS.

The publication of Bulletin 206, "Petroleum laws of all America," by J. W. Thompson, law examiner, is announced by the United States Bureau of Mines. The bulletin includes the petroleum laws of the United States, the several oil-producing States, Canada, Mexico, and the Republics of Central and South America. The report has been prepared in response to the wide demand for information regarding the laws regulating leases and concessions, and the explorations for and exploiting of petroleum in these republics.

The petroleum laws of the Spanish-American republics are usually supplemented by decrees of the presidents, which serve the purpose of regulations. Such decrees may not change or annul absolutely a Congressional enactment, but they may in effect modify the application and enforcement of the laws. These decrees may be issued at any time, and it is highly important for concessionaires to keep advised as to the latest decree. The same statement applies to the orders in council issued by the Canadian government. The commissions of many of our own States have wide authority in regulating the operations of State laws, and their regulations are subject to change and amendment. Compliance with such decrees, orders in council, and rules of the State commissions is as essential as obedience to the laws themselves.

Copies of Bulletin 206 may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., at a price of 40 cents.

RAISINS TO ENGLAND.

Sutter county growers are pleased at the news that Thompson seedless raisins again are going to British markets. More than 1200 tons of Thompson seedless were sold for export to England nearly a month ago. Following this a deal has been closed for consignment to England of 10,000 cases of seeded package goods. Developing of the English market was just getting well under way when the great war began. Now that trade in general is assuming normal basis, the Associated Raisin Company is confident it will be able to create a real

Safety, Yield, Marketability

WHAT is it you look for when you invest? Is it the safety of your principal? Is it the certainty of a reasonable income? Is it ready marketability in case you need your money before maturity? Is it any or all of these things? Then for the investment of your money consider General Petroleum Corporation Ten Year 7% Gold Notes, which pay from 7½ to 15%.

These Notes are safe. They are the sole funded debt of a big, strong, soundly financed, efficiently managed company, whose worth, according to the latest balance sheet, exceeds $50,000,000. These Notes are secured by a first closed mortgage on all the company's real property, except certain leaseholds restricted against assignment and by deposit of capital stock of its three subsidiary companies.

Your income from this investment is sure. The company's net [illegible] available for payment of interest [illegible] deducting all prior charges) [illegible] running at over eight times [illegible] charges.

The income from this investment [illegible] profitable. Every Note will be [illegible] deemed at the fixed price of 10[illegible] interest. Giving effect to this [illegible] principal, your yield is from 7½ [illegible] 15%, depending upon the year [illegible] Notes are redeemed.

There is no doubt but that the [illegible] fund provision whereby the company retires $500,000 par value of Notes each year at 105 will be a real factor in maintaining an excellent market record for this security.

If you have saved as much as $100 [illegible] will pay you to get full information about this investment.

SLASH TAX RATE OF THE COUNTY.

Board of Supervisors to Announce Cut of Approximately Thirty Cents.

The Board of Supervisors today will give the taxpayers a pleasant surprise by announcing a cut of approximately 30 cents in the tax rate. Last year the rate was $4.45 per $100 of assessed valuation. This year it is expected to be about $4.11.

This reduction has been made in spite of the fact that the county is planning to build a new County Jail at an approximate cost of $2,000,000 and has given salary increases to county employees and school-teachers.

In order to cut the tax rate the Supervisors have gone down the expenditure estimates, particularly with reference to supplies and construction work, lopping off items here and there. The city high and elementary school estimates were among those cut.

PORT NOTES.

The North Atlantic and Western freighter Brush arrived yesterday from Boston and Portland, Me., after a fast run, bringing 500 tons of freight for this port and about two thousand tons for Northern ports.

The British oil tanker Lompoc arrived yesterday from Antofagasta, Chile, in ballast, to load a cargo of oil for delivery at Tidal. The Lompoc is chartered to the Union Oil Company.

The Standard Oil tanker Capt. A. F. Lucas arrived yesterday morning from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, and sailed last night with a full oil cargo for Coos Bay, Alaska.

The Holland-Pacific Line freighter Rokersdijk came in yesterday morning from Antwerp, but remained at anchor in the outer harbor all day on account of congestion at the inner harbor docks.

The Shipping Board freighter Westward Ho arrived from Portland yesterday afternoon to take on bunker oil before proceeding for the United Kingdom. The Westward Ho is under charter to the Pacific Grain Company.

Four lumber steamers, the Flavel, Santa Monica, San Diego and Santa Rita, came in from northern ports with lumber yesterday.

The McCormick steam schooner Multnomah, which has been undergoing repairs at the plant of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock Company for several weeks on account of losing her propeller at sea, will sail for San Francisco tonight to re-enter the coastwise lumber and passenger service.

Denies Double Attack Charge Made by Girl.

Denying that he twice attacked Mary E. Turner, as charged by her in a suit for damages, A. D. McNeely yesterday filed his answer in the case. That he intends to contest the charges is indicated by his reply. The plaintiff in the action asserted that she called at the defendant's cannery to borrow a dishpan, and that he tried to hug her, and on another day called at her home and repeated the purported advances.

She asks $5000 actual and $5000 punitive damages. The defendant denies the charge, but admits lending the dishpan. The trial date of the case has not been set.

BIGGER RAIL EARNINGS.

An analysis of railroad operation for the first six months of the year, just completed by the Bureau of Railway Economics, shows that the increased net earnings, as compared with the same period in 1920, were due largely to a decrease in expenses such as would have to be resumed if business were to revive toward normal. This was especially noticeable in May and June.

Of these economies 45 per cent, or $44,745,799, arose in June from reduction in operating expenses, and 55 per cent, or $54,256,689 from deferring of maintenance both of right of way and equipment.

It is pointed out that reduction in transportation costs necessarily follows a falling volume of business, but that reduction in maintenance is merely a postponement of expenditures that must be made later if the roads are to be adequately maintained. The analysis says in part:

"The number of railway employees in March, 1921, was smaller than for any period since the fiscal year 1915. During the first quarter of 1921, the average number was 1,691,471, compared with 1,993,524 in the corresponding quarter of 1920. This was a reduction of 302,053, or 15.2 per cent. Because of this radical reduction in force, the railways were able to reduce their payroll for the quarter by $33,290,974, or 4.8 per cent, and this in spite of the fact that they were paying the scale of wages ordered by the Railroad Labor Board in July, 1920, which increased wage rates about 21 per cent.

"Traffic in the fall of 1920, even under the new rates, made new high records. The business depression became marked in December. It came to its height in January and February. The total number of cars loaded with revenue freight during the first seven months of 1921 ended July 31 was less than during the same period of 1920 by 2,600,844, or 10.4 per cent. The totals were 24,889,053 in 1920 and 22,288,214 in 1921."

"During these six months railways of Class I should have earned $477,256,000 in net operating income to attain to a 6 per cent basis. They actually earned $128,912,000, a shortage of $348,344,000, or 73 per cent. (These figures for the six months are subject to slight change, but are virtually complete.)"

MASS FOR CARUSO.

Lifelong Friend of Famous Tenor Officiates at St. Vincent's.

A requiem mass for Enrico Caruso was sung yesterday morning in St. Vincent's Church with many members of the Italian colony in attendance, several of them friends of the great tenor.

Rev. Joseph Tonello, lifelong friend of Signor Caruso, officiated, being assisted by Father McDonnell and Father Martinez. Father Tonello knew the tenor before he became famous, and their friendship continued after their coming to this country.

Several members of the cathedral choir sang with the choir of St. Vincent's. W. Deveraux, the cathedral organist, played, and Campana, noted soloist and once a pupil of Caruso, sang.

FLEET PRACTICE WILL BE SECRET.

Navy Department to Guard Pacific Maneuvers.

Work Off Coast Scheduled to Begin Today.

Attack Test to Include Air and Submarine Forces.

The greatest secrecy will surround the maneuvers of the Pacific Fleet off the coast, it was learned yesterday at the Navy Department, according to dispatches from Washington.

All tactical maneuvers of the fleet, which are scheduled to be held under the direction of Admiral Rodman, will be kept from the public, as they have not been since the war, and caution will be taken to conceal all the gunnery practice as far from observation as possible.

This request was assigned by the Navy Department for this policy of secrecy, but it is understood that when the Pacific Fleet now is virtually all of the best fighting vessels of the Navy, the administration does not desire to make public what the vessels are capable of as a fighting unit.

Even if this policy of secrecy did not exist, it is said, any interested nation could form a very definite idea of the fighting strength of the new American dreadnaughts, as well as obtain a line on any possible faults of the battle fleet.

The schedule of maneuvers calls for extensive battle tests, endurance tests, good trials, and operations of the entire fleet in conjunction with submarines and air forces, say official advices.

The maneuvers are scheduled to begin today and will continue for several weeks. The fleet will use Los Angeles and other Coast cities as a base.

Naval authorities reported last night that the major ships of the Pacific Fleet are at San Francisco and that they will arrive at Los Angeles Harbor some time Friday.

ACTRESS .. TO .. WED .. JUDGE'S .. SON

Lillian Tucker, Once on Stage Here, to Become Bride.

Lillian Tucker.

THE engagement of Miss Lillian Tucker to Charles H. Duell, a son of the late Judge Charles H. Duell of the United States Court of Appeal, has been announced, according to New York advices last night. Miss Tucker is a daughter of the late William S. Tucker and Mrs. Charles A. Hall of Pasadena. She is an actress and played the leading role in "Three Faces East" for a season in Chicago. Some years ago she was at the old Burbank Theater here, in stock. At present she is at the Ritz in Paris, having been motoring abroad this summer with Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Duell and Miss Emilie Brown, but will sail for home on the La France next Saturday.

Mr. Duell is treasurer of the New York State Republican Committee, chairman of the finance committee and a member of the Yale, Union League, Lawyers' and Hudson River Country clubs. He served during World War as a lieutenant in the United States Navy. After the armistice he was a press representative at the Peace Conference and made an extended tour with the French commission into Germany. He was formerly first vice-chairman of the American Legion of New York State and was one of the organizers of the Legion at the St. Louis convention.

No date has been set for the wedding.

RUN DOWN BY AUTO.

Woman Struck and Seriously Injured While Crossing Street.

While crossing Pasadena avenue at Sycamore Grove, Mrs. Alice Matagian of 1472 East Twenty-first street, was rundown by an automobile driven by B. H. Klein of 1906 South Hoover street. She was taken to the receiving hospital where it was found she was internally injured. She was later removed to her home.

Steps in Path of Street Car and is Killed.

Stepping in front of a speeding Stephenson-avenue street car, George E. Preston of 1121 South Bonnie Beach avenue, was instantly killed early last evening at Stephenson and Bonnie Beach avenues. Although the motorman applied both the air and emergency brakes, he was unable to stop the car before the body of the man was smashed beyond recognition.

According to witnesses, Motorman A. A. Mathesen rang his gong and did everything in his power to stop the car. But Mr. Preston apparently did not see the coach and stepped onto the track. It was necessary to call a wrecking car before the body could be removed.

Mr. Preston leaves a widow, Mrs. Bridget Preston, and two sons, one employed by a railroad here, and another in Colton. He was 65 years of age. His body is at the Bede A. Johnson undertaking establishment, 3839 Stephenson avenue.

TO ADVERTISING CLUB.

Frederick W. Kellogg, newspaper man, and Capt. W. E. Edmondson, State Chaplain of the American Legion, will be the speakers at the first meeting of the Advertising Club of the fall season at noon today at the Alexandria. Mr. Kellogg, who recently returned from abroad, will speak on "Business Conditions in Europe," and Dr. Edmondson will discuss "Assets and Liabilities." Lawrence Tibbet will sing and there will be brief reports from the Tacoma convention.

TRAPPED PAIR STRUCK BY CAR.

Motorman of Long Beach Car Fails to See Couple.

While walking over the Alamitos Bay channel trestle between Long Beach and Seal Beach yesterday, Miss Helen Davis, 18 years, and Phillip Clarke, 23, were trapped by a speeding Pacific Electric car. After vainly trying to flag the car, they hugged the protruding ties of the bridge, but were struck and tossed twenty-five feet into the deep waters of the channel. Both were severely injured, but Mr. Clarke heroically struggled to the side of his companion and swam with her to shore.

STRUGGLE IN WATER.

Motorman Hotseel had not seen the couple, but the impact caused him to stop his car. Then those on the trolley saw the struggling forms in the water beneath. The motorman and Conductor Delaney assisted Mr. Clarke and Miss Davis to shore, and with them in the car, the motorman put on the maximum speed. An ambulance was waiting at Third street and American avenue, Long Beach, and the victims were rushed to the Seaside Hospital.

Mr. Clarke, an examination showed, had rescued his companion and saved himself, although suffering from a deep flesh wound on the right hip. Miss Davis had been struck so as to cause a gaping wound on her head. She said she regained consciousness when she struck the water, and had begun to swim when Mr. Clarke reached her side.

SIGHT BRINGS TERROR.

The pedestrians, seeing no car approaching, thought they could cross the trestle in safety. But when half way over, they saw to their terror a Long Beach-bound car approaching. Mr. Clarke told Miss Davis to lie down to the ties just outside the north rail. She did so and then he stripped off his sweater and waved it high in the air. But the car did not slacken its speed. He waved until the car was within a few feet, but on it came, full speed.

Then Mr. Clarke, realizing that his signal had not been seen, crawled onto the protruding ties opposite the edge, where Miss Davis lay. The two hugged their precarious perch as the rattle of the car increased.

But Mr. Carke had not reckoned on the car steps, and these and an axle-housing struck him and Miss Davis and hurled them into the bay. Miss Davis lives at 400 North Madison avenue, Pasadena. Mr. Clarke lives in Beverly Hills.

BLAZE LAID TO COUPLE WHO FLED.

Two Hundred Men Needed to Conquer Beverly Glen Fire; Man, Woman Blamed.

Two hundred men were pressed into service yesterday afternoon in fighting a forest fire that started in Beverly Glen Canyon and which finally was subdued after backfiring from Benedict Canyon, half a mile away. A man and a woman, who left the scene of the fire immediately after it was reported to the Beverly Glen Grocery, are sought by deputy fire wardens. This couple, it is asserted, started the fire, which grew beyond their control, and then abandoned it after an unsuccessful attempt to check it.

The first report of the blaze was made by the woman, who rushed to the grocery with the information that her husband was exhausted by a three-hour struggle with the flames. Before the deputy fire wardens could get their names the couple had climbed into their automobile and disappeared.

George Eley, deputy fire warden of Benedict Canyon, commandeered about 100 Mexicans at a grading camp near the fire, brought a three miles north of Wilshire Boulevard. The Beverly fire department also responded to the alarm as did scores of citizens. No cottages or cabins were burned, it was reported after the fire was extinguished.

Deputy Fire Warden Cummings of Beverly Glen brought a trailer loaded with extinguishers, but these were not effective and backfiring from Benedict Canyon was resorted to.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 5.—A fire in the Santa Barbara Forest, which threatens to grow to large proportions, started today in the Tejon Pass and Ridge Route district on Frazier Mountain and had swept over 250 acres late today. Forest rangers have gone from Saugus and the Castaic country, about 140 men now being at the scene of the fire.

Five fires were extinguished in the Frazier district yesterday and a hunt for the fire bug was in progress when the blaze now spreading out over that section was discovered. All the Sunday fires were found before they had spread to any extent.

The scene of the new fire is within the area which Bakersfield is seeking to have set aside as a game preserve, having recently secured the co-operation of the Senators from California. Several extensive mining enterprises lie within the fire zone and there are large herds of cattle grazing in the region.

OPPOSE CENSOR OF FILMS HERE.

Many Councilmen in Favor of Killing Ordinance.

Enormous Cost to Producers Definitely Indicated.

That the question of whether or not Los Angeles is to have a motion-picture censor will be settled firmly and quietly, was indicated yesterday by members of the City Council.

It is understood that efforts of those opposing censorship for America's film city will develop into a demand that the existing censorship ordinance, passed in 1917 and recently revived, be repealed by the Council. If the question of repeal gets before the Council the city fathers will dispose of it quickly, as indicated by expressions of the Councilmen themselves.

Four out of six members of the Council interviewed last night declared they are in favor of repealing the ordinance and five were emphatic in their declarations against the appointment of a censor. The two other Councilmen now in the city could not be reached.

Advocates of the censorship idea, however, were optimistic of the outcome of their efforts to keep the revived ordinance alive. Equally confident that there will be no censorship were leaders of the motion-picture industry. But pending proposed meetings of producers and other leaders in the industry spokesmen on both sides were hesitant last night about permitting themselves to be quoted on the question.

The announcement of Mrs. Estelle Lawton Lindsey, named Saturday by Mayor Cryer as his choice as censorship commissioner, that she will not accept the appointment and that she will advise Mayor Cryer of her decision today, will make little difference to members of the Ministerial Union and others who are demanding the enforcement of the censorship ordinance, Dr. Gustave A. Briegleb, president of the union, said yesterday.

BRIEGLEB ADAMANT.

"We will not be satisfied with the repeal of the censorship ordinance," Dr. Briegleb said. "We believe that the ordinance should be in full operation and we intend to ask the Council to approve the appointment of a censor and to appropriate the money necessary to make the official's work effective," he declared.

"The appointment of a censor in Los Angeles is bound to react on the city and the motion-picture industry," said Councilman Sparks. "It would look mighty bad to the rest of the country if Los Angeles, the very heart and soul of the industry, should deem it necessary to censor the pictures produced and shown here. There is sufficient power vested in the City Prosecutor to regulate the exhibition of pictures and to prevent the showing of undesirable films in this city. Unless those backing the present ordinance can show a better reason for its continued existence than they have shown, I for one am not for it."

"I haven't seen any other members of the Council but I think the Council will be somewhat hesitant about upholding the ordinance as it now stands," Councilman Mallard averred. "I have no authority to say that the ordinance will be repealed, but, speaking for myself, I shall certainly vote for its repeal if the question comes up."

CONAWAY OPPOSES LAW.

Councilman Conaway, one of the councilmen who, in 1917, voted for the ordinance now under fire, declared that he favored it at that time because there seemed to be a demand for it.

"I do not believe in its provisions now, however," he said, "and I am not in favor of vesting some one person with all the power of censorship that the ordinance provides. I would be in favor of a censorship commission, composed of several fair-minded persons, or, better still, I would favor censorship supervised by the State. I would vote for the repeal of the ordinance as it stands if the matter should come before the Council."

"I am absolutely against any censorship of motion pictures in Los Angeles," declared Councilman Mushet. "There is a National Board of Censorship, and this board is doing very well. The ordinance should be abolished."

Councilman Wheeler, on whose motion the old ordinance was brought out of retirement last week, also expressed himself as being against the appointment of a censor in Los Angeles. He is not in favor of the abolishment of the ordinance, however, he said.

LEGAL FILMS DEFINED.

"The ordinance defines what is objectionable and unlawful in motion pictures and provides the measures that city officers may take to prevent the showing of objectionable films," he said. "These provisions are good, but there is no reason, in my opinion, why the City Prosecutor cannot enforce them. This ordinance gives him full power. I believe the ordinance could be modified and become workable."

"I haven't read the ordinance, and I cannot, therefore, say whether I would vote for its repeal," said Councilman Allan. "I do believe, however, that the city needs some kind of censorship power to regulate the picture industry. I am in favor of the appointment of a motion-picture censor if we can have the right kind of person in that office. We are being shown many fine, clean pictures."

HUGE LOSS PREDICTED.

Attorney Frank A. Garbutt, chairman of the executive board of the Affiliated Picture Interests, which combines every organization in the city connected with the picture industry, yesterday pointed out the direct harm that would come to the city as the result of the appointment of a censor in Los Angeles.

REVENGE .. EXPERT .. IS .. NEMESIS.

Asserted Check Passing Lothario Fools Wrong Girl.

Miss Marguerite Collins.

AFTER a woman has been schooled in a film studio in all ways and manners of getting sweet revenge, which include such systems as throwing the villian in front of an on-rushing train or dropping him in little pieces to some Santa Monica alligators, it is dangerous, very dangerous to trifle with her. Such, at least, is the consensus of opinion in the case of Ralph Becker, known as Lieut. Rupert S. Gordon, who gave Miss Marguerite Collins, a film maid, a check for $40 without ascertaining whether there were sufficient funds to meet it. Becker will have his hearing today.

According to the story told of the gay Lothario, who is said to have had "a certain way with women," he cashed a number of checks which were later found to be of no value. One of these checks was given to Miss Collins, who appears with the Schwartz Producing Company as Margie Collins, and when she took it to the Bank of Italy, it was declared the check was worthless. She then led the officers to Becker's apartment, where they trapped him. He is said to have confessed.

Becker, it was said, left a trail of torn hearts from coast to coast. With the wrecked lives are a number of valueless checks, it seems. But it has all ended because he took advantage of a "revenge expert."

Second-street Tunnel Cave-in Causes Fright.

The falling of several tons of earth from the Flower-street face of the Second-street tunnel, now under construction, frightened a number of tennants in near by apartment houses shortly before 7 p.m. yesterday. Great clouds of dust rose in the air and a slight tremor of the earth caused many to fear that a serious accident had happened.

Investigation by the police showed, however, that a comparatively small cave-in of earth, not more than four feet in depth and about eighteen feet across, had occurred on the west face just above the spot where the tunnel boring is to be started. The earth in falling demolished a quantity of scaffolding.

The debris will be cleared away this morning, according to James Hill, contractor in charge of the work.

MOB TRIES TO STORM BEACH JAIL.

Only after riot guns were ready to fire into the crowd was an angry mob of 1000 persons dispersed at Long Beach last night. They gathered in front of the police station and threatened to storm the City Jail unless six sailors, arrested on charges of intoxication, were released.

Sergt. George Brown and five patrolmen were the only officers at the station at the time of the riot, and unassisted, held their ground and arrested four more sailors who were leading the mob.

Trouble started late last night when Patrolman Frank Henderson, 22 years old, and recently appointed to the Long Beach force, arrested a sailor on the pier on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Several shipmates of the arrested man attempted to overpower the officer. Officer Henderson, who had won honors in the Army as a heavyweight pugilist, had six sailors ready to be taken to the City Jail when the patrol arrived, while eight others were still helpless from the effects of blows administered by the patrolman.

After the sailors had been taken to the police station, other men gathered a crowd and attempted to storm the jail.

DECISION HITS VOLSTEAD ACT.

State Cannot Enforce Dry Measure, Court Rules.

California Lacks Necessary Law to Fight Booze.

Writ of Prohibition Granted in San Diego Case.

State courts of California have no power to enforce prohibition under the Volstead Act, according to a ruling handed down by the Second District Appellate Court Saturday and made public yesterday. This decision, which is opposed to opinions by other high State courts throughout the country, will necessitate a final decision by the Supreme Court of the United States, it is said.

Justice Works points out in his opinion that while Section 3 of the Eighteenth Amendment holds that "Congress and the several States are empowered to enforce this act by appropriate legislation," unless such appropriate legislation is enacted by the State, the jurisdiction of the State courts may not be employed by the government even in civil cases.

FINLAYSON CONCURS.

Presiding Justice Finlayson, in concurring in the opinion of Justice Works, states: "Laws enacted by Congress under the first section of the Eighteenth Amendment cannot be enforced through a State court unless laws first be enacted by the State for the purpose of bringing into play the jurisdiction of the State courts to that end."

Justice Craig dissents with the majority opinion of the court and concurs with previously filed decisions of other courts, which have held that when State legislation is not in conflict with the Volstead Act, prosecution is made possible.

REVERSES DECISION.

The ruling reverses the decision of Superior Judge Marsh of San Diego, who issued an injunction against a purported "booze resort" operated by W. C. Carse and Tony Matovitch, to restrain them from maintaining a "public nuisance" under the provisions of the Volstead Act, and who later cited both men to show cause why they should not be punished for violation of the terms of the court order. They were found guilty of contempt but petitioned for a writ of prohibition to prevent the court from meting out punishment.

By the opinion handed down Saturday the writ of prohibition is granted by the Appellate Court on the ground that the trial judge in San Diego is without jurisdiction to act in this case, or, in other words, that only a Federal court has jurisdiction in the case, for the reason that no law has been enacted by the State authorizing the use of State courts or State officers for the enforcement of the Volstead Act.

FLEET PRACTICE WILL BE SECRET.

Navy Department to Guard Pacific Maneuvers.

Work Off Coast Scheduled to Begin Today.

Mobile Test to Include Air and Submarine Forces.

The greatest secrecy will surround the maneuvers of the Pacific Fleet off the coast, it was learned yesterday at the Navy Department, according to dispatches from Washington.

The tactical maneuvers of the fleet, which are scheduled to be under the direction of Admiral Rodman, will be kept from the public as they have not been since the war and caution will be taken to conceal the gunnery practice as far as possible from observation.

No reason was assigned by the Navy Department for this policy of secrecy, but it is understood that when the Pacific Fleet now includes virtually all of the best fighting vessels of the Navy, the admiralty does not desire to make public what the vessels are capable of in a fighting unit.

Under this policy of secrecy did not exist, it is said, any interested person could form a very definite idea of the fighting strength of the new American dreadnaughts, as well as obtain a line on any possible flaws of the battle fleet.

The schedule of maneuvers calls for extensive battle tests, endurance and speed trials, and operations of the entire fleet in conjunction with submarine and air forces, say Washington advices.

The maneuvers are scheduled to begin today and will continue for three weeks. The fleet will use Los Angeles and other Coast cities as mooring bases.

Naval authorities reported last night that the major ships of the Pacific Fleet are at San Francisco and that they will arrive at Los Angeles Harbor some time Friday.

Miss Tucker is a daughter of the late William S. Tucker and Mrs. Charles A. Hall of Pasadena. She is an actress and played the leading role in "Three Faces East" for a season in Chicago. Some years ago she was at the old Burbank Theater here, in stock. At present she is at the Ritz in Paris, having been motoring abroad this summer with Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Duell and Miss Emilie Brown, but will sail for home on the La France next Saturday.

He served during World War as a lieutenant in the United States Navy. After the armistice he was a press representative at the Peace Conference and made an extended tour with the French commission into Germany. He was formerly first vice-chairman of the American Legion of New York State and was one of the organizers of the Legion at the St. Louis convention.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Steps in Path of Street Car and is Killed.

Stepping in front of a speeding Stephenson-avenue street car, George E. Preston of 1121 South Bonnie Beach avenue, was instantly killed early last evening at Stephenson and Bonnie Beach avenues. Although the motorman applied both the air and emergency brakes, he was unable to stop the car before the body of the man was smashed beyond recognition.

According to witnesses, Motorman A. A. Mathesen rang his gong and did everything in his power to stop the car. But Mr. Preston apparently did not see the coach and stepped onto the track. It was necessary to call a wrecking car before the body could be removed.

Mr. Preston leaves a widow, Mrs. Bridget Preston, and two sons, one employed by a railroad here, and another in Colton. He was 65 years of age. His body is at the Bede A. Johnson undertaking establishment, 3839 Stephenson avenue.

TRAPPED PAIR STRUCK BY CAR.

Motorman of Long Beach Car Fails to See Couple.

While walking over the Alamitos Bay channel trestle between Long Beach and Seal Beach yesterday, Miss Helen Davis, 18 years, and Philip Clarke, 23, were trapped by a speeding Pacific Electric car. After vainly trying to flag the car, they hugged the protruding ties of the bridge, but were struck and tossed twenty-five feet into the deep waters of the channel. Both were severely injured, but Mr. Clarke heroically struggled to the side of his companion and swam with her to shore.

STRUGGLE IN WATER.

Motorman Hotsel had not seen the couple, but the impact caused him to stop his car. Then those on the trolley saw the struggling forms in the water beneath. The motorman and Conductor Delaney assisted Mr. Clarke and Miss Davis to shore, and with them in the car, the motorman put on the maximum speed. An ambulance was waiting at Third street and American avenue, Long Beach, and the victims were rushed to the Seaside Hospital.

Mr. Clarke, an examination showed, had rescued his companion and saved himself, although suffering from a deep flesh wound on the right hip. Miss Davis had been struck so as to cause a gaping wound on her head. She said she regained consciousness when she struck the water, and had begun to swim when Mr. Clarke reached her side.

SIGHT BRINGS TERROR.

The pedestrians, seeing no car approaching, thought they could cross the trestle in safety. But when half way over, they saw to their terror a Long Beach-bound car approaching. Mr. Clarke told Miss Davis to lie down to the ties just outside the north rail. She did so and then he stripped off his sweater and waved it high in the air. But the car did not slacken its speed. He waved until the car was within a few feet, but on it came, full speed.

Then Mr. Clarke, realizing that his signal had not been seen, crawled onto the protruding tier opposite the edge, where Miss Davis lay. The two hugged their precarious perch as the rattle of the car increased.

But Mr. Carke had not reckoned on the car steps, and these and an axle-housing struck him and Miss Davis and hurled them into the bay. Miss Davis lives at 400 North Madison avenue, Pasadena. Mr. Clarke lives in Beverly Hills.

BLAZE LAID TO COUPLE WHO FLED.

Two hundred men were pressed into service yesterday afternoon in fighting a forest fire that started in Beverly Glen Canyon and which finally was subdued after backfiring from Benedict Canyon, half a mile away. A man and a woman, who left the scene of the fire immediately after it was reported to the Beverly Glen Grocery, are sought by deputy fire wardens. This couple, it is asserted, started the fire, which grew beyond their control, and then abandoned it after an unsuccessful attempt to check it.

The first report of the blaze was made by the woman, who rushed to the grocery with the information that her husband was exhausted by a three-hour struggle with the flames. Before the deputy fire wardens could get their names the couple had climbed into their automobile and disappeared.

George Eley, deputy fire warden of Benedict Canyon, commandeered about 100 Mexicans at a grading camp near the fire, which was three miles north of Wilshire Boulevard. The Beverly fire department also responded to the alarm as did scores of citizens. No cottages or cabins were burned, it was reported after the fire was extinguished.

Deputy Fire Warden Cummings of Beverly Glen brought a trailer loaded with extinguishers, but these were not effective and backfiring from Benedict Canyon was resorted to.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 5.—A fire in the Santa Barbara Forest, which threatens to grow to large proportions, started today in the Tejon Pass and Ridge Route district on Frazier Mountain and had swept over 250 acres late today. Forest rangers have gone from Saugus and the Castaic country, about 140 men now being at the scene of the fire.

Five fires were extinguished in the Frazier district yesterday and a hunt for the fire bug was in progress when the blaze now spreading out over that section was discovered. All the Sunday fires were found before they had spread to any extent.

The scene of the new fire is within the area which Bakersfield is seeking to have set aside as a game preserve, having recently secured the co-operation of the Senators from California. Several extensive mining enterprises lie within the fire zone and there are large herds of cattle grazing in the region.

OPPOSE CENSOR OF FILMS HERE.

Many Councilmen in Favor of Killing Ordinance.

Enormous Cost to Producers Definitely Indicated.

That the question of whether or not Los Angeles is to have a motion-picture censor will be settled firmly and quietly, was indicated yesterday by members of the City Council.

It is understood that efforts of those opposing censorship for America's film city will develop into a demand that the existing censorship ordinance, passed in 1917 and recently revived, be repealed by the Council. If the question of repeal gets before the Council the city fathers will dispose of it quickly, as indicated by expressions of the Councilmen themselves.

Four out of six members of the Council interviewed last night declared they are in favor of repealing the ordinance and five were emphatic in their dclarations against the appointment of a censor. The two other Councilmen now in the city could not be reached.

Advocates of the censorship idea, however, were optimistic of the outcome of their efforts to keep the revived ordinance alive. Equally confident that there will be no censorship were leaders of the motion-picture industry. But pending proposed meetings of producers and other leaders in the industry spokesmen on both sides were hesitant last night about permitting themselves to be quoted on the question.

The announcement of Mrs. Estelle Lawton Lindsey, named Saturday by Mayor Cryer as his choice as censorship commissioner, that she will not accept the appointment and that she will advise Mayor Cryer of her decision today, will make little difference to members of the Ministerial Union and others who are demanding the enforcement of the censorship ordinance, Dr. Gustave A. Briegleb, president of the union, said yesterday.

BRIEGLEB ADAMANT.

"We will not be satisfied with the repeal of the censorship ordinance," Dr. Briegleb said. "We believe that the ordinance should be in full operation and we intend to ask the Council to approve the appointment of a censor and to appropriate the money necessary to make the official's work effective," he declared.

"The appointment of a censor in Los Angeles is bound to react on the city and the motion-picture industry," said Councilman Sparks. "It would look mighty bad to the rest of the country if Los Angeles, the very heart and soul of the industry, should deem it necessary to censor the pictures produced and shown here. There is sufficient power vested in the City Prosecutor to regulate the exhibition of pictures and to prevent the showing of undesirable films in this city. Unless those backing the present ordinance can show a better reason for its continued existence than they have shown, I for one am not for it."

"I haven't seen any other members of the Council but I think the Council will be somewhat hesitant about upholding the ordinance as it now stands." Councilman Mallard averred. "I have no authority to say that the ordinance will be repealed, but, speaking for myself, I shall certainly vote for its repeal if the question comes up."

CONAWAY OPPOSES LAW.

Councilman Conaway, one of the councilmen who, in 1917, voted for the ordinance now under fire, declared that he favored it at that time because there seemed to be a demand for it.

"I do not believe in its provisions now, however," he said, "and I am not in favor of vesting some one person with all the power of censorship that the ordinance provides. I would be in favor of a censorship commission, composed of several fair-minded persons, or, better still, I would favor censorship supervised by the State. I would vote for the repeal of the ordinance as it stands if the matter should come before the Council."

"I am absolutely against any censorship of motion pictures in Los Angeles," declared Councilman Mushet. "There is a National Board of Censorship, and this board is doing very well. The ordinance should be abolished."

Councilman Wheeler, on whose motion the old ordinance was brought out of retirement last week, also expressed himself as being against the appointment of a censor in Los Angeles. He is not in favor of the abolishment of the ordinance, however, he said.

LEGAL FILMS DEFINED.

"The ordinance defines what is objectionable and unlawful in motion pictures and provides the measures that city officers may take to prevent the showing of objectionable films," he said. "These provisions are good, but there is no reason, in my opinion, why the City Prosecutor cannot enforce them. This ordinance gives him full power. I believe the ordinance could be modified and become workable."

"I haven't read the ordinance, and I cannot, therefore, say whether I would vote for its repeal," said Councilman Allan. "I do believe, however, that the city needs some kind of censorship power to regulate the picture industry. I am in favor of the appointment of a motion-picture censor if we can have the right kind of person in that office. We are being shown many fine, clean pictures."

HUGE LOSS PREDICTED.

Attorney Frank A. Garbutt, chairman of the executive board of the Affiliated Picture Interests, which combines every organization in the city connected with the picture industry, yesterday pointed out the direct harm that would come to the city as the result of the appointment of a censor in Los Angeles.

REVENGE .. EXPERT .. IS .. NEMESIS.

Asserted Check Passing Lothario Fools Wrong Girl.

Miss Marguerite Collins.

AFTER a woman has been schooled in a film studio in all ways and manners of getting sweet revenge, which include such systems as throwing the villian in front of an on-rushing train or dropping him in little pieces to some Santa Monica alligators, it is dangerous, very dangerous to trifle with her. Such, at least, is the consensus of opinion in the case of Ralph Becker, known as Lieut. Rupert S. Gordon, who gave Miss Marguerite Collins, a film maid, a check for $40 without ascertaining whether there were sufficient funds to meet it. Becker will have his hearing today.

According to the story told of the gay Lothario, who is said to have had "a certain way with women," he cashed a number of checks which were later found to be of no value. One of these checks was given to Miss Collins, who appears with the Schwartz Producing Company as Margie Collins, and when she took it to the Bank of Italy, it was declared the check was worthless. She then led the officers to Becker's apartment, where they trapped him. He is said to have confessed.

Becker, it was said, left a trail of torn hearts from coast to coast. With the wrecked lives are a number of valueless checks, it seems. But it has all ended because he took advantage of a "revenge expert."

MOB TRIES TO STORM BEACH JAIL.

Only after riot guns were ready to fire into the crowd was an angry mob of 1000 persons dispersed at Long Beach last night. They gathered in front of the police station and threatened to storm the City Jail unless six sailors, arrested on charges of intoxication, were released.

Sergt. George Brown and five patrolmen were the only officers at the station at the time of the riot, and unassisted, held their ground and arrested four more sailors who were leading the mob.

Trouble started late last night when Patrolman Frank Henderson, 22 years old, and recently appointed to the Long Beach force, arrested a sailor on the pier on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Several shipmates of the arrested man attempted to overpower the officer. Officer Henderson, who had won honors in the Army as a heavyweight pugilist, had six sailors ready to be taken to the City Jail when the patrol arrived; while eight others were still helpless from the effects of blows administered by the patrolman.

After the sailors had been taken to the police station, other men gathered a crowd and attempted to storm the jail.

Second-street Tunnel Cave-in Causes Fright.

The falling of several tons of earth from the Flower-street face of the Second-street tunnel, now under construction, frightened a number of tenants in near by apartment houses shortly before 7 p.m. yesterday. Great clouds of dust rose in the air and a slight tremor of the earth caused many to fear that a serious accident had happened.

Investigation by the police showed, however, that a comparatively small cave-in of earth, not more than four feet in depth and about eighteen feet across, had occurred on the west face just above the spot where the tunnel boring is to be started. The earth in falling demolished a quantity of scaffolding.

The debris will be cleared away this morning, according to James Hill, contractor in charge of the work.

DECISION HITS VOLSTEAD ACT.

State Cannot Enforce Dry Measure, Court Rules.

Writ of Prohibition Granted in San Diego Case.

State courts of California have no power to enforce prohibition under the Volstead Act, according to a ruling handed down by the Second District Appellate Court Saturday and made public yesterday. This decision, which is opposed to opinions by other high State courts throughout the country, will necessitate a final decision by the Supreme Court of the United States, it is said.

Justice Works points out in his opinion that while Section 3 of the Eighteenth Amendment holds that "Congress and the several States are empowered to enforce this act by appropriate legislation," unless such appropriate legislation is enacted by the State, the jurisdiction of the State courts may not be employed by the government even in civil cases.

FINLAYSON CONCURS.

Presiding Justice Finlayson, in concurring in the opinion of Justice Works, states: "Laws enacted by Congress under the first section of the Eighteenth Amendment cannot be enforced through a State court unless laws first be enacted by the State for the purpose of bringing into play the jurisdiction of the State courts to that end."

Justice Craig dissents with the majority opinion of the court and concurs with previously filed decisions of other courts, which have held that when State legislation is not in conflict with the Volstead Act, prosecution is made possible.

REVERSES DECISION.

The ruling reverses the decision of Superior Judge Marsh of San Diego, who issued an injunction against a purported "booze resort" operated by W. C. Carse and Tony Matovitch, to restrain them from maintaining a "public nuisance" under the provisions of the Volstead Act, and who later cited both men to show cause why they should not be punished for violation of the terms of the court order. They were found guilty of contempt but petitioned for a writ of prohibition to prevent the court from meting out punishment.

By the opinion handed down Saturday the writ of prohibition is granted by the Appellate Court on the ground that the trial judge in San Diego is without jurisdiction to act in this case, or, in other words, that only a Federal court has jurisdiction in the case, for the reason that no law has been enacted by the State authorizing the use of State courts or State officers for the enforcement of the Volstead Act.

The People and Their Daily Troubles

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

Heredity.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

There is no other excuse in the world so overworked, going and coming, as heredity. Whenever a man and woman are quitters who lay down upon the job of life, whenever they are too self-indulgent to control their appetites and passions, whenever they are lazy and trifling, they take no blame to themselves. They lay it all on their forefathers.

Judging by the people who talk most about their heredity, it appears that the one characteristic that parents most frequently bequeathed to their children is a yellow streak. It is the fallures who put the loud pedal upon the subject and invariably attribute what they are to their ancestors. The successful are apt to take credit alone to themselves for their achievements and to claim that they are self-made.

Heredity certainly has been a mantle of charity under which weaklings have taken refuge not only from their own shame but from the judgment of society. And the amazing thing is how they have put it over on the balance of us and gotten away with it.

Year after year we go on supporting the shiftless and yanking drunkards out of the gutters and putting up with the tantrums of their vile tempers because we are committed to the hallucination that they can't help their faults.

"It's in the blood," we say darkly and cryptically as we dip again into our pocketbooks and put the brakes on our own tempers and make another effort to help those who are too inert and selfish to try to help themselves.

Worse still, the heredity myth exerts a paralyzing effect on those who think that they are its foreordained victims. There is no doubt that the belief that there is some peculiar poisoned chemical compound in the blood that flows through their veins exerts a malign influence on many people and prevents them from being the decent, forthright citizens they might be.

They feel that nobody expects them to be anything or do anything, and that they have no blue chins to live up to. And they expect nothing of themselves; so they do not have any self-respect to maintan and this makes it easy to take the line of least resistance, which always points downward.

I have known schoolboys who calmly announced that they knew they would die drunkards and gamblers because their grandfathers did. I have known men to sit down and let their wives take in boarders to support them because, they declared, business ability did not run in their family. I have known people to die of disease without making an effort to live or be cured because they believed that tuberculosis or cancer was hereditary in their blood.

I have seen women give full rein to their tempers and go into spasms of rage over every trifle because their grandmothers were virages. I have seen women ruin their husbands by their mad extravagance because, they said, they took after some ancestor who was a waster and a spender.

All of these people visioned heredity simply as a palliation of their weaknesses. It gave them leave to do as they wanted to do. Not one of them saw in their heredity a red light of warning.

The boys who believed they were born with a thirsty throat and a yearning for games of chance did not deduce from that a tip that they should never touch liquor or a card and that they should beware of temptations that other men might safely dally with. The man who realised that he lacked energy did not argue from that that he must make his will power force him into perpetual high gear. Those who came into the world with weak constitutions did not make a study of hygienic living so they might ward off disease.

The high-tempered woman and the extravagant woman never dreamed that the knowledge of the line to which they were prone should make them put ten times the guard on their tongues and their spending that a good-natured, thrifty woman needs to put upon herself.

Just how much there is in heredity not even scientists know. Certainly we see it work out in strange ways in real life because just as often children seem to inherit the virtues that parents have not got as they inherit the faults they have. If you will run over the list of rich and successful men in your acquaintance you will find that about three-fourths of them are the sons of no'er-do-well fathers. The father's shiftlessness forced the boy out to work and made a man instead of a loafer out of him.

And it is a common proverb that no-account mothers have capable and efficient daughters. If mother is too trifling to keep a clean house and make the children clothes, daughter is mighty apt to qualify for the job.

The most rabid prohibitionists I have ever met were the children of drunkards.

All of which goes to show that heredity is mostly an excuse for self-indulgence and that we can exorcise whatever evil spirits our ancestors have handed down to us by the use of a little will power. It doesn't matter what is in the blood as long as there is enough strength in the backbone to fight it.

Making More Money.

Originator of Auto Mechanic School Puts Idea over and Makes Big Success

"There's no reason why the man who knows what's wrong with a motor car shouldn't be recompensed for his knowledge in a degree at least comparable to that of the doctor who knows what's wrong with the human body. They're both machines, and either of them is apt to get out of order if it's not properly taken care of. Somewhere there's a market for what I know about cars, and I'm going to keep on until I find it."

That's the way that E. J. Sweeney, expert mechanic in a Middle Western garage, looked at matters a few years ago, and, despite the fact that he found difficulty in getting any one to agree with him, he continued to maintain that some day he was going to make as much money out of his business as a physician did out of his. Finally, when he had saved the munificent capital of $77, he invested $75 of it in a month's rent of a ground-room floor and $1.65 of the remaining $2 in an advertisement in the leading newspaper in town, announcing that he was opening a "repair school" where he would teach pupils the science of caring for and repairing sick automobiles. By noon of the day on which this advertisement appeared five students had enrolled in what Sweeney called his "Auto College," and with their preliminary fees for tuition Sweeney bought a sufficient number of tools and benches to start his instruction course.

The fact that he had no car to work on didn't bother him in the least, for he adopted the "clinic" idea and scouted around until he found an old car that was badly in need of repairs and made a deal with the owner whereby he and his pupils were to fix the machine up free of charge.

The following week brought the total number of students up to twenty, and this number doubled before the end of the month. The school grew by big jumps, and now the "Repair College" overflows an entire ten-story building, has one of the biggest garages in the city, operates a fleet of taxicabs, and Sweeney has more than achieved his ambition to be a real professional man.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Do It Differently.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] On behalf of those of us who have the courage to "play the game" called life, and who find pleasure in living, I request a few inches of space in your esteemed newspaper in which to enter a protest against the all-too-popular pastime of despondent individuals who seek post-mortem notoriety by diving off of downtown office buildings.

If these people are such quitters that they seek to "shuffle off this mortal coil," let them adopt some method less menacing and less nauseating to those of us who in the pursuit of our daily affairs must be abroad in the downtown streets of the city. If one finds life so unbearable that they no longer desire to live, they might at least have a little consideration for those of us who do not find it so. In recent months several persons, with every reason for wanting to continue life, no doubt, have narrowly escaped instant death when these human derelicts plunged earthward like bombs dropped from airplanes. And this, to say nothing of the many who have been nauseated, and had their nervous systems wrecked, by being unfortunate enough to witness such a messy spectacle.

Also, why the seven-column headlines in certain newspapers featuring these acts? This sort of thing unquestionably stimulates the morbid imaginations of disconsolate individuals seeking some spectacular method of accomplishing their exit from this "horrible" earth. This fact is borne out by the epidemic of such suicides recorded in recent months. The pedestrian public never suffered such a menace until some deranged specimen of humanity set the example. The scarehead dailies, seeking to stimulate their street sales, "smoked up" the incident for all it would stand, and shortly thereafter we have witnessed a deplorable series of such suicides from the heights of various downtown buildings. If many more troubled souls follow out this recipe of self-destruction, which is being fostered by publicity, it would appear that Los Angeles citizens in time of peace will be compelled to carry steel umbrellas, or otherwise protect themselves from aerial attack. To others contemplating such means of "bumping themselves off" allow me to suggest that they carry out their plans under the cover of darkness and during the small hours of the morning, when the streets are not thronged with people who find life worth while, and when there are not so many of us abroad to witness their repulsive and nerve-damaging descent and sudden stop.

This protest is prompted by my having unintentionally and unwillingly been a witness at uncomfortably close range of one of the most recent of these notoriety-seeking suicides. The spectacle was one of such horror that my nervous system has not yet fully recovered from the shock it received, and I feel it my duty to do what may be within my power to protect other citizens from a similar experience—or possibly, untimely death.

JOHN EDWIN HOGG.

Rolls Over.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Pardon this use of your valuable time, but occasionally there are happenings in the day's new that cause one to "boil over" and a ready relief is a letter to your valuable paper, notwithstanding the fact that you carefully file it in the waste basket, probably.

Reappointments to the Harbor Commission, I have just read of certain demands made today to the City Council, by one Rev. Brierley, president of the Ministerial Union. In the language of the street "Where do they get that stuff?"

Since when do the ministers have to be consulted on city appointments? Especially when they have absolutely no bearing on any moral question. The churches are alienating more members than they are gaining by this continually meddling with things that do not concern them.

President Criswell of the City Council, in the recent bridge matter, was reported to have told some one in three short, emphatic words, "where to go", when they tried to dictate to him. This same phrase would be right in order in the present instance.

In the same paper we read of this same Rev. gentleman asking the Council to suppress a certain film because it was made by a woman who has sinned and who is now trying to "get back." She has acknowledged her past mistakes, joined the church and is apparently sincere in her efforts to repair the past. The charity of the Master who said to the erring woman "Go thou and sin no more" is evidently an unknown quantity to many of our modern ministers.

Question: Please tell me the amount of flour obtained in milling wheat?

E. W. G.

Answer: In modern milling, over 70 per cent of the wheat is recovered as standard patent flour, about 1 per cent as low-grade flour, about 2 per cent as Red Dog flour and the remainder as shorts or bran.

Q.: What game of cards is it easiest to cheat at?

W. T. K.

A.: Few games lend themselves so readily to the operations of the card sharp as the game of seven-up.

Q.: How is chewing tobacco flavored?

R. F. G.

A.: Chewing tobacco is flavored by dipping the leaves into a receptacle containing the sauce used for flavoring. This liquid is the result of experiments by the manufacturers, some using one formula, another. Licorice, sugar, maple sugar and molasses are the ingredients most used.

Q.: Where was the first parliament in the world?

A.: The first parliament in the world was Tynwald, which was founded in 1364 by Samuel A. Barnett in Whitechapel, London.

Q.: How did the material tweed get its name?

A.: The name of this woolen material derived from the locality where it was manufactured—in the village of Tweed River, in Scotland.

Q.: What is meant by a Parthian shot?

A.: A Parthian shot is a parting shot and takes its name from the method of fighting used by the Parthians. They were mounted bowmen in close order and their horses were trained to fight after each discharge of the arrow.

Q.: How do sweet and sour milk compare as to feed value?

A.: Sour milk, sweet milk and buttermilk are all good foods and practically the same in feeding value.

Women of Middle Age

THE critical stage of a woman's life usually comes between the years of 45 and 55, and is often beset with annnoying symptoms such as nervousness irritability, melancholia, heat flashes which produce headache and dizziness, and a sense of suffocation. Guard your health carefully, for if this period be passed over safely, many years of perfect health may be enjoyed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted to help women through this crisis. It exercises a restorative influence, tones and strengthens the system, and assists nature in the long weeks and months covering this period. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics. Its value is proven by many such letters as these:

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During Change of Life I was in bed for 18 months and had good care, but did not improve. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and in a short time I felt better. That was five years ago, and now when I feel run down and nervous I take the Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during Change of Life, for I know it will do them good."—Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tenn.

Thomas, Okla.—"I first used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my girlhood days, by the advice of a friend. At the age of 47 I was troubled with dizziness, hot flashes, and became very weak so that I was unable to do any work. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with the result that I felt better and stronger than I have for years. I have also given it to my three daughters, and always with good results. The Vegetable Compound is certainly grand for the ills of women."—Mrs. J. G SWAREY, Route B, Thomas, Okla.

PRISONER STRICKEN.

Alleged Suspect on Way East Taken From Train at Omaha.

Frank S. Goodrich, known here as Curtis Faunce, alias R. M. Goodrich, arrested on a liquor transportation charge and later recognized as being wanted in Boston, was taken from a train at Omaha yesterday and placed in a hospital when he was found to be suffering with pneumonia. Inspector Delaney of Boston, one of the two officers who were taking him back to face charges of $50,000 embezzlement, ordered a guard to be placed over the patient while at the hospital.

Goodrich was arrested in Calexico on May 25. He was held under $500 bond by U. S. Commissioner Long. Subsequent to his release he appeared before Commissioner Long and asked to be taken to jail in order that the $1000 could be released for attorney's fees. While in jail for the second time he was recognized as the man wanted in Boston. He denied he was the man. According to the Boston officers, Goodrich was the president of the United States Motor Transportation Company of Massachusetts.

Every city and village in the Ninety-first Army Corps area, from which the division was recruited, will have posters at Legion clubrooms the theaters, bank, hotel or railroad depots, the likeness of a Ninety-first in front-line equipment on the way toward the German lines. A live tree, emblem of the division, with the foreground and in the dim background another Ninety-firster is climbing over the top, with the barbed wire and the detail of the battlefield.

DISAGREE ON HOME.

Couple Part Because Each Wants to Live in Different Place.

Disagreement as to the proper place in which to live resulted in the separation of William M. Hollman and his wife, Alvaretta B. He said she refused to stay in the bungalow and ordered him to leave her hotel apartments. He exhibited a letter in which she refused her refusal to live with him any more.

Bullock's Autumn Modes

Sleeves

Undecided whether to be Jenny or a Bell sleeve. On a dress of beige satin. Adornment of cire ribbon with delft blue beads. Edging of Fox fur.

The Jenny sleeve—done in black chiffon. A band of black and white beading lends interest. The Jenny sleeve is the most talked of thing in the realm of new Fashions for Autumn—there are many interpretations of it at Bullock's—Third Floor.

A Pen Presentation of a few of the whimsicalities of Sleeves and Hems as they have taken up the pleasant task of making New Modes bewitching—with a more elaborate interpretation of two very beautiful Garments for Fall—at Bullock's.

—Out of all the romance of color, of fabrics, of trimmings and drapes that sparkle with wit—Sleeves and Hems embrace the widest range of ingenious invention.

—See the Fall Fashions—that is the only satisfactory way of knowing them. Suits, Coats, Gowns, Frocks, Hats, Blouses, Shoes—Fashions of Type, of Distinction—at Bullock's.

—They are coming day by day—from sources where Genius knows no hindrance—they have been selected in keeping with the spirit of Sincerity and Friendship which finds expression in Bullock Service as keenly in the selection of Smart Wearing Apparel as in the selection of other things.

—The invitation to visit Bullock's Autumn Mode Presentation is more than ordinarily warm, because of the exceptional wealth of beauty in evidence—Bullock's Fashion Sections—Third Floor.

Hems

Illustrating an interesting uneven hem seen upon the frock of black chiffon with the Jenny sleeve. The black and white beading is carried out at bottom of skirt also. At Bullock's Third Floor.

Hats

Fashions long since forgotten find reflection in Millinery. Gallant Cavaliers and smart gentlemen of Napoleonic times knew many of these shapes. Spanish influence is prominent in the Troubadour type of hat, opening the way for the invasion of fringe upon millinery. Colors run the gamut from the rich to the pale tones of the Fuchsia, making one wonder why their becomingness was not discovered before. In the Millinery Section at Bullock's Third Floor.

Blouses

Beads still cling to their place upon Blouses. All over effects in metallic tones are particularly stunning. Cire trimmings give rise to the observation that cire is seen upon many things besides Blouses in Women's Wearing Apparel. Flowing sleeves, of course. Some slit from elbow to cuff. Balkan effects retain the bloused waist line. Overblouses still lead in popularity. The new color, Pillar Box Red, has even caught blouses in its whirl. Bullock's Third Floor—Thursday.

WARMING THE BABY.

Now they are making a parlor stove that cannot be told from the family phonograph. By putting on a record of "There'll Be a Hot Time" the illusion is complete.

WAYS THAT ARE DARK.

That power-bond deal was not what one would call an open covenant openly arranged. It was a dark-lantern affair in the hands of the gumshoe brigade. Looks as if $2,000,000 would be about the price the city pays for this silence.

STRINGING HER BEAU.

The champion archer of England is a woman 78 years of age. Her record of 98 bullseyes out of 100 has not been equaled. The execution that a woman can do with her bow or her beau is remarkable. This Amazon has a story such as might only William Tell.

HE BIG LEAGUE.

Forty-eight different flags are now in the League of Nations and it is expected that Germany and Hungary will be admitted at the present meeting of the Assembly. The United States, Russia and Mexico are about the only nations not yet sufficiently civilized for admission, but Mexico hopes to go in at the next meeting.

THE LINE IS BUSY.

Los Angeles is a talkative place. The telephone company was 11,000 installations behind at the first of the year. It has put in 27,000 new phones and still has a waiting list of over 8000 names. The company may catch up in a few years, but it is certain that it can never get ahead. A man may be able to get along without an undershirt, but he must have a 'phone.

MAKING THE MOONSHINE.

Billy Sunday says that the Kentucky mountaineers are 100 per cent Americans. They make their moonshine—they always have and always will. Does Billy mean that the home-brewed moonshine makes them 100 per cent Americans? On the other hand, how can a party be a 100-per-cent American while thrusting a wet corkscrew into the Constitution of his beloved country?

WILL RUN EASY.

A swarm of bees got under the hood of a Ford buzzer down in Texas and took full possession of the machine. By this time they are probably running it all over the country. A quart of Italian bees ought to be able to run a Ford as far as a gallon of gasoline. The owner of the car got tipped by one of the petulant bees when he sought to interfere with the operation.

HAD A GREAT HEAD.

The bookmakers are again at great pains to advise us that it was not Cleopatra's hair but what she had under it that became the lure for great men. It was not her face but her brain that commanded a Caesar and an Antony. But we'd like to put a couple of pretzels that it was not her views on the League of Nations that first attracted Mark. He was an easier Mark than that.

THE YOUNG IDEA.

The pupils of the public schools were supplied with over 750,000 new text-books during the past two months. The State of California is one of the greatest school-book publishers of the country. Much of the new business lies in the new arithmetic which is being introduced. This will enable a pupil to tell how much a plumber who is getting $4 an hour for a six-hour day will lose if he goes on a strike.

THE LADY'S LID.

The recent convention of milliners decided that a woman should have a new hat every month in order to be well-dressed. Now the men will all be anxious to head for Southern California, where a lady can subsist for the better part of a year on a one-piece bathing suit and a rubber cap. If a man has to buy a new skypiece for his dame every month his name is apt to be found in the suicide column the second year.

THE WHEELS GO ROUND.

Although Henry Ford was reported hard up a few months ago, he now has $84,000,000 in cash in the bank. He must have sold a few of his road rabbits for real money. But dough that comes easy goes easy. Henry has apparently set aside $47,000,000 of the pile to pay his income tax. This will make quite a dent in his roll. A man who pays a $47,000,000 income tax has an excuse for being broke, but it isn't Henry, after all.

WOMEN AND THE WEED.

Fashionable dames of London are said to be finding the cigarette too mild and trivial and are turning to the more substantial dissipation of the cigar. It is said that one consignment of more than 20,000 especially manufactured perfectos are now on their way from Havana for the express consumption of the swell women's clubs of England's capital. The ladies are smoking cigars in the hotels and restaurants and some of the more desperate souls are said to be finding solace in the pipe. If the women of America took to smoking cigars it would probably speed the day of the coming of the Twentieth Amendment with its ban upon tobacco

TOO MUCH SECRET DIPLOMACY.

Secret diplomacy does not apply solely to the adjustment of relations between governments; its ramifications extend frequently to State and local affairs, as Los Angeles has recently learned at an expense to the taxpayers of $2,000,000. When politicians in the administration and politicians in business get together to negotiate contracts involving many millions, locking the doors against those who are the real parties at interest, it is invariably the public that pays.

Because I. H. Hellman was chairman of Mayor Snyder's Finance Committee in the late Mayoralty campaign, which left a deficit of $35,000 to be adjusted, is no reason that he should not have been permitted to bid when municipal power and lighting bonds in the sum of $13,500,000 were offered for sale. But it certainly was not justification for permitting him to be the ONLY bidder. And it was still less justification for permitting him to purchase for $11,965,000 bonds that City Treasurer Powell asserts were possessed of a market value of $13,900,000.

Dr. John R. Haynes and other members and employees of the Board of Public Service Commissioners, including Attorney Mathews and Engineer Scattergood, were deeply interested in the former Mayor's candidacy and campaigned openly and assiduously for him. But that, of itself, would not disqualify them from negotiating a sale of municipal securities. Few men under the circumstances, however, would have presumed, with the campaign deficit staring them in the face, to negotiate a secret sale with Mr. Hellman through which he purchased municipal securities having a par value of $13,500,000 for $2,000,000 less than their market value.

Why those bonds should have been sold at a private dicker among politicians instead of at public competition is a mystery that has not yet been explained to the satisfaction of the taxpayers. Attorney Mathews and Dr. Haynes assert that better bargains can be made at private sales, that the New York syndicates object to bidding in open competitions. But such argument is disputed vigorously by the City Treasurer, who was not taken into the confidence of the negotiators while the bond negotiations were pending. His position is fully sustained by the result of the sale of harbor improvement bonds last Wednesday. He insisted that the sale should be openly advertised and bids solicited. Ten bids were received and the bonds sold for a premium, while the light and power bonds went to Mr. Hellman's syndicate at 88.

San Francisco marketed its water bonds, bearing a lower rate of interest than our light and power bonds, at a premium. Are we to understand that the credit of Los Angeles is less secure than that of our northern neighbor? When San Francisco markets its bonds in open sales at a premium is there any good reason for permitting our municipal securities to be disposed of at a private dicker among politicians at 88?

Do Mr. Hellman, Dr. Haynes, Attorney Mathews and Engineer Scattergood imagine that the people of Los Angeles are so gullible that they will believe the best interests of the city were conserved when they negotiated a secret sale of securities at a price which was $2,000,000 below the market value? Are they unmindful of the biblical injunction, "Bind not the mouth of the ox that treads your corn?" Is this another "Charge of the Light Brigade"? If so, we have at least the right to know who blundered.

Mr. Hellman made an excellent financial deal, said to be the best put over here this year. Viewed from a strictly business angle he is not to be blamed. He represented a syndicate in the market for bonds. Whether he was approached by his political associates with the bond proposition or he first broached it to them has not been explained. But the parties at interest DID get together, and he was probably fully aware that he was the only bidder. No public announcement was made that the city had bonds for sale. Local representatives of other New York syndicates knew nothing about it. A rumor came to The Times from the financial district four days before the sale was consummated that Dr. Haynes of the Board of Public Service Commissioners was negotiating a private sale of the light and power bonds at a discount. The Times was loath to take such a report seriously. It believed the city's interests were better guarded. But a member of its staff called Attorney Mathews and Dr. Haynes over the phone at their homes and each denied categorically that a bond sale was pending. It now develops that the negotiations had then been completed and the Hellman check drawn. Three days later the transaction was closed, at a loss to the taxpayers (which probably means a corresponding profit to the Hellman syndicate) of $2,000,000.

And those three men, Dr. Haynes, Attorney Mathews and Engineer Scattergood, are the leading proponents in the community of municipal ownership of all public utilities. They have the effrontery to go before the people and tell them that politicians are to be intrusted with administration of important industries. We are forced to believe that they were so stupid as to be tricked out of $2,000,000 in a single transaction. If it was not stupidity, what was it?

City Treasurer Powell says the bonds would have sold in open competition for $13,900,000 and Mr. Powell is a recognized expert in municipal securities. But Mr. Powell was not a member of any of the Snyder campaign committees. His mind was not distracted from public business by the annoyance of a $35,000 campaign deficit. And he offers as proof of that assertion the later sale of the harbor improvement bonds at a premium.

Los Angeles is a metropolitan city, with a City Hall adequate only for a country village. Perhaps the size of the building reacts on that of some of our official representatives. Their cramped environments may make them too small to handle big transactions. San Francisco, with a smaller population and tax roll, has a $2,000,000 municipal building to which it points with pride. The loss in that bond transaction was sufficient to give to Los Angeles a similar structure. But it will not be built. The money will go instead to construct steam yachts and magnificent country homes for the members of that Wall street bond syndicate which Mr. Hellman represents. And it is with our dollars, those of the taxpayers of Los Angeles, that they will be built.

Suits have been filed in the Superior Court attacking the validity of the secret bond transaction. Some interesting disclosures may result concerning the coincidence of bond sales and campaign deficits, but it is hardly possible that the contract can be adjudged illegal. However stupid the negotiators for the city may have been, those Wall street syndicates employ only men with brains. The attorneys for the Hellman syndicate vised that contract, possibly dictated it. And they doubtlessly fortified the purchasers against a successful suit for cancellation.

That bond sale was the most disastrous business transaction, from the taxpayers' point of view, in the records of the city. If we are to take it as an example of what we are to expect under municipal ownership and operation of hydroelectric plants and distributing systems the taxpayers would be fortunate if they were well out of such business. Either the theory is hopelessly faulty or the majority of the Board of Public Service Commissioners are hopelessly incompetent. If that is the best Attorney Mathews can do in negotiating bond sales the city would be millions ahead to retire him, even on a pension of $1,000,000, and permit the City Treasurer to handle such transactions.

A REAL LABOR DAY

There are rather unique possibilities in a real "Labor Day." We have never tried one yet. The vogue for "days" has become highly popular, but always they are days dedicated to the pursuit of entertainment, days on which we see how much gasoline we can burn up, how much we can eat, how well we can dress, how much pleasure we can crowd in. Even when they are sentimental days, days dedicated to some precious memory—Thanksgiving Day, Memorial Day, Washington's Birthday, Christmas Day, Independence Day—we celebrate them with as many added luxuries, pleasures, extravagances as our purses will permit.

Or they may be days to boost some one commodity or to aid some special relief—Raisin Day or Red Cross Day or Tag Day—worthy in their way, yet calling for no special effort of achievement, of renunciation, of superb endeavor. Or perchance it is Mother's Day.

But when it is Labor Day it signifies anything but its name. For organized labor its chief significance is for no work, meetings, parades, the airing of grievances, protests, resolutions for more pay and less work—class consciousness, class selfishness, class antagonism. And for the rest of us a day to loaf, to play.

Yet Labor Day could be the most inspiring, constructive, progressive day in all the year, a day on which every one of us was exhorted and inspired to put forth the very best that is in us, to strive for new records of industry, production, achievement, a day upon which every individual of us set for themselves the perfection standard in our special task, whether it be laying bricks or cleaning house, selling insurance or raising flowers, mending shoes or trying law cases, running a restaurant or running a bank. A WORKERS' DAY in which work of every kind was glorified, reigned supreme, upon which efficiency and production, courtesy and consideration, hygiene and amiability—all the attributes and conditions that go to make work precious, valuable, constructive and happy, as well as profitable, is enobled, enhanced, enchanted by a national concerted effort towards the ideal of perfection in quantity, quality, harmony and general excellence. A Workers' Day upon which employer and employed alike combine in a mighty co-operation with "Our Very Best" as the prevailing slogan, in which both master and man, mistress and maid arise with the dawn intent upon beating their own best records in general service through the avenue of "Whatsoever thy hand findest to do, do it with all thy might."

Think of a mighty day upon which all selfish aspirations were sunk for the common good, a day upon which not "I" but "We" is the great presiding pronoun. A remarkable day, indeed, dedicated to superexcellence in whatever task we have before us—a day upon which to shirk would be the only crime, a day upon which the dread word, "waste," whether it be of time, money or talents, is frowned upon in a great national endeavor. A day upon which each one of us, from the social parasite to the lowliest laborer, from the aged to the smallest child, sets himself some worthy task to be performed by the very best that is in us. A day upon which each and all listen to the best dictates of our consciences and respond to the clarion call of a great endeavor.

Such a day could Workers' Day become. And those of us who know the exaltation of putting forth our best in a great enthusiasm know full well that the rewards in character and profit, in successful attainment are beyond all estimate. That, indeed, is the real "pursuit of happiness," the one form of pursuit that never fails, leaves no regrets, provides no distasteful aftermath.

It takes no special imagination to conceive the national and patriotic rewards of such a day. That one day's records of achievement, production, the mobilizing of national effort to the common good, would bring so transplendent an illumination of possible attainment, so tangible an evidence of vast capacity that we should never again be satisfied with our second best, never again be satisfied with the mediocre level of just "getting by." Moreover, in such a common effort, such a national co-operation our respect for each other must necessarily be enhanced, just as our self-respect must necessarily rise with the standards we attain.

And the national gain? Greater and better production, the reduction of living costs, peace and prosperity, harmony between employer and man, optimism, peptomism, security.

We put so much amazing energy into these pleasure days of ours, we plan, scheme, strive and labor so mightily for entertainment, for play, for sport, for joy rides, for overeating, overdrinking, dissipation—toil so hard and so long for feasting, purple and fine linen, revelry and physical comfort—and always, always the reward escapes us, the fruits of happiness elude us. But did we but dedicate just one precious day a year to the consecration of labor in its finest, noblest sense and put into it but half the planning and effort we devote to "pleasure" we should reap a reward beyond our greediest hopes, a reward that would extend over the nation for 365 days a year—the reward of "something attempted, something done" that spells the only tangible, joyous success.

OVER THE TOP.

The scientists claim to have discovered that Mont Blanc has shrunk three meters since the war. In this country conception of a shrinking meter is impossible. The only meters are the expansive and expensive kind which suggest vastness or perpetual motion. But in France or Switzerland the shrinking meter has hit what was once the world's favorite mountain. Anyhow, Mont Blanc has shrunk three meters in the bloody wash of the war. Of course, when a mountain loses nine feet from its stature it is no particular hardship. If a man was 10,000 feet high he could shave off a couple of cubits without spoiling his looks. But with a white-domed scientist the feeling is different. Any crimp in the face of nature becomes a tragedy. The shrinkage of Mont Blanc is something that must be explained. In a few billion years the mountain may become a hole in the ground if this deterioration persists. So science wants to know why. The possibility that the hot weather has melted nine feet of the ice-cap of the mountain is not sufficient. The experts will take their trusty yardsticks and go over the mountain again in order to make sure. Perhaps their measurements are a trifle out of the way and Mont Blanc is still in its pristine majesty. Possibly the mountain is only responding to the shrinkage of the Swiss franc and will be restored when the rates of exchange are readjusted.

George William Curtis was the father of the civil service laws, but he would hardly recognize his child in these days. It has not looked natural since the Wilson administration began to monkey with it.

ASK SOMETHING EASY.

BY GEORGINA S. TOWNSEND.

"Him and me done them examples."

Oh, so, this was not the reply of some ignorant foreigner. It was the answer I received to a perfectly impudent question I asked a 16-year-old high school boy of good American parentage. And this is a sample of "English as she is spoke" by many of the rising generation.

What are we going to do about it? What are we going to do about this rising generation, anyway? Ask me something easy.

What other subject bobs up more often in every walk of life than this all-absorbing one of "What is this coming generation coming to?"

It has already "came."

And we have already done it!

Oh, yes we have, we distracted fathers and mothers who are throwing up our hands and bewailing whatever the world is coming to are the ones who have done it. No use kidding ourselves that "the times" are to blame for slovenly English, slovenly attire, slovenly habits and the slovenly attitude of mind in regard to obligation, responsibility, integrity, morals and honor. The present time has nothing to do with the fact that the young people are so headstrong and willful we can do nothing with them. The time which was to blame for the present was some twenty or twenty-five years ago, when of a sudden we laid aside the good, old, Puritanical ideas that "to spare the rod spoils the child" and "children should be seen and not heard" and "children, obey your parents" and "respect your elders." Then of a sudden, as I say, we began to exploit the baby and we spelled it with a capital B. The Baby must be allowed to grow and develop uncurbed, unbridled. And he did. Oh, how he did! We theoretically preached that the child which grew and developed according to its own desires and inclination would become individual. And he became individual. Very much so. In fact, terribly so. And now we do not know what to do with him.

The indulged Baby became an individual at the profound age of three months. When he wanted his way he yelled lustily, and everyone considered him amazingly smart and clever to know enough to do it. And he was immediately given his way. By the time he was 4 years old he was all individuality, undirected, uncultivated, undisciplined.

Ever see a tree or bush that was allowed to grow as it pleased for four years? Pretty sight, wasn't it?

A few years later Baby, now Sonny, was ready for school, where he went thoroughly unequipped for any constraint or control. And at school, where he should have found training, what did he get? And how long did it take him to find out that, thanks to our revised ideas of moral suasion, of some twenty years ago, that "teacher dassn't lick me." And of a certainty teacher "dassn't."

And all the moral suasion and appealing to a child's intelligence never did one-millionth the good that one sound thrashing has accomplished to drive home with conviction a principle of discipline.

At 12 years old Son is demanding the "right" to drive dad's automobile. And getting it, too.

He demands everything as his "right." And if it is his sister we are considering, she demands silk stockings, even if her dad is dead and her mother supports a family of five on housework at 50 cents an hour.

And that, too, is our fault.

Oh, yes, it is. Face it and acknowledge that we made a mistake when we followed after new gods, cyclept individuality.

And next we have them at the adolescent age. They have been indulged in every desire and whim they have expressed for fourteen or fifteen years. The entire family affairs and fortune have been arranged with the especial idea of catering to the children's pleasure, but not necessarily to their education or discipline. Then, with the surge of life swelling within them, we suddenly expect them to become well behaved, restrained, unselfish, discreet, law-abiding. And instead they are more lawless than ever, and why not? Why should it be any more unlawful for them to do between 14 and 18 what they were allowed to do until they were 14? And if it is all right for Son to slip one over on dad and take the auto out for a wild night, without permission, why is it so very much worse to slip one over on a perfect stranger Son does not care a whoop about and appropriate his car? The dividing line between right and wrong is worn pretty thin by dad's laxity.

And it is every whit as wrong for Son to swipe dad's car as for him to swipe the stranger's car. But Son does not know it. And neither does dad realize it.

And if it is the girls who are worrying us, let us consider. Not the short skirts and the bobbed hair, both are hygienic and sensible, and they are not a "sign of the times," unless they be a sign of good common sense. But it is the fact that these girls have never known what it meant to obey father and mother; they, too, feel they have a "right" to do whatever they please, go when and where they please, responsible to no one, and with no obligations. And whose fault is that? Theirs? Not a bit of it. It is father's and mother's fault for letting them do whatever they wished from the time they were born.

And this is what has come of exploiting the Baby. Such a cute little mite as a baby is, that should have everything done for it, and have the whole world revolve around it, and stand still for it when it opened its rosebud mouth and squalled. It was a costly fad which took a generation to prove itself impracticable. And now that we have the proof of the pudding, we do not like to taste of it. What are we going to do about it?

Well, just what?

One thing you fathers can do, but you won't. You can take the car away from Son. How many young fellows are tearing around the country in autos which they themselves earned by hard work? Oh, you laugh, do you? To be sure, it is to laugh. Well, then, who pays for the autos and for their upkeep? Good old dad, eh?

Why, then, isn't dad in control of the situation? Because he hasn't the courage to take control. And Son knows it. He hasn't any respect for dad, who is so easy. Dad may think he should have Son's respect, seeing how he has done every living thing to give the kid a happy life. But that's another of those theories that don't pop as expected. Respect is something Son cannot define. He simply takes all that is done for him as his "right."

I know a family where there is an indulgent father and mother and three grown sons. Each of the boys has a good job. Dad has one, too, just as good as it was twenty years ago when the babies were coming and one he will have exactly as long as he is able to keep it and not a day longer. Out of his salary the thrifty little mother has saved enough for a home and some investments in good lots, so that they feel they are people of means. And, of course, they must have a car. Every family does, whether they have babies or not. The price of a car divided by four is not so bad. And the boys helped pay for the car? They did not! Dad bought the car. Why, he had some money in the bank, at least mother had some she had saved, but, of course, it was money dad earned. And so the car was bought with dad's savings. Then, to be fair and just, dad and mother used the car one Sunday each month and let the boys have it the others. They were very strict about it, too. They never encroached upon the Sundays the car belonged to one of the boys. A lovely arrangement. Perfectly sweet and dear of pa and ma, I call it, especially as pa and ma paid for all the running expenses, not only for themselves, but for the boys, and did all the cleaning and repairing, too. Because, you know, the boys should have a good time when they are young. No, I'm not exaggerating. I can even add to this beautiful picture of ideal family life by telling you that those three husky boys, each one making as much or more than dad, live at home and pay no board, and mother does their washing. When I remonstrated with the thrifty little mother she flew mad and nearly pecked my eyes out and defied me to make her mercenary with her own flesh and blood. And then, too, she showed me a lovely new jewel pin which the boys had given her for her birthday that cost all of what their laundry would have been for a month to convince me.

But I wasn't convinced of something or other, I don't know what.

And speaking of autos, the trouble right today with the rising generation is not the movies or short skirts or bobbed hair or anything half so much as the freedom and license which the autos give the young people. Unrestricted auto drives lead to the lawlessness about us. Take away from the youngsters this means of lawlessness which so often leads to crime and half the grave problem will be solved. But there, again, it depends upon the fathers of the rising generation to do this, and when I think of the helplessness of the average father of today I think of a lawyer, famous for his brilliancy in argument, a man who can sway juries, can win any case, can even "sass" a judge without fear and take the consequences who got up trying to manage his 7-year-old son. The child tyrannized his father and mother so completely that they finally placed him in an institution where individuality is administered to with a good stout switch applied to the south end of a rebellious youngster. And the lawyer told the matron "to go to it." And when the kid needed it she "went to it." One good thrashing was all he needed. That was a language he instinctively understood and he immediately became manageable.

But would that brainy little lawyer have thrashed him? No, he didn't have the nerve!

And so with the dads of today. They haven't the nerve to take the autos away from the youngsters. And they haven't the nerve to give up having an auto for the sake of the children's souls.

When we began to do everything for the child we thought we were doing him the greatest kindness in the world, that of making life easier for him and giving him pleasure and happiness, never realising that the greatest happiness for a child lies in his ability to earn a dime of his own to spend for his pleasure. And why have we indulged our children in this manner to their utter ruin? Because, oh, ye gods, because it gratified our own vanities; we indulged ourselves in pride over our own flesh and blood. And before us is the result and we wail:

"What are we going to do about the rising generation?"

Ask me something easy.

Ask me about relativity.

AIN'T IT JUST SO?

Professor Dink Beeson says it Seems to be an unfailing law of Nature that what we get easy
Soon loses its kick and when he
Was a reporter on a newspaper
And got a theatrical pass when-Ever he wanted one he got to the Point where he would scarcely
Have walked across the street
To see De Wolfe Hopper or Rich-
Ard Mansfield and when he had a
Job in a railroad office that en-Titled him to an annual he got
To the point where he wouldn't
Have given two cents for a trip
To the Holy Land by way of Cairo
And Monte Carlo and way back
There, how many years ago was it,
Anyway, when women wore their
Skirts so they wiped up the side-
Walks as they walked he used to Hang around the corner cigar
Store and pray for random gusts
Of wind to give him random glim-
Pses of their ankles, but nowadays
He can Broadway from one end to
The other and never let his gaze
Wander below the head line.

THREL FALL.

The mining trouble in West Virginia faded out when the regular troops got busy. The quick action of President Harding recalls a similar order of President Cleveland during the railway strike in Chicago. It will be recalled that the mails began to move quickly after the regulars struck that city.

For great towering walls are all about.
Shutting the busy world without.
Oh, out here in the Golden West,
This land which has been so blest,
There is stowed within these peaks sublime
The canyons cool for summer time.

VICE MUST GO, SAYS REFORMER.

Science Demonstrates Peril of Redlight Districts.

Parents Blamed for Keeping Boys in Ignorance.

Woman Federal Official Talks from the Shoulder.

A new, powerful force is at work in the nation today. It is the force of collective morality, battling age-old problems with weapons of present-day efficiency. Substituting science for sentiment, it is giving the world a modern crusade of common sense and public safety.

This, in brief, is how Dr. Valeria H. Parker, executive secretary of the United States Interdepartmental Social Hygiene Board, sees reforms and reformers of today. And as she is the directing head of the government's efforts to keep the men in the Navy and Army away from vice of all types and descriptions, her point of view is nation-wide and serious.

Dr. Parker's approach to the subject is direct.

"No way has been found by which vice can be made safe. Therefore, the only safe thing to do is to attack vice," she says. In common with other well-informed social workers and physicians, Dr. Parker views a woman of the underworld not as a person who sells her body or soul but as one who sells disease and all laws designed to regulate vice as laws protecting society from disease rather than guarding its morals.

SCIENCE TO FORE.

"The first attacks upon vice were made on moral grounds," she said in an interview yesterday with a Times representative. "In recent years medical and scientific research has shown without a doubt that communities that tolerate vice pay a heavy toll in physical deterioration.

"In some quarters an idea exists that segregated districts tend toward safety in vice. Careful, scientific investigation has disclosed the contrary to be true. A sense of false security leads to increased patronage. We have statistics showing that segregated districts do not protect, but expose. The government realizes this, and takes every means possible to eliminate this evil and protect the men who enter its service in the Army and Navy."

Dr. Parker is the very opposite of the average mortal's conception of the typical reformer. She is used to facts, figures, rather than emotionalism and imagination. She does not expect a Nineteenth Amendment abolishing vice, she is not for blue laws, not against dancing, not against "everything," quite the opposite. Being a physician and a psychologist, she knows what the human body and human mind seek, and says so.

LAWS FUTILE.

"You cannot abolish vice by laws. Education along proper lines is essential," she explained. "We are just beginning to understand this subject. Take boys and girls, for instance. I believe that boys are naturally as clean minded as girls. Yet boys, in the average home, do not receive the instruction on physical questions that is given girls in the same homes. The result is that the girl is the more clean-minded at the critical age. But the whole subject is neglected. The home sidesteps it, the church sidesteps it, the schools sidestep it, and when sex becomes an actual part of a boy's life, he has no knowledge, no instruction, and is allowed to drift, exposed to the evil influences of commercialized vice."

The attacks upon vice, therefore, Dr. Parker holds, must be two-fold. Law enforcement and education are the essentials. As education progresses, the laws must follow, and these laws must be enforced. The big moral force at work in the world today, she says, is this two-fold tendency, backed by organization and scientific research. Schools and colleges are turning out men and women better qualified to understand and handle the problem. Scientists are proving that there is no safe, no royal road to vice. The laws are becoming more and more stringent. The commercialized interests are organized. They fight bitterly for all its old-time privileges. Today, for the first time in world's history, the forces of morality are becoming organized to combat vice.

HELD HIGH PLACE.

Before accepting the position as Uncle Sam's watcher over the young men in the armed branches of the government's service, Dr. Parker was chairman of the Social Hygiene Committee of the National League of Women Voters and member of the Section of Delinquency of the National Conference of Social Work. Her appointment came from the secretaries of the Treasury, War and Navy departments, and Surgs.-Gen. Ireland, Stitt and Cumming of the Army, Navy and Public Health Service. These compose the board. Their concern is to keep the men who enter the Army and the Navy healthy and clean-minded.

The laws in the United States will become more stringent as time goes on, Dr. Parker believes. By this she does not mean that the grandfather will have his corn cob pipe taken away from him or that the motion-picture theaters will become dark. That is the way in which opponents of reform paint it. But the entrance of the woman into our political life is bound to lead to more stringent laws affecting vice in all forms, she says.

IN TOUCH WITH DRIVE.

Dr. Parker keeps in touch with the progress of the medical attacks upon commercialized vice through the many officials the board maintains in the United States. The country is divided into nine districts, each in charge of a field representative. These, in turn, have field agents, each in charge of an office where the Navy and Army bases and camps are located, or where the fleet vessels are stationed. The field agents keep in touch with medical officers of the different Army and Navy units, and receive from them weekly, monthly and yearly reports, showing exactly how much or how little commercialized vice in each locality is undermining the health of the men and the efficiency of the service. These field agents also keep in touch with the municipal and county and State officials, police court, and health departments, and are thus able to see in black and white just what increase commercialized vice makes upon the uniformed men. The board's statistics are good indicators of the situation as it effects the civilian population. Through its local, district and national officers, the agents of the board are able to place their finger on the vice situation in any given part of the country and tell just how completely or inefficiently the laws are observed.

The other side of the board's activity is educational. This phase of the work will not be vigorous this year, on account of a large slash in the appropriation granted by Congress, Dr. Parker said.

"UNLOADED" GUN SCORE AUGMENTED

Man Shot, Youth is Jailed Following Demonstration of Trigger Action.

Jacob M. Lutz, 24 years of age, a boilermaker, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded yesterday and Stanley J. Clark, 19, is in the City Jail as the result of the belief that a revolver was not loaded. The shooting took place in a rooming-house at 205 East Fifth street.

According to statements made by Mr. Lutz in the Receiving Hospital, where he was rushed by the police, the shooting was the result of an accident.

He said he went to a room in the hotel to look at a revolver owned by Clark, which was for sale. Clark was showing the trigger action of the revolver when the weapon exploded and the bullet struck Mr. Lutz at the waist line. In the hospital police surgeons declared that the wounded man probably would die.

Clark in a statement to the police before he was locked up declared that he arrived in this city two days ago from Burlington, Vt. He stated that he found the revolver near Banning and attempted to sell it in this city. Lutz, whom he encountered on the street, went to his room to look at the weapon and the shooting resulted.

Police Detectives Wood and Rico, after taking the statements, declared that Clark will be held for further investigation.

SINKING IN HOSPITAL.

Victim of Crowbar Assault is Not Expected to Recover.

Samuel Fuller, 26 years of age, an ex-service man who probably was fatally injured when struck on the head with a crowbar by D. W. Martin, 76, last Sunday, was reported by surgeons yesterday as slowly sinking. He is in the Angelus Hospital, Martin is in the City Jail charged with an assault with a deadly weapon. The charge will be changed to murder if the injured man dies.

Police yesterday were unable to solve the mystery that surrounds the assault. It was learned, however, from Mrs. R. H. Martin, the prisoner's daughter-in-law and Fuller's sister, that the aged man struck Fuller with the crowbar while the lister was cleaning an auomobile. The cause of the assault is not known by the police.

INVESTIGATE SLAYING.

Police Seek Motive For Murder of Italian by Gunmen.

Police yesterday continued the investigation of the mysterious slaying of Santo Smiroldo, 35 years of age, an Italian, who was shot down by two gunmen at Mozart street and West Avenue 26 late Sunday night. No motive for the murder could be established by the police yesterday.

Mr. Smiroldo came to this city with his wife and family about two months ago from Denver. He was a mechanic and, according to the police, had no enemies. The body was removed from the scene of the shooting to the Highland Park undertaking establishment.

Echo of Last Wet Night in Court Today.

With the beginning today in Judge Reeve's court of the trial of Ernest Giles, accused of assault under color of authority on Thomas A. Donahue, memories of the day before prohibition went into effect in the United States will be revived for many persons who visited Vernon on that night.

It is charged that Giles and F. Harris, the latter then Chief of Police of that city, beat Mr. Donahue on the head with metal handcuffs. The case, so far as Mr. Harris is concerned, has been settled.

PAIR TO FACE COURT ON BAD-CHECK CHARGE

Accused of passing a fictitious check for $495 on Mary F. Sanborn, Samson Desmeropian and Charles K. Oxenfeld will be arraigned today before Judge Reeve. The check, it is charged, was drawn on the Minnesota Loan and Trust Company, and made payable to Mary F. Sanborn.

Eclipsing in point of brilliance and charm most functions of the summer was the buffet supper and dancing party that Charles G. Adams of Los Angeles gave at Montecito in the Moorish patio of Dias Felices, the home of Henry Dater, where he has been a guest while doing landscape work on several Montecito estates.

Mme. Julio Rodesno of Paris and Guatemala, who has a house on Channel Drive, and Miss Rachael Adams of this city, who is visiting her brother, were cause for the affair. Mr. Dater and his house guest, Lewis Moody, assisted.

The bride wore a gown of white georgette combined with real lace and a veil wreathed with orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of bride roses and maidenhair ferns. Her sister, Mrs. Harcourt Hervey, daughter-in-law of former Judge and Mrs. William Rhodes Hervey, was matron of honor and wore pale green georgette and carried Cecile Brunner roses and lilies of the valley. Harcourt Hervey stood with the groom. The bride was educated here, where she has resided fifteen years. She spent two years in the Red Cross war work. ANSWERED LETTERS.

Chairman: Are there any books I could purchase by mail, giving suggestions for programs for a woman's club?

Answer: Yes, but I cannot mention their names in this column as that would be advertising. I will gladly send you the names of two such books, together with the addresses of the publishers who get them out, if you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. O.: Please give suggestions for a surprise party.

Ans.: The person to be surprised must, of course, be gotten away from the house on one pretext or another, and when he returns he will find the house filled with guests. Games should be started at once. I know of no jollier one than "Jenkins Up and Down." To play this the company must be divided into two sides. One division sits on one side of a large table, and the other division opposite. A dime is given to one side and is passed beneath the table-edge among the players of that side, to one whom the captain (each side must choose a captain) indicates. The opposing captain now says, "Jenkins Up! and all the closed hands of the players on the side holding the coin must be raised high in the air. When the opposing captain says, "Jenkins Down," the closed hands must come down flat on the table and the player in whose closed fist the dime is concealed, must take care that its glint of silver does not show beneath spread fingers as his flat hand lies on the table-surface. Now the opponents may guess which hand hides the dime, each player of the opposite side having one guess. If nobody guesses correctly, the side holding the dime will again put their hands beneath the table-edge and decide upon which of their number is to have the coin next. If, however, some person of the opposite side correctly guesses which hand is hiding the dime, then the opponents get the coin and the players that first had it become guessers. The fun lies in seeing which side can keep the ten-cent piece the longer.

Another good game is "Registering Screen Emotions." This is played by each person's having to draw a slip of paper from a hat held above his head. Each slip bears the name of a screen emotion, such as Fear, Pride, Anger, Horror, Villainous Intent, Spiritual Exaltation, Pleased Surprise (make them up to suit yourself.) Each player must act out—or try to!—the emotion written on his slip, while all the other players form the audience.

F. H.: What kind of a game is good to play at a corn roast?

Ans.: The one just described (Screen Emotions) would make fun and the firelight would make the faces of the actors only more ludicrous. Or you might start a comic story at one end of the circle about the camp fire, and let each person in turn add to the tale. Or have a contest consisting of each person's telling a true story of the most embarassing thing, of the funniest thing, that ever happened to him. Give, as a prize, the largest ear of corn.

Miss I. E.: Please tell me how to clean a white kid belt.

Ans.: Use benzine or gasoline, but not near heat or flame.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—[The Editor.

The Daily Fun Hour.

BY HONOR WALSH.

MIND READERS.

One of the players is chosen to be Highbrow. All the other players are called Mind Readers. Highbrow must think of some definite object, and, with that in mind, asks, "Mind Readers, what does my thought resemble? Answer promptly, one at a time!"

Thus adjured, they make quick and random answers, one after the other. The first Mind Reader may say, "Your thought resembles ice;" the second may reply "Your thought is like moonlight;" the third may say, "Your thought is like a knife;" the fourth—"It is like beauty;" the fifth—"It is like sandpaper;" the sixth—"It is like fire;" the seventh —"It is like morning;" the eighth—"It is like night," etc.

Highbrow writes down all the answers in the order received, and when every one has responded he tells his thought. Then every Mind Reader must give a reason why it resembles the object he had mentioned in his answer. For instance, if Highbrow's "thought" proves to be a thought of a certain girl, present or absent, No. 1 may prove his comparison by sayin, "She is like ice because she is clear and firm, yet easily melted;" No. 2 may say, "She is like moonlight because she shines on a dark world;" No. 3 may say, She is like a knife because she is keen;" No. 4—"She is like beauty, because she is a joy forever;" No. 5—"She is like sandpaper, because she smooths all roughness;" No. 6—"She is like fire, because she warms your heart;" No. 7—"She is like morning, because she is as welcome as dawn-light;" No. 8—"She is like night because she brings rest."

Thousands at Pennsylvania Society Picnic.

Members of the Pennsylvania Society gathered in Sycamore Grove yesterday for their third picnic this year, several thousand persons participating in the celebration.

Addresses were made by C. H. Parsons, Samuel Brown and O. B. Nixon. Rev. A. Matrim read a poem, "The Howl of the Homesick," and H. J. Brubaker led the assemblage in singing "America" and other patriotic songs.

The officers of the society, which is said to be one of the strongest State organizations in Southern California, are O. B. Nixon, president; R. W. McCrea, vice-president; Samuel Brown, honorary president; Miss May Vandergraff, secretary; Mrs. R. W. McCrea, assistant secretary, and Mrs. Sarah Guyer, treasurer.

Other organizations which held picnics in the grove yesterday are: The American General Benevolence Union, Southern California United Presbyterian Churches, Kentucky Club, Armenian Aintabs, and residents of Oskaloosa, Iowa, Pope County, Ill., and Livingston County, Me.

WHY

DO WE SPEAK OF "OSTRACIZING" SOME ONE?

[Copyright, 1921, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.]

This word, used in its significance of "banning" or "shunning," dates directly back to the ancient Greek ceremony of ostracism, by which a citizen might be banished from his native city without special accusation, trial or defense. The process was carried out by writing on an oyster shell (ostrea) or potsherd, the name of the citizen whom it was thought prudent to banish for a time. A day was appointed for the ceremony and the polling place was fenced in, with ten entrances left for the citizens of each tribe and ten separate casks or vessels, in which the primitive ballots were to be placed.

If, at the end of the day, the number of votes against any one person totaled 6000, that person was "ostracized" or temporarily banished. If not, the ceremony was considered to have vindicated the accused. In the event that the balloting demanded his departure, ten days were allowed for settling his affairs, and he was then required to leave for ten years, though he retained title to his property and suffered no other penalty. A similar institution at Syracuse was called "Petalism" because, in taking the votes, the name of the citizen was written upon the leaf of an olive, instead of upon an oyster shell or potsherd.

BISCAILUZ IS HONORED.

Undersheriff Guest at Dinner Given by Old-Time Friend.

Recalling early days in Los Angeles, Mrs. Adele Giovanazzi, age 71 years, was hostess yesterday to a party of fifteen friends at a dinner at her residence, 514 Rosabell street, in honor of Undersheriff Biscailuz. Mrs. Giovanazzi, who has been acquainted with the undersheriff for a number of years, was aided in serving by Felix Adamoli, a long-time friend of the family.

The hostess, who has traveled extensively, went many thousands of miles before she reached the place she believes most like sunny Italy, and has remained in Southern California ever since. She has visited several European countries, Mexico and various parts of the United States.

"Let Me Congratulate You on Your Puzzle Contest"

——it is one of the best educational exercises I have ever come across. Apart from the prizes and the fun in picking out objects, it is a mental stimulus which will benefit adults as well as children."

—Letter from High School Teacher.

Class "A" is open to everyone without restrictions of any kind. Merely send in your list of words with your name and address on top. No subscription need be sent to THE TIMES, nor is it necessary for the participant to be a TIMES subscriber.

Classes "B," "C" and "D" are open to those who renew their subscriptions for a moderate period, or to anyone who secures a new or old subscription for 3 months, 6 months or a year; in all cases payment to be made in advance.

Answering Another Frequent Inquiry:

Many contestants have asked if they can derive any additional advantage by sending in more than one subscription. Positively, NO!

The Observation Puzzle is primarily intended to afford wholesome fun for all who read THE TIMES. It is not a subscription campaign. Readers have the option of extending their own subscriptions, of getting a new subscription, or of getting the renewal of an old subscription. In short, the only condition in Classes "B," "C" and "D" is that advance payment for THE TIMES must be made and must accompany lists of words.

When the contest is closed all answers will be turned over to judges who have no connection with THE TIMES and who will make all decisions based on the rules printed below. Neither THE TIMES nor any employee will take part in determining the winners, nor will any other rules or regulations be given to the judges except the ones published daily in THE TIMES. Thus as regards any doubtful word, one person's guess is as good as another's. The judges will make their own rulings.

A contestant who enters in one class may change his list to a higher class by making the proper subscription adjustment.

Regarding Subscription Payments: All payments for subscriptions which are intended to qualify contestants in the prize contest must be mailed or brought directly to The Times' main office or to The Times' Los Angeles branch office. This is important. The Puzzle Manager positively cannot qualify lists of names unless accompanied by the proper remittance.

RULES OF CONTEST

(1.) Any man, woman or child who is not connected with the Los Angeles Times in any capacity, or who is not a member of an employee's family, may compete.

(2.) All answers will be divided into four classes, each class will be judged independently, there will be fifteen prizes in each class. While anyone may compete in more than one class, or may submit more than one list of names, not more than one prize will be awarded to any individual, the largest award being given to him which anyone of his lists entitles him to.

Class A—Open to all. Anyone may compete.

Class B—Open to those who send in a new or old three-month subscription to the daily and Sunday Times, or who renew their own subscription for three months, payment to be made in advance.

Class C—Open to those who send in a new or old six-month subscription to the daily and Sunday Times, or who renew their own subscription for six months, payment to be made in advance.

Class D—Open to those who send in a new or old twelve-month subscription to the daily and Sunday Times, or who renew their own subscription for twelve months, payment to be made in advance.

(3.) Contest closes Sept. 30, 1921, at 5 p.m. All answers must be deposited in The Times main office or Los Angeles branch office, or bear a postmark not later than that hour.

(4.) Answers may either be deposited in contest box in Times branch office, 619 South Spring street, or Times main office, First and Broadway, Los Angeles, or may be mailed to Puzzle Manager, Circulation Department, Los Angeles Times.

(5.) All lists of names should be written on one side of paper. Number sheets consecutively. Write your own name and address on each page in upper right-hand corner.

(6.) Only words appearing in English dictionaries will be considered. Slang and obsolete words are barred. Only words beginning with B will count.

Where plural is used, singular cannot also be used, and vice versa.

Only names of objects or parts of objects will count.

Words of the same spelling may be used only once, even though they apply to different objects.

An object may be named only once even if more than one of the same kind appear in the picture.

Parts of an object may be named in addition to the object itself.

Do not use hyphenated or compound words, that is, words formed by the combination of two or more complete English words, where each word is itself an object.

(7.) The answer in each class containing the largest number of correct names of visible objects beginning with the letter B, will be awarded the first prize in that class, the second best the second prize, etc.

(8.) More than one person may co-operate in submitting a list of names, but only one prize will be awarded to any one group of group, which has been working together.

(9.) In the event of a tie for any prize, the full amount of the prize will be given to each tied participant.

(10.) A committee of well-known Los Angeles people having no connection with the Los Angeles Times will act as judges, their names to be announced in a few days. The judges will use Webster's New International Dictionary as their reference, participants agree to accept all decisions of the judges as final and conclusive.

(11.) Judges will meet on October 3, and announcement of prize winners and the best list of B words submitted as determined by them, will be published as soon thereafter as possible.

(12.) All questions or correspondence regarding the observation puzzle should be addressed to Puzzle Manager, Circulation Department Los Angeles Times.

CALIFORNIA IS FAVORED LAND.

Pasadena Postmaster Returns With Glad Tidings.

Officers Say Man Was Full of Speed Booze.

Small Fires Mar Holiday at Crown City.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Sept. 5.—Southern California is the most favored spot in the country, both as to business and weather, this season, said Postmaster Clark McLain of Pasadena today, following his return from a visit to his farms at Nevada, Iowa.

The crop in Iowa, Nebraska and other Middle West States is big, said Mr. McLain, in spite of the excessively hot weather which struck that region in July. However, crop prices are down this year and that, coupled with the fact that some of the farmers have part of last year's crops still unsold, makes the situation some too rosy for the farmers, said the postmaster.

He attributes the continued good business in Southern California to the fact that the Coast was not having such a jazzy boom-time as the East, just before the reaction and readjustment came.

RAY SPEEDER WAS DRUNK.

After a stern chase of twelve blocks on Colorado street this morning, Policeman Ed Goins and George Hammond arrested D. J. Horton at Garfield avenue, in the downtown district, and booked him at headquarters on a charge of driving an automobile when intoxicated. The policemen asserted Horton was going more than fifty miles an hour on the main thoroughfare of the city.

DWELLINGS ARE DAMAGED.

Pasadena had two Labor Day fires, early this morning, two dwellings being damaged. One was the beautiful home of John Lyon, 1215 South El Molino avenue, Oak Knoll, and the other was the home of Miss Ada Rosebauth, 855 North Holliston avenue. The occupants of each place were aroused from their beds by the flames. The damage at each place will not exceed $600, it is estimated.

HOLIDAY IS ENJOYED.

Pasadena enjoyed a wonderful Labor Day holiday today. A breeze tempered the warm sunshine. Public offices, stores and offices were closed all day.

Large crowds attended the Labor Day celebration at Brookside Park. The Pasadena Elks' ball team defeated the Pasadena American Legion nine. Mme. Relyea Vir Den, soprano, and Jack Regas, saxophonist, were soloists at the afternoon program, with the Pasadena band. The speaker of the day was Dr. Frank G. Tyrrell. He was introduced by Rev. Harry Shepherd of the Lincoln avenue Methodist Church.

In his address Dr. Tyrrell said: "Let us pledge ourselves anew to scourge want and fear of want from the abodes of men; to abolish poverty; to eradicate unemployment, both seasonal and chronic, and to introduce the expected day of social deliverance and human rights."

MANY IN MOUNTAINS.

Many holiday-makers were in the mountains near here over the Labor Day week-end. Resorts in the Arroyo Seco and at Mt. Lowe and Mt. Wilson report capacity crowds.

If you can make your own fancy necklace cords, Grace Nicholson's shop will sell you the oriental beads, drops, charms and materials for same. Have plenty of the quaint jade, amber, agate, crystal and amethyst, Buddhas, elephants, dogs, fish and other charms in silver, ivory and seeds, just the thing for the new style bracelets.—[Advertisement.

WOMAN FINDS BODY OF DEAD HUSBAND.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Elizabeth Seifert of 737 Tularosa Drive, Los Angeles, has identified the man who shot himself here and fell into the sea on Saturday morning as her husband. The body was identified in the morgue, the woman, say the authorities, being positive. She explained her husband had been on a vacation and had become despondent because of loss of money invested in oil stock, the company not making good.

CHURCH CELEBRATION.

Catholic Congregation Stages Successful Affair.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PUENTE, Sept. 5.—The country home of Walter P. Temple, at Puente, was the scene of an all-day celebration today, when the members and friends of the All Souls Catholic Parish of Alhambra, celebrated with a picnic.

The chief amusements consisted of bathing in the private plunge, dancing, billiards and field day sports. Those feeling lucky played against the concessions, which raffled everything from live pigs and goats down to candy and less substantial things.

Approximately 1000 persons enjoyed the affair. Rev. W. Groos, the priest in charge of the parish is the man to be congratulated on the success of the affair. The money derived will be used for the benefit of the new $30,000 parish grammar school, which was recently erected at the corner of Electric and Main streets in Alhambra, and which will be opened September 19.

FUNERAL SERVICES HERE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Sept. 5.—The body of Fred Miner, 40, an employee of the American Oil Company near Fellows, who ended his life by cutting his throat some time Friday, will be taken to Los Angeles tomorrow for burial.

Miner's body was not discovered until yesterday afternoon. He was born at Fairfield, Cal., and leaves a wife, a son, a daughter and a sister of Los Angeles.

TALKING YEGGS LOSE PROFITS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 5.—Two conversational burglars early today held up a half-dozen persons on the bridge across the flood-control channel in the harbor district.

Because they were so talkative, the various pedestrians who were robbed were able to hide in the aggregate several hundred dollars the thieves might have received by the regular method pursued by the average highwaymen.

The two hold-up men were young and apparently amateurs. The bandits talked so long about various subjects before forcing their victims to "stick 'em up" that the pedestrians had plenty of time to hide their valuables.

HOLIDAY OUTINGS.

Many Picnics on Day's Program at Long Beach.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 5.—Labor Day was observed in Long Beach by two large gatherings. The members of the Central Labor Council and their families held a basket lunch on the lower deck of the municipal auditorium. Addresses by labor leaders followed the picnic.

About 3000 members of St. Matthews's parish assembled at the ground at Seventh street and Temple avenue for a picnic and barbecue. The speaker of the day was Joseph Coyne, prominent Knights of Columbus official, of Los Angeles.

The annual picnic and reunion of the Rice county (Kansas) society was held in the municipal auditorium this afternoon.

NEW LUMBER COMPANY.

Nebraska Men Launch Concern at Santa Monica.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 5.—The recent action of the Santa Monica City Council in extending the industrial district's limits has enabled a new lumber corporation to enter the local field. The Golden State Lumber Company, capitalized at $100,000, will be situated at Twenty-fifth street and Santa Monica Boulevard.

H. G. Krants is president of the concern, with his two sons, Edward H. Krants and F. G. Krants acting as secretary-treasurer and vice-president, respectively. They formerly had extensive experience in the lumber industry in Nebraska and Iowa.

The buildings for the plant will be artistic and every effort will be made to make them conform to the beauty of their surroundings.

TWO MEET DEATH.

Automobile Strikes Ranchers On Road Near Easton.

EASTON, Sept. 5. — Avakian Haskortjian was instantly killed and Soreen Ohanesian was severely injured late last night when they were struck down on the highway south of here by a car driven by Raymond W. Kennal of San Francisco. Kennal told the police today that lights from another automobile blinded him so that he did not see the two men who were walking. An inquest will be held here tomorrow morning.

Haskortjian was the owner of a ranch near Caruthers, while Ohanesian is a rancher of the same district. The two are said to have left their own car which had broken down, on the highway and were walking into Easton for help.

KILLED IN MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT.

San Francisco Man Falls to His Death En Route to Southern Beaches.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 5.—Percy Edward Cecil, an employee of the Main-street Iron Works of San Francisco, died here last night from fatal injuries received when his motorcycle skidded while rounding a sharp turn near Chandlers, on the Ridge route, fifty miles southeast of Bakersfield. He was thrown headforemost to the ground and died at a local hospital. The man sustained a fractured skull and other major injuries, physicians announced.

With R. Cooley, a fellow-employee of the northern firm, Cecil was traveling to Los Angeles. They had planned to spend a few days at the southern beaches. Both men were riding motorcycles.

The two men had become separated a few minutes before the accident occurred. Cooley, riding at a good rate of speed, was in the lead and did not miss his companion until he had covered several miles. When he turned back and reached the scene of the mishap, a large crowd of passing autoists had gathered around Cecil's unconscious form.

C. E. Johnston, a Los Angeles business man and his wife, were the only eye-witnesses to the accident. They were en route to San Francisco. According to the story told members of the Coroner's office, Cecil approached from the west, and made a quick turn to avoid hitting their car, which resulted in the mishap.

Johnston declared that he stopped his car just as Cecil's body was hurled to the ground in front of its wheels. The car did not strike the motorcyclist's body as far as could be learned.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Sept. 5. — The fifty-sixth annual conference of the United Brethren Church convened in Whittier this evening and will continue in session during the week.

Among eminent speakers will be Bishop W. H. Washington of Portland, Or.; Rev. Henry A. Dowling of Pasadena and Rev. Logan Harter of San Diego, who delivered the opening address. An address of welcome was given by Mayor Charles Cliff, and brief addresses were made by local pastors.

The choir of the Riverside church was in attendance Monday evening and furnished the music under the direction of Prof. J. B. Trowbridge, who is to be in charge of the music during the conference.

AGED MAN A HERO.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Sept. 5.—T. A. Arnfield, an aged Fresnan, was painfully burned about the head this morning while rescuing his crippled grand-daughter from his burning home on Thorne street.

The building was destroyed following the explosion of an oil stove. Arnfield was taken to the Emergency Hospital for treatment and will recover, physicians said.

Another fire which broke out at the same time at the George Rollis home on G street was extinguished after slight damage had been done.

Thousands Take Advantage of Holiday.

All Hotels Filled to Capacity by Visitors.

Tijuana Proves Popular With Many Tourists.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 5.—San Diego held an all-day celebration at Ocean Beach today, beginning at 9 o'clock this morning and continuing until midnight.

Sports of all kinds were held on the beach, with suitable awards for the winners. The speaker of the day was J. P. McGinly. The surf was black with bathers throughout the afternoon, and the pavilion was crowded with dancers in the evening.

Popularity of San Diego with holiday merrymakers was again demonstrated in a most convincing manner by a great number of visitors arriving in the city all day.

Yesterday morning all principal hotels of the city were filled to capacity, and early in the afternoon it was impossible for the arrivals to find accommodations at any of the downtown hotels. Smaller hotels on the outskirts of the business district got the late comers. The Hotel Del Coronado also got its share of the visitors, more than 500 guests being registered there last night.

At all the beaches large crowds enjoyed the bating, bathing, dancing and other outdoor sports.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Sept. 5.—While two deputy sheriffs kept watch through the night, thieves entered the Cummings jewelry store some time between midnight and six o'clock and made away with jewelry valued at $400.

The officers had been told that the burglary would be attempted, but the two who were put on the job failed to arrest the men.

It is said to be the work of local young men and warrants have been issued for the arrest of a pair whose names are being withheld by the officers.

MYSTERY SHOOTING.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENICE, Sept. 5.—Local officers are investigating the strange case of a man being shot by an unknown person and not having even heard the report of the gun which fired the bullet.

P. L. Variquette, who lives at Hillcrest avenue and Pico Boulevard, Palms, was cleaning his automobile in the rear of his residence yesterday morning when a .22 caliber bullet entered his cheek and penetrated his face, coming out on the opposite side. The injured man was treated at St. Catherine Hospital, Santa Monica, and returned to his home.

WAR ON MOTORISTS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENICE, Sept. 5.—Acting on the instructions of Judge Hancock, of the local justice court, motorcycle officers made twenty-six arrests last night of motorists who are said not to have had their machines equipped with proper lights. The arrests were made on Washington Boulevard between Culver City and Venice.

Bail of $5 and $10 was provided in each case and the alleged offenders will appear in Judge Hancock's court at the regular Saturday morning session.

TRYING TO FREE MRS. OBENCHAIN

Schenck to Ask Court to Release Kennedy Murder Suspect on Bail.

Paul W. Schenck, chief attorney for Madalynne Obenchain and Arthur C. Burch, indicted for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, announced yesterday he will file an application for the release of Mrs. Obenchain on bail probably tomorrow. This application will formally ask that the court fix the amount of bail. Judge Walton J. Wood is expected to be on the bench of Department No. 13 during the absence of Judge Reeve, when the applications is made.

The contention of the defense counsel will be that Mrs. Obenchain should be admitted to bail unless the "proof of her guilt is evident, or the presumption thereof is great." That the defense move may force the prosecution to present to the court evidence definitely linking the defendant with first-degree murder is a possibility.

Attaches of the District Attorney's office were not alarmed at the move, however, declaring that the chance of granting bail to either defendant in this case is remote. In many other similar cases applications for bail have been refused, with the judicial comment that to admit to bail a person indicted for premeditated murder would establish a dangerous precedent.

Published reports that Dist.-Atty. Woolwine arrived in Chicago yesterday to investigate eastern angles of the Burch-Obenchain case were discredited by Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Doran. Mr. Woolwine left here Friday night for Sioux City, Iowa. Mr. Doran said, to be present with Attorney John S. Cooper in the taking of depositions in the Rogers bunko case. From Sioux City they will go to Omaha, and then to Chicago, it was said. Attorney Lewis D. Collings of the firm of Cooper, Collings & Shreve, also said that Mr. Woolwine and Mr. Cooper left for Sioux City.

URGE DISARMAMENT WITH RESERVATIONS.

LABOR CONDITIONS IN LATIN-AMERICAN COUNTRIES TOLD AT PARK GATHERING.

A resolution approving disarmament, a message from Samuel Gompers, and speeches, the keynote of which was "America First," were the verbal features of Labor Day as celebrated in Selig Zoo Park yesterday with 5000 persons present.

The disarmament resolution was read by A. B. Hassell, president of the Central Labor Council. It stated that organized labor approves of the idea of disarmament in principle, but that in application this nation should not "be compelled to support the pretensions of foreign governments, either in imperialistic designs or in subjugating small nations or in keeping in subjection nations already deprived of liberty by such governments."

The resolution uttered a protest against the Penrose funding bill on the ground that it is a menace to the welfare of the common people of this country, vesting autocratic power in the hands of the Treasury Department.

Dr. Jose S. Saens, consul for the republics of Cuba and Panama, spoke of labor conditions in the Latin-America countries. He strongly urged the Spanish-speaking people in this country to put on their banner "America First," and to obey its laws.

Antonio Orfilia, Spanish consul, talked on labor conditions in Mexico and said that these conditions show improvement.

Joseph Scott, an attorney, urged co-operation among the laboring people. United States Senator Borah had been announced as a speaker, but was not present.

Two Young Men Die in Fights Against Tide.

Two young men lost their lives yesterday while battling strong tides at south coast beaches.

Gale Wight, age 19 years, well known Riverside High School athlete whose home was at 1448 Orange Grove Avenue, Riverside, died in an attempt to battle a strong rip tide at Laguna Beach. He was visiting at the beach with his brother, Glenn, who is superintendent of schools of Corona. He had gone far beyond the breakers with a party of friends. All returned with the exception of Mr. Wight. He signaled for help but was swept to sea before aid could reach him. The body had not been recovered late last night.

Fred Horner, age 31 years, was carried beyond his depth at Balboa Beach. He lived at 506 West Fifty-fourth street, and had gone with his mother and family for a week-end at the beach. The mother was near when her son sank. Rescuers brought the body to shore and an unsuccessful attempt was made to use a pulmotor. He died a few minutes after having been brought to the beach.

PENNIES PILE UP FOR BABES.

Thousands of Dollars Given in Milk Bottles.

Donations Used to Brighten Little Ones' Lives.

The appeal of the Southern California Child Welfare Service, "Drop a Penny, We Need Many," has found the public responsive, it is shown by the annual report issued yesterday by the organization.

During the year more than $2000 has been donated to its milk fund through the milk bottles which are placed throughout the downtown district by the service. This organization, which has the endorsement of the Social Welfare Commission, has all of its operating expenses provided for in such a way that every penny which is dropped into one of its milk bottles goes to purchase milk for poor children in the city.

For more than a year it has paid all of the expenses for four children at the Maude Booth Home, in addition to carrying on charitable work in many other lines. Among the causes to which it has given aid are: Boys' and Girls' Aid, the Parent-Teacher Association, juvenile protection, crippled children, the Utah Street Maternity Home, the juvenile department of the Parents-Teacher Association and a number of private cases.

MEMBERS ACTIVE.

The organization has twenty-five active members, all of whom are workers. In addition there are a number of honorary members who pay dues of $1 a year, which go toward meeting the operating expenses of the service and make it possible for all that is donated to it by the general public to be applied to charity. Only $196 has been spent on operating expenses by the organization during the last year, most of that amount going into the upkeep of an automobile used in going around to look after the collection bottles and in visiting poorer sections to determine the manner in which the funds available can be most judiciously applied to relieve want and suffering in the community.

AUTOMOBILE DONATED.

Mrs. A. B. Spreckels of San Francisco is the donor of the automobile which is used in this work and is also a generous supporter of the relief fund. Mrs. James H. Forbes gives $25 each year to the maintenance fund.

The officers of the organization, which is attracting an increasing number of honorary members every month, are Mrs. S. Grant Gobcher, president; Dr. Rebecca Lee Dorsey, first vice-president; Mrs. Calvert Wilson, second vice-president; Mrs. Louis Holmes, third vice-president; Mrs. Michael Hurley, secretary and Mrs. R. Carry Jennings, treasurer.

"In the first place," he said, "the enforcement of the existing censorship ordinance would immediately cause a shrinkage of $2v0,vvv in the weekly local pay roll of the industry.

"The provisions of the ordinance would work a financial hardship in the industry. The ordinance provides that a fee of 25 cents per reel be charged for inspection or censorship. But that would not be the only cost involved. It would cost the producers 10 cents a reel to project the pictures for inspection. Add to that a cost of $2 or more for the transportation of each picture from the studio to the place of inspection and back again.

"The very week the ordinance should become effective the producers here in Los Angeles would have to spend $300,000 in inspection, projection and transportation costs.

MILLIONS IN WASTE.

"The direct result would be the expenditure of $300,000,000 in this way all over the country, for about 1000 communities are watching Los Angeles, and if it was discovered that this city, the home of the industry, should find it necessary to censor one of its chief industrial products, then these 1000 communities would follow suit.

"Because of certain conditions in the East that have proved inimical to production there, almost a dozen eastern companies have come to Los Angeles the past month. These are now at work on pictures, and, should Los Angeles become burdened with a censor, much of this work would necessarily cease."

A lengthy letter in which the Los Angeles Theaters' Association, composed of local exhibitors, asks that the motion-picture industry in all its branches be permitted to continue to keep its own house in order, was addressed to Mayor Cryer and the City Council yesterday by Francis R. E. Woodward, the association's secretary.
